Shoup Has Charge of Activities of Subsidiary Corporations.

Is Back in Service Chief Rate Attorney of System.

WIRE TO THE TIMES.] FRANCISCO BUREAU OF TIMES, June 25.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] William F. Herrin, president and chief counsel of Southern Pacific Company, has reorganized the legal department of that rail corporation. reorganization is accepted in circles as a shake-up, although it has resulted in Herrin assigning special duties to each member of the legal department in such manner as to establish practically departments in the legal division, one to which shall be devoted all another to which shall be all general corporation work, a third to which shall be assigned legal work in connection with activities of the subsidiary corporations of the Southern Pacific.

other things, Herrin has in re-engaging Attorney C. Durbrow, who will hereafter be in of all rate cases wherein the Pacific is involved. Durbrow handled the San Joaquin rate for the Southern Pacific, but re a short time before the State Railroad Commission rendered its decision. The exact reasons for Durbrow's resignation were not announced at the time, but he consented upon the request of Herrin to remain with the company until the final details of the San Joaquin legal complications had been attended to. Durbrow, by the new arrangement, returns to the Southern Pacific as chief rate attorney, with George D. Squires as assistant.

MANY ASSIGNMENTS.

J. E. Foulds, who was retired after forty years of service last September on a pension, is succeeded in the legal department by his son, Evan Foulds, who has been assigned to general corporation work.

Peter F. Dunne, who resigned to engage in private practice, is now attending to the Union Pacific-Oregon Short Line merger case before the United States Supreme Court, and has been given the title of special legal representative of the railroad.

Henley C. Booth has been assigned to general corporation work, and is one of the heads of the department to which that particular legal field has been assigned.

Guy Shoup is now the head of the department which looks after the activities of the subsidiary corporations, having been given that detail upon Herrin's return from the East a fortnight ago.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, June 25.—An innovation in woman sufirage tactics developed tonight when an automobile filled with women drew up in Chinatown and one of its occupants, who wore an oriental robe, addressed 500 Chinese on a street corner in their native tongue. There were volleys of Chinese cheers when the speaker, who was introduced as "Mrs. Jean White," reminded her audience that women in China could vote and urged that the men of their race in this country do what they could to secure a like privilege for American women.

"Mrs. White" said she had just arrived here from San Francisco and for eight years had taught school in Canton, China.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, June 25.—An attempt was made by the government today in its suit for the dissolution of the so-called "sugar trust" to show that there was usually concerted action among the heads of the various beet sugar companies on changes in the "differential" between the prices on beet and cane refined sugar.

Thomas R. Cutler, vice-president and general manager of the Utah-Idaho Sugar Company, denied that beet sugar company managements notified each other as to intended differential changes. He also denied that Mr. Havemeyer suggested the idea of consolidating the various companies in Utah and Idaho that now make up the Utah-Idaho Sugar Company.

Mr. Cutler, discussing various phases of the sugar business, said he had been told by the president of a beet sugar factory in Southern California that the entire output was sold to a cane sugar refinery near San Francisco. Mr. Cutler continued that he had grounds for believing this beet sugar was mixed with cane sugar and sold as cane sugar.

REBEL LEADER SAID TO HAVE APPEALED FOR TERMS.

Insurrecto Chief Offers to Surrender, According to Unconfirmed Report From Mexican Capital. Amnesty to Be Offered Political Offenders by Government.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

MEXICO CITY, June 25.—An unconfirmed report was heard here today that Orozco, rebel leader, had communicated to President Madero his willingness to surrender and had asked for terms for himself and men. It is believed the subject was discussed at a Cabinet meeting today.

With this report came the news, from a source heretofore dependable, that amnesty without reservation is to be extended to all political offenders after the expected collapse of the revolution. Orozco and his chiefs, Vasquez Gomez, Bernardo Reyes and scores of others in custody and at large, would profit by the measure.

The administration proposes thus to celebrate the downfall of its enemies and at the same time prove its magnanimity. With the supremacy of the constituted government amply proved, it is argued the administration can afford to forgive its opponents and by doing so, doubtless gain many supporters among the revolutionists.

A proclamation is to be issued by the Federal forces who are in possession of the city of Chihuahua, calling upon all citizens to surrender their arms and renew their allegiance to the central government under a sweeping promise of pardon.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHIHUAHUA, June 25.—Details of another drain by the rebel army on the funds of the American Smelting and Refining Company and the threats against American citizens became public today. With rifles pointed, a detachment of insurrectos headed by a messenger from Gen. Pascual Orozco, appeared two days ago at the office of the American concern in the city of Chihuahua with a quantity of gold ore confiscated from the Naica Mining Company, a Mexican firm.

The American company refused at first to buy the ore, but gave in when threatened with a closing of the plant unless the ore was converted into cash. The amount paid was not divulged.

BRYAN IN THE FIGHT

Loses on the First Test of Strength.

Three Times Candidate Received Five Hundred Ten Votes for Chairman.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BALTIMORE, June 25.—William J. Bryan met defeat at the hands of the Democratic National Convention today, and, in the opinion of many of the party leaders here, eliminated himself from the race for the Presidential nomination.

The vote by which former Judge Alton B. Parker of New York was elected temporary chairman over Mr. Bryan—579 to 510—was interpreted tonight in many ways. The Champ Clark adherents are openly claiming the nomination, and there were many at the convention today who were inclined to agree that it would either be Speaker Clark or a "dark horse."

Talk of Mr. Bryan, however, has not ceased by any means. Some of his friends claim that today's was no test; that many of his most ardent supporters were compelled by circumstances to vote against him as temporary chairman. They claimed, on the other hand, that the vote of 510 given to Mr. Bryan indicated that he held a "veto" power in the convention which put him in a position of dominance as to who should be the nominee.

Many of Speaker Clark's delegates openly threw their support to the anti-Bryan forces. This was regarded as opening a breach between the Speaker and the former nominee which may cause the Bryan supporters to make a bitter fight on Clark. Taken from another angle, the vote of so many Clark adherents for Judge Parker was interpreted as a distinct bid for the support of the conservative element in the convention.

This conservative element, it may be stated, is practically prepared to accept a radical or progressive candidate. They frankly admit that to name a conservative or so-called reactionary would result in strengthening the hands of Col. Theodore Roosevelt in his organization of a third party. This the leaders are anxious to avoid.

POLITICAL WHIRLIGIG.

The turn of political affairs in the last few days is regarded here as having been decidedly favorable to Speaker Clark's candidacy. The straight out Wilson delegates threw their support today solidly to Mr. Bryan in his fight against Judge Parker. This, the leaders figured, would make the conservative element choose Clark in preference to the New Jersey Governor as the progressive candidate.

There was a report abroad tonight that the ninety votes of New York, a controlling factor in the situation, would go to Clark. The report was based largely upon the action of New York today in voting against Bryan. The fact that the Missouri delegation also gave Parker a majority of its votes—22 to 14—quickly called out reports of a coalition of interests between New York and Missouri. This led to talk of Clark for President and a New York man for Vice-President. The man mentioned most prominently in this connection was Senator O'Gorman. There was talk tonight also that the Underwood forces might come into this combination, the plan being that Mr. Underwood should have the Speakership of the House in the event of Mr. Clark's elevation to the Presidency.

Most of the Underwood States are said to be against Mr. Bryan on almost any proposition whatever. Certain it was that most of these States—located in the solid South—voted against Mr. Bryan today.

The Clark people declared tonight that with the New York and Underwood forces united under the Speaker's banner, the latter would have more than the necessary number of votes to nominate.

It seemed certain tonight from the public action of the delegates and their privately expressed views that the Democratic convention will nominate a progressive candidate and adopt a progressive platform.

BRYAN STALWART FACTOR.

Some of the leaders frankly said they resented Mr. Bryan's assumption to dictate the temporary chairmanship. Mr. Bryan, however, remains a stalwart factor in the convention and may be given the authority to write the platform.

CLARK DIVIDES HIS STRENGTH.

His Followers Vote in Two Directions on Test.

Playing Both Ends Against Middle, Say Wilsonites.

BY HENRY W. WALTERS.

[By Federal (Wireless) Line to The Times.]

BALTIMORE, June 25.—[Special Dispatch.] Flirting alternately with Bryan and Tammany, the Clark faction was a house divided against itself on the temporary chairmanship today. This fact is being hammered hard tonight by the Wilson forces, and Representative A. Mitchell Palmer, Pennsylvania lieutenant for the New Jersey candidate, says the vote was a test of the progressiveness of Speaker Clark and Gov. Wilson, and their respective followers.

There are persistent rumors that the Clarkites have made a deal with Tammany whereby New York's votes were promised to the Speaker early in the balloting for the Presidential nominee, contingent upon the delivery of the requisite number of votes to "put over" Judge Parker today.

LINE-UP OF STATES.

Today's line-up indicates that the Clark men are attempting to "play both ends against the middle," and the Wilsonites were quick to make capital of it. The vote of the following Clark States on the temporary chairmanship is illuminative of the ability of the speaker's friends to stay on the top of the fence in an attempt not to make the fellows on either side mad.

Missouri voted 22 for Parker and 14 for Bryan; California 18 for Parker and 7 for Bryan; Massachusetts 18 for Parker and 17 for Bryan; Kentucky 17½ for Parker and 7½ for Bryan, and Iowa 13 each for Parker and Bryan.

These divisions are typical of those in the other so-called Clark States.

The Wilson strength went almost solidly against the Tammany candidates, and the lines are now drawn more taut than ever in the "Wilson against the field" fight.

"Wilson's supporters stood absolutely progressive," said Representative Palmer, with mingled pride and bitterness. "The Clark people split, and no candidate who is willing to have his supporters divide for the sake of expediency on an issue like this has a right to be called a progressive. The vote was a test of the progressiveness of Wilson and Clark, and will be so construed."

MAY ALIENATE BRYAN.

A split between Bryan and Clark seems certain to be the result of the middle-of-the-road action of the Clark delegates in the crucial fight today. The Nebraskan has said repeatedly that he favored the nomination of either Wilson or Clark. If there had been a coalition of the Wilson and Clark strength in the convention today, William J. Bryan would have had a walk-over.

Bryan men are asserting tonight that Clark cannot hope to retain the support of Mr. Bryan by such tactics, especially when Gov. Wilson delivered his entire strength against the reactionary forces.

Unless "Gum Shoe Bill" Stone and the Clark campaign managers have an iron-bound agreement with the Murphy-Sullivan-Taggart combination, the Speaker cannot afford to lose one whit of Bryan's support, for the Presidential nomination is decided by a two-thirds vote, not a majority vote.

It can be stated on high authority that if there had been an agreement between Clark's manager and the Tammany chief, it is of recent origin. Two months ago one of Speaker Clark's friends in the House journeyed to New York to "sound out" the boss. "The message" from the Speaker was delivered. Murphy grunted and said nothing. An echo of the grunt was brought back to Washington, and since that time the Clark managers have been making overtures in the hope of corraling New York's ninety votes.

PREFERS "FAVORITE SON."

For the past month and up to the time of Murphy's arrival in Baltimore, his preference ran to a candidate other than Speaker Clark. A "favorite son" came first, mostly for trading purposes. Representative Underwood stood second, with Gov. Harmon third. At the foot of the list was Gov. Wilson, although Speaker Clark was sandwiched in somewhere and stood a show in the event of failure to name a straight out conservative.

The Clark leaders go about now, however, with a smile of confidence and whisper "keep your eye on New York."

The Clark-Murphy-Hearst combination talk augurs well for a parting of the ways between the Speaker and Mr. Bryan. It further widens the breach between the Wilson and Clark people, who have it in their power to combine and nominate any candidate.

This leads to some gossip here tonight that the final alignment in the convention will be behind a conservative of the Harmon or Underwood type or Gov. Wilson. This type is especially probable in the event there are more than three ballots. If the Speaker is not nominated on three ballots, some of his supporters privately admit, his chances will diminish gradually, and the Bryan issue of progressivism versus conservatism without frills, will be the turning point of the convention.

PRESIDENT CONFIDENT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, June 25.—Henry W. Taft said today just prior to his departure for Europe, that his brother, the President, was firm in the opinion that he would be given a second term. The third party, Mr. Taft predicted, would not detract from the President's strength. Mr. Taft and his wife will be abroad until September.

Mrs. Taft Will Attend.

BALTIMORE, June 25.—[By A. P. Night Wire.] Mrs. Taft, wife of the President, will attend Thursday's session of the convention. She will be the guest of Mrs. Wallace, wife of a delegate from the State of Washington.

BRYAN IN THE FIGHT.

ing to defer to the progressive element.

There was nothing more tangible tonight than talk and claims.

"The result of the balloting on the temporary chairmanship today," said Senator-elect Ollie James of Kentucky, "means but one thing—that Clark will be nominated on the first ballot."

Mr. James was discussed tonight as the probable permanent chairman of the convention. This is in line with the policy of the conservatives to placate the progressives, now that they have defeated Mr. Bryan. His choice would be further evidence of the Clark strength in the convention.

Mr. Bryan was frequently interrupted in his remarks today, and it was regarded as doubtful tonight whether he would get another hearing on any issue involving himself.

Mr. Bryan claimed the right to speak today on the grounds that in three Presidential campaigns he had borne aloft the banner of Democracy as its Presidential nominee. The Democratic party, "a pillar of fire by night for the plain people," now that the dawn had come, should, he declared, be made a "pillar of cloud by day." Mr. Bryan made another point which elicited unbounded enthusiasm from his hearers. He declared that the sinister influences which had been at work in the Republican National Convention at Chicago were operating even more brazenly at Baltimore.

"But," he added, "the Democratic party could not be run by the Ryans nor bought by the Belmonts."

Mr. Bryan plainly was under stress as he made his plea to the convention to turn down the Wall street interests, which he declared were represented in the selection of Judge Parker as temporary chairman. He advocated Senator John W. Kern of Indiana as chairman.

BRYAN'S VAIN FIGHT IS IN HIS BEST VEIN.

Mr. Bryan, proposing the name of John W. Kern of Indiana said that in thus "dissenting from the judgment of our National Committee as expressed in its recommendation, I recognize that the burden of proof is upon me to overthrow the assumption that the committee can claim that it is representing the wishes of this convention and of the party of the nation.

"I remind you that the very fact that this convention has the right to accept or reject that recommendation is conclusive proof that the presumption in favor of this convention is a higher presumption than that in favor of the wisdom of the committee.

"If any of you ask me for my credentials, if any of you inquire why I, a mere delegate to this convention from one of the smaller States, should presume to present a name, and ask you to accept it in place of the name they presented, I beg to tell you, if it needs to be told, that in three campaigns I have been the champion of the Democratic party's principles, and that in three campaigns I have received the vote of six million Democrats.

"If that is not proof that I have the confidence of the party I shall not attempt to furnish proof. Confidence reposed in a human being carries with it certain responsibilities and I should not be worthy of the confidence and the affection that have been showered upon me by the Democrats of this nation if I was not willing to risk humiliation in their defense.

"I recognize that a man cannot carry on a political warfare in defense of the mass of the people for sixteen years without making enemies, and I recognize that there has been no day since the day I was nominated in Chicago when these enemies have not been industrious in their efforts to attack me from every standpoint.

"The fact that I have lived is proof that I have not deserted the people. If for a moment I had forgotten them, they would not have remembered me.

ANNOUNCES HIS TEXT.

"I take for my text this morning the text that the committee has been kind enough to put upon the walls for my use: 'He never sold the truth to serve the hour.' That is the language of the hero of Monticello, and I should not be worthy of the support I have received if I were willing to sell the truth to serve the hour.

"We are told by those who support the committee's recommendation that it is disturbing harmony to oppose their conclusions. Let me free myself from any criticism that any one may have made heretofore or may attempt hereafter. Is there any other delegate in this body of more than ten hundred who tried earlier than I to secure harmony in this convention?

"I began several weeks ago. I announced to the sub-committee that I would not be a candidate for temporary chairman. I might have asked, without presumption at the end of sixteen years of battle, when I find the things I have fought for not only triumphant in my own party, but even in the Republican party, the modest honor of standing before this convention and voicing the rejoicing of my party. But I was more interested in harmony than I was in the chance to speak to this convention. Not only that, but I advised this committee to concentrate the two leading candidates who together have nearly two-thirds of this convention instructed for them and get their approval of some man's nomination that there might be no contest in the convention. What suggestion could I have made more in the interest of harmony than to allow two-thirds of this convention a voice in the selection of its temporary chairman?

"In the discussion before the sub-committee the friends of Mr. Clark and Mr. Wilson were not able to agree; one supported Mr. James and the other supported Mr. Henry, but in the full committee last night the friends of Mr. Wilson joined with the friends of Mr. Clark in the support of Mr. James, Mr. Clark's choice; and yet the committee turned down the joint request thus made. I submit to you that the plan that I presented, the plan that I followed, was the plan for the securing of harmony; and that the plan which the committee followed was not designed to secure harmony.

NO ORDINARY OCCASION.

"This is no ordinary occasion. This is an epoch-making convention. We have had such a struggle as never was seen in politics before. I have been in the center of this fight and I know something of the courage that it has brought forth and something of the sacrifice that has been required.

"I know that men working on the railroads for small wages with but little laid up for their retiring years, have defied the railroad managers and helped us in this progressive fight at the risk of having their bread and butter taken from them. I have known men engaged in business and carrying loans at banks who have been threatened with bankruptcy if they did not sell their citizenship; and yet I have seen them defy these men and walk up and vote on the side of the struggling masses against predatory wealth. I have seen lawyers risking their future, alienating men of large business in order to be the champions of the people; I have seen men who have never made a speech before go out and devote weeks of their time to public speaking because their hearts were stirred. It seems to me that now, when the hour of triumph comes, the song of victory should be sung by one whose heart has been in the fight."

Mr. Bryan then paid cordial tribute to the services of Senator Kern, who, he said, had sacrificed time and strength and money. He declared that Kern "stood with me on that Denver platform that demanded the election of Senators by direct vote of the people, when a Republican National Convention turned it down by a vote of 7 to 1.

"He helped in the fight for an income tax and he has lived to see a President who was opposed to us take that plank out of our platform and put it through a Senate and House, and thirty-four States of the Union have ratified it, and now he is leading the fight in the United States Senate to purge that body of Senator Lorimer, who typifies the supremacy of corruption in politics.

"When I now contrast the candidate presented by the committee, I can do it without impeaching his character or his good intent; but not every man of high character or good intent is a fit man to sound the keynote of a progressive campaign.

"There are seven millions of Republicans in this country, or were at the last election, and I never have doubted that the vast majority of them were men of high character and good intent, but we would not invite one of them to be temporary chairman of our convention.

WRITING HISTORY.

"We are writing history today and this convention is to announce to the country whether this convention will take up the challenge thrown down at Chicago by a convention controlled by predatory wealth, or answer it by putting ourselves under the same control and giving the people no party to represent them.

"We need not deceive ourselves that what is done in a national convention is done in secret. If every member of this convention entered into an agreement of secrecy we still act under the eyes of the representatives of the press, who know not only what we do, but why we do it and who told us to do it.

"I appeal to you. Let the commencement of this convention be such a commencement that the Democrats of this country may raise their heads among their fellow-citizens and say the Democratic party is true to the people. You cannot frighten it with any Ryans nor buy it with your Belmonts.

"If this candidate selected by the committee were an unknown man we would judge him by the forces that are back of him, and not by you gentlemen who may try to convince yourselves that you owe it to the committee to sustain its action even though you believe it a mistake.

"That, my friends, is not the question. We know who the candidate is as well as the men behind him. We know that he is the man chosen eight years ago when the Democratic party, beaten in two campaigns, decided that it was worth while to try to win a campaign under the leadership of those who had defeated us in the campaign before. The country has not forgotten that that convention was influenced to its act by the promise of large campaign funds from Wall street and they have not forgotten the fact that after the corruption management had alienated the rank and file of the party Wall street threw the party down and elected the other man.

"They have not forgotten that when the vote was counted we had a million and a quarter less votes than we had in the two campaigns before, and a million and a quarter less than we did the campaign four years afterward. They have not forgotten that it is the same man backed by the same influence that is to be forced on this convention to open a progressive campaign with a paralyzing speech that will dishearten every man.

GREAT EDUCATIONAL AGE.

"You ask me how I know that that speech would not be satisfactory with reading it? Let me tell you, it is the man and not the words that makes a speech.

"We have been passing through a great educational age and the Democratic movement has been sweeping all obstacles before it around the world. In Russia, emancipated serfs have secured the right to a voice in their government. In Persia a people have secured a constitution. In Turkey the man who was in danger every hour of being cast into prison without an indictment, or beheaded without a charge against him, now has some influence in the making of the laws. And China, the sleeping giant of the Orient, has risen from a slumber of 2000 years and today is a republic waiting for recognition.

"And, while the outside world has been marching at double quick in the direction of more complete freedom, our nation has kept step and on no other part of God's footstool has popular government grown more rapidly. In every State the fight has been waged.

"The man whom I present has been the leader of the progressive cause in his State and once joint leader in the nation. I challenge you to find in sixteen years where the candidate presented by the committee has before an election gone out and rendered effective service in behalf of any man who was fighting the people's cause against plutocracy.

"This is the situation that we have to meet. The Democratic party has led in this fight until its action has stimulated a host of Republicans to imitation. I will not say they have acted as they have because we acted first; I would rather say that they, at a later hour than we, have caught the spirit of the time and are now willing to trust the people with the control of their own government.

"We have been traveling in the wilderness. We now come in sight of the promised land. During all the weary hours of darkness, progressive Democracy has been the people's pillar of fire by night. I pray you delegates, now that the dawn has come, do not rob our party of the right, so well earned, to be the people's pillar of cloud by day."

KERN PRECIPITATES DRAMATIC SITUATION.

Mr. Kern, taking the floor from the Nebraskan, dramatically called upon Judge Parker to withdraw from the fight and in the interest of harmony to throw his support to any one of half a dozen progressives named by the Bryan sympathizers. There was no immediate response to his challenge and Mr. Kern then declared that as it was a fight to the death between the interests and the people, Mr. Bryan was the only person fitted to bear the brunt for the people. In behalf of Judge Parker it was said later that as he had not sought the office at the hands of the National Committee and had taken no part in the fight, he felt he had no right to withdraw.

Mr. Bryan left the convention hall by a rear entrance soon after the vote on the temporary chairmanship was announced and resumed conferences in his rooms. Tonight he said:

"The vote showed the attitude of the convention and my speech shows my view on the subject. I have no statement to make. I await developments without impatience. I do not know of anything that needs to be added."

The Nebraskan did not attend the night session of the convention to hear Judge Parker's speech, but remained in his rooms to attend to correspondence and confer with his friends. He was apparently in cheerful humor, notwithstanding his defeat.

"Will you carry on the fight for the progressives on the floor of the convention?" he was asked.

"I hope to be at the convention, but I do not care to outline any programme."

He refused to discuss whether he would propose any planks, and denied that any requests for particular planks had been made upon him by western delegates.

"Some have suggested that your experience today might make you less interested in the present convention?"

"I can tell you from time to time what degree of interest I may take without outlining it in advance."

"But you are going to stay here, are you not?"

"Well, we had to pay for these rooms for five days, and I guess we will get our money's worth by occupying them."

DISORDERLY SESSION.

The first session of the convention which marked the defeat of Mr. Bryan was a noisy and disorderly one. Soon after the opening prayer by Cardinal Gibbons the lines between Bryan and anti-Bryan forces tightened almost to the breaking point.

Mr. Bryan was given an enthusiastic greeting both from the floor and from the galleries, when he made his first appearance and began his speech of protest against Judge Parker. He had not proceeded far, however, before interruptions began to be hurled at him. Senator Kern was accorded treatment even less courteous.

Thenceforward no man who faced the convention was safe from catcalls, hisses and noise making. When Judge Parker began his "keynote" speech, the disorder was so great a recess was taken until 8 o'clock tonight, when he resumed his discussion of party principles and his denunciation of the Chicago Republican convention as one of the most disgraceful exhibitions in the political history of the country.

Mayor Gaynor of New York was talked of late tonight as a possible running mate for Champ Clark in the event of the latter's nomination.

For the permanent chairmanship, Senator Culberson of Texas and Senator Kern of Indiana were discussed in addition to Mr. James, but opinion generally seemed to center on the latter.

Doomed?

MURPHY IN CONTROL; BRYAN'S FATE SEALED.

Expert Believes Nebraskan's Chance at Nomination Is Gone With Defeat by Parker—Temporary Chairman Forced to Adjourn When No One Would Wait to Listen to Keynote Address.

BY GEORGE GRISWOLD HILL.

[BY FEDERAL (WIRELESS) LINE TO THE TIMES.]

BALTIMORE BUREAU OF THE TIMES, June 25.—[Special Dispatch.] William Jennings Bryan will not be the Presidential candidate of the Democratic party this year. Charles Murphy of Tammany Hall controls a majority in the convention, although it is not of sufficient magnitude to make him independent of the radical wing of the party.

The struggle of Champ Clark delegates, who divided their votes between Murphy's candidate, Judge Parker, and Col. Bryan, it is believed will result in Bryan's throwing his influence to Gov. Woodrow Wilson. The fight on the temporary chairmanship stood 579 for Parker to 506 for Bryan, three for O'Gorman and one and a half for Kern. These seem to be the salient results of the Democratic National Convention.

The convention, which was characterized by much disorder, refused to listen to Judge Parker's formal speech as temporary chairman, and after the New Yorker had made a wholly ineffective attempt to make himself heard, as delegates and visitors moved toward the exits, it was decided to adjourn the convention until 8 p.m. to give the New Yorker another chance.

For a considerable time Mr. Bryan has suspected that Champ Clark was not a "genuine progressive," as he expressed it, and today's vote convinced him that the Pancake county statesman is a "progressive for revenue only." That is, revenue in the form of progressive support.

There is a genuine impression here tonight that Oscar Underwood is as much out of the running as are Gov. Harmon, Gov. Marshall and the various other little favorite sons, and that the contest is narrowed down to two men—Gov. Wilson and Champ Clark.

Many believe that Charley Murphy will throw his hand-picked delegation from the Empire State to the "houn' dawg" here, while Bryan throws his to Gov. Wilson. The Gaynor shouters believe this will result in a deadlock which will insure the nomination of their man. It is obvious that while Murphy was able to influence a majority of the delegates today, he far from controls the two-thirds necessary to nominate and he may have to treat with Bryan further before final decision on a candidate is made. In this connection, the selection of Col. Bryan for permanent chairman is receiving some consideration.

The Old Guard earnestly deprecates the suggestion that today's vote constituted an actual repudiation of Bryan, and urged the view that is was merely the result of impatience because of the peerless leader's insistent efforts to dictate every detail of the convention. There is no doubt, however, that the old guard was extremely unwilling that the Nebraskan should achieve a material and spectacular victory to his credit, fearing the Nebraskan would endeavor to gain and maintain full control of the convention, giving place to a permanent chairman only, to reappear immediately afterwards, in the role of a candidate for the Presidential nomination. There is eminent satisfaction, therefore, over Bryan's defeat which brings with it relief from the apprehension that Bryan might capture the nomination.

LOSING HIS GRIP.

That William J. Bryan has lost his power to sway conventions by his oratory, or perhaps that conventions are no longer to be stampeded by such speeches as that which won for the Nebraskan his first nomination in 1896, seemed to be pretty clearly indicated today. Bryan spoke well, and at times approached eloquence, and he did not fail to make the most of his position, but not only did he fail to sway the delegates, but he was frequently interrupted with shouts of "Parker," which compelled him to suspend until the chairman and the clerk could restore order. In the old days it would have been possible to hear the drop of the proverbial pin, but today Bryan never succeeded in holding the audience spellbound as he has done so many times.

From the standpoint of Parker, Bryan was unkind, not that he said such unkind things, but that he satiated the appetite for oratory of both delegates and guests. No speaker who came after the Nebraskan had much show, and when the fight was ended and Parker had been elected chairman, the crowd was ready to go home. Then the New Yorker mounted the platform, placed his right hand in the breast of the nicely-pressed frock coat, gazed a moment at his patent-leather shoes and made his bow. It was evident that he was about to deliver himself of some creditable oration, and right there that crowd got up and fled. In vain did the chairman rap for order. In vain did the reading clerks bellow through megaphones that the convention was not adjourned.

NONE WANTED TO HEAR.

No one was especially anxious that it should adjourn. In fact, no one cared whether it adjourned or not. The crowd was bent on gaining rest and refreshments and delegates and guests alike went on their way perfectly content that the successful New Yorker should finish his speech to empty benches. Unfortunately for them, however, he was not. He declined to go on amid the hubbub and suggested that adjournment be taken till evening and it was, but it is doubtful if there were a dozen responses to the motion to adjourn, aside from those which came from the stage.

BRYAN IS DISGRUNTLED

Bryan is not in an amiable frame of mind this evening. He has been the happy recipient of more than one advance from the Missouri statesman, who, in the most dulcet tones, has sung in the ears of the great Commoner the song of his own progressiveness and with a judicious admixture of flattery, has gently intimated that purely in the interest of harmony, it might be well for Col. Bryan to set at rest the ambitions of such lesser statesmen as Woodrow Wilson, Oscar Underwood, Judson Harmon and others by coming out squarely and forcefully for the only Simon pure, dyed-in-the-blood and blown-in-the bottle progressive, the Honorable Champ Clark of Pike county, Mo.

To say that Bryan is glad he didn't, is to put it mildly. In fact, he seems to be convinced this evening that Clark is a reactionary of the most objectionable type, who is prepared to do the bidding of Charley Murphy and of Charley Murphy's boss, Thomas Fortune Ryan, and that his nomination would be a reversion to all that is evil in the Democratic party, to those forces of plutocracy, which Bryan, at such infinite self-sacrifice, has fought so effectively during the last sixteen years.

It is barely possible that things generally, and Champ Clark in particular, may not look quite so black to Bryan when the humiliation of today has been softened by a night's rest and when the rain clouds, which have made Baltimore anything but a nice place to be in today, have all blown away, but the supporters of Woodrow Wilson, at least, do not believe it, and probably they are right.

J. HAM LEWIS SPEAKS.

"The platform is the thing. That is all that counts," remarked that perpetually youthful statesman, Col. James Hamilton Lewis of Chicago tonight. "We will have a platform so progressive that it will make the eyes of your plutocrats and reactionary Republicans—and some Democrats in New York—stand out."

Then Col. Lewis, he of the pink whiskers, proceeded to outline a little plank of his own, which he proposes to urge the Committee on Resolutions to incorporate in the party pronouncements. This plank declares that the Federal government should prescribe a minimum wage scale for the employees of all public service corporations, such minimum to be determined by the Interstate Commerce Commission. It was necessary to admit that if the Democrats did incorporate such a plank, it would make the eyes of a good many people stand out—but they won't.

Parker's declaration that "there is no such thing as a reactionary in the Democratic party, because all Democrats are progressive," was greeted with manifestations of cordial approval from the New York contingent and his thrusts at Col. Roosevelt were most heartily applauded.

"MACHINE DID NOT SKID."

BRYAN WAXES FACETIOUS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BALTIMORE, June 25.—While talking with some friends tonight over the temporary chairmanship fight, Mr. Bryan remarked: "Well, the machine did not skid."

"But that is not saying that it will not," was suggested.

"I have not the gift of prophecy," said Mr. Bryan, "but I have a knowledge of history."

Mr. Bryan left the hotel at 10 o'clock tonight with his family to attend a reception given by Mayor Preston to visiting delegates. Mr. Bryan learned that there would be no meeting of the platform committee until tomorrow and planned to spend the night at Mayor Preston's home.

As Mr. Bryan edged his way through the swarming crowds in the corridors of the hotel to his automobile, he was given an impromptu reception by the delegates and visitors.

DECLARES FOR SUFFRAGE.

Candidate Sends Word Through "The Times."

Thinks Ballot Should Not Be Made Convention Issue.

Biennial Meeting of Club Women Opens.

BY MYRA NYE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, June 25.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] "Who said in Los Angeles I was anti-suffrage?"

This is the pertinent question Mrs. Percy V. Pennybacker asked this [illegible] when Mrs. Clara Bryant-[illegible] of Pasadena, an intimate friend of Mrs. Pennybacker, introduced [illegible] as soon as the Los Angeles delegation reached the Palace Hotel, the biennial headquarters. She answered her own question. "I know of no one who started that report unless it was the New York delegation.

"Say to the great body of club women throughout the Southwest who read your paper, exactly this: I believe heartily in woman's suffrage, to me it is the only just and logical position, but since the general federation is made up from all sections from all religious creeds and political beliefs, that suffrage should not be made an issue at this convention."

There can be no doubt that the universal topic of conversation at this early in the convention is the choice for President. These 5000 women at San Francisco represent over one million club women from all of the world and California is up and down the middle of the world.

ISSUE IS LOST.

The false report that Mrs. Pennybacker was an anti-suffragist seemed to create an issue, but now that the [illegible] is removed, it sifts down in spite of the slogan at Paso Robles, "Issues, not personalities," to the latter. And what is more interesting than such [illegible] capable personality as both candidates possess. The chief difference seems to be the unique way each woman pronounces her vowels at this biennial.

The special from Los Angeles arrived exactly on time and such gratitude is expressed for Mrs. Alfred [illegible]'s capable work in conducting the excursion, that Mrs. W. C. [illegible] says that the Sunshine Club, of which Mrs. Santer is a member in Los Angeles, a club that receives no [illegible] but simply scatters sunshine, is [illegible] given as a token of gratitude a [illegible] of meeting at the Friday morning [illegible].

The first real getting-together of the brilliant club women was at the president's and chairman's council where brilliant electricity effaced all gloom. Nothing of keen interest occurred except the interest in [illegible] of the 400 women in the [illegible]. It was ostensibly a discussion of proposed amendments and by-laws, in reality it was an effort to find out who's who and who will [illegible], who knows something [illegible] to say it, what size are the [illegible] in the little puddle going in this biennial pool.

Following the council, the Pacific Coast Women's Press Association gave a delightful breakfast at the [illegible] to the press women of the [illegible]. Arrangements had been made for 175 with place programmes, [illegible] hand-decorated, but 235 came and the San Francisco committee was equal to the occasion.

MRS. MOORE TALKS.

Mrs. Herman Martin, who writes stories and book reviews for [illegible], presided as toastmaster. Mrs. Philip N. Moore, president of the biennial, said in her toast: "When I started this work I greatly feared the press women, now I regard them as my best friends."

Mrs. C. H. McMahon, chairman of the Press Committee, biennial, advised the club women to tell the reporters the truth just as they would tell their doctors or lawyers.

A gracious letter from Madame [illegible] of Los Angeles elicited applause.

Mrs. E. J. Dennison responded to "A Word at Home," Mrs. [illegible] "Our State;" Mrs. W. C. [illegible], who teaches others to write, [illegible] her subject, "A Word to the [illegible]." The word was work;" Mrs. Abbie E. Krebs, "Conservative [illegible]," that, she said, was the [illegible] of William Cullen Bryant and Horace Greely, but now it is a thing of the past; everything must be [illegible], and, indeed, at the biennial the limelight is everywhere in [illegible].

Each woman kept within her limit of [illegible] minutes. John Brisben Walker struggled for a half hour with the subject "Peace for the World," and the breakfast was finished at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

[illegible] some of the cleverest [illegible] during the whole day were [illegible] conference at convention [illegible] press women from Illinois, North Carolina, Ohio, Pennsylvania, California, spoke, with Mrs. [illegible] presiding at an informal reception at the Palace Hotel. Los [illegible] district badges were greatly [illegible]

The lowest bidder in each case received the award. Work must be commenced in fifteen days, under the terms of the contracts. The [illegible] of the four strips is [illegible]

F. R. Ritchie & Co. of San Francisco received the contract for the construction of a 5.4-mile strip of roadway from South San Francisco to Burlingame, the bid for which was $8368.

The General Contracting Corporation of San Francisco received the contract for the thirteen-mile stretch of roadway from the south boundary of Mendocino county to Hopland, for $67,425.

Thousands of Delegates Present at Opening of Eleventh Convention in San Francisco—Council Vetoes Proposed Changes in Directorate and Officers.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, June 25.—The aims and ambitions of 900,000 club-women of this country, who are striving for the moral and social uplift and the welfare of women and children especially, and of humanity in general, were represented at the Sutter-street pavilion tonight, when Mrs. Philip N. Moore of St. Louis called the eleventh biennial convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs to order.

The great hall was beautifully decorated with flowers and evergreens, and the thousands of delegates and visitors were in resplendent gowns.

An invocation was delivered by Dr. Luella Clay Carson. This was followed by addresses of welcome—Mrs. E. G. Denniston for the clubs; Mrs. R. C. McCredie of Washington, for the Northwest; Mrs. Agnes McKee Wallace of Arizona for the Pacific Southwest; Mrs. C. H. McMahon of Utah for the intermountain States; and Mrs. Josiah E. Cowles of Los Angeles for California; Mayor James Rolph, Jr., for the city; and a representative of Gov. Johnson for the State.

President Moore responded for the General Federation. The programme closed with the singing of America, in which the audience joined.

The council of the Federation met today to consider proposed revisions of the by-laws. The council decided against the change of the directorate from fifteen to fifty, also against the proposed increase of vice-presidents from two to five.

The press women attending the convention were guests at a luncheon given by the San Francisco Women's Press Association. The national officers of the Federation also were present.

A reception was held in the Palace Hotel, in which the delegates were invited to meet the general officers of the General Federation.

The first conference of the session was held this afternoon—the "press conference"—at which the visiting newspaper women and those of the San Francisco press joined in the discussion. Mrs. McMahon of Utah presided. Several of the speakers wittily criticised the manner in which the "women's pages" in newspapers were being conducted, and the subjects which were presented as mental food for the readers. There were discussions also as to the proper treatment of news and special features from the woman's point of view. The audience was much amused at the criticism leveled at leading women's publications, whose features were described as being too light and frothy and were far from the standard demanded by women.

DEMOCRATS TRY TO "RAILROAD" UNITED STATES SENATOR.

Nevada Politicians Ask Lieutenant-Governor to Steal March on Republicans by Taking Advantage of Governor's Absence From State but Plans Are Scored.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CARSON (Nev.) June 25.—Gov. Tasker L. Oddie and George Wingfield, recently appointed, but not formally qualified to fill the vacancy in the United States Senate caused by the death of Senator George S. Nixon, crossed the boundaries of the State today, and Mr. Wingfield thereby nearly lost the chance to don his toga. That he did not was due to the refusal of Lieut.-Gov. Gilbert Ross, a Democrat, to accede to the wishes of a group of politicians, who attempted to railroad a Democrat into the Senate as a successor to the late Senator Nixon, a Republican. Gov. Oddie and Mr. Wingfield are Republicans.

Learning that the Governor was out of the State, opponents of Wingfield hastily consulted attorneys, and finding their view that a vacancy in the Senate still existed, they thereupon called upon acting Gov. Ross, who promptly declined to act.

"I do not believe in snap judgments in political matters," said Mr. Ross, "nor do I know of a Democrat qualified for the position who would take advantage of the circumstances to defeat the Governor's wishes. Why should we jockey for such small advantage when we will regularly elect a Democrat this fall who will go to Washington with the solid vote of the people behind him?"

A Democratic Legislature elected Senator Nixon in accordance with a direct preferential vote in which Nixon defeated Key Pittman.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PORTLAND (Or.) June 25.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Pictures taken at Placerville, Cal., of the body claimed to be that of W. E. DeLarm, head of the Columbia River Land and Orchard Company, who disappeared suddenly when investigation showed the company to be bankrupt, were practically identified today by A. J. Beall, who was associated with DeLarm in the promotion of the company.

The pictures were taken because doubt had been expressed whether DeLarm was really dead. There is still a disposition among some of those who lost money through the schemes of DeLarm to believe that the body at Placerville was represented as DeLarm's. Mr. Beall said he was sure the picture was that of the missing man.

WILD CATS ARE PLENTIFUL.

Escondido Hunters Bring Down the Sixteenth of Its Kind in a Few Weeks' Hunting.

ESCONDIDO, June 25.—Hunting is good at Vista, a little village half way between Oceanside and this city. On Saturday a party brought in a twenty-one pound wild cat, the sixteenth of its kind killed since January 1 of the present year. In the party were William, John and Phil Strickler, Frank Coleman, Manuel Fiestlin, L. E. Graves and James Tutt.

The cat was discovered in a willow tree in Vista Canyon. The dogs, eight in number, were held back until some of the hunters had shaken the cat off the tree. Then they promptly treed the cat a second time. Upon a second dislodgement, the wild cat was killed.

At a mass meeting of citizens last evening the following committee on Grape Day was named: W. E. Alexander, W. H. Baldridge, J. H. Heath, Dr. J. V. Larzalere, H. W. Beers, Sig Steiner, Dr. E. B. Buell, N. E. Robinson, G. W. Wisdom, W. L. Ramey. Last year the committee spent nearly $2000 in entertaining visitors in the celebration of the muscatel harvest. It is proposed to have a bigger affair than ever this year. September 9 is the date of the celebration.

RECLAMATION BOARD ACTS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SACRAMENTO, June 25.—Acting on the first application that has come before it, the State Reclamation Board today granted permission to the organizers of Reclamation District No. 1002, known as the Ehrhardt district, to proceed with their plans of reclamation. It was found after a full hearing of the application that the plans of the district, which embraces 7200 acres lying between the tracks of the Western Pacific and the Sacramento Southern, and bounded on the south by the Mokelumne River, will not in any way interfere with flood control

VISALIA.

VISALIA, June 25.—Articles of incorporation have been filed with the County Clerk of the Railway Realty Company, which will deal in Tulare county lands and of which the capital authorized is $1,000,000. The chief activity of the company will be the subdivision of large tracts of land into tracts which will be suitable for deciduous and citrus fruit culture.

BIG LAND DEAL.

DINUBA, June 25.—One of the largest land deals in the history of this district and one which is of particular interest as marking the end of the large ranches of this section of California, was the sale of the 6000-acre Sand Creek ranch to a syndicate of Southern California men, headed by E. M. Sheridan of Santa Barbara.

Bowels Are Basis of Child Health

The careful mother, who watches closely the physical peculiarities of her children, will soon discover that the most important thing in connection with a child's constant good health is to keep the bowels regularly open. Sluggish bowels will be followed by loss of appetite, restlessness during sleep, irritability and a dozen and one similar evidences of physical disorder.

At the first sign of such disorder give the child a teaspoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at night on retiring and repeat the dose the following night if necessary—more than that will scarcely be needed. You will find that the child will recover its accustomed good spirits at once and will eat, and sleep normally.

This remedy is a vast improvement over salts, cathartics, laxative waters and similar things, which are altogether too powerful for a child. It is really more than a laxative, for it contains superior tonic properties which help to tone and strengthen the stomach, liver and bowels so that after a brief use of it all laxatives can be dispensed with and nature will do its own work.

Anyone wishing to make a trial of this remedy before buying it in the regular way of a druggist at fifty cents or one dollar a large bottle (family size) can have a sample bottle sent to the home free of charge by simply addressing Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 405 Washington street, Monticello, Ill. Your name and address on a postal card will do.

"On th' other hand, th' profissional doesn't look on it as a spoort at all, but as hard wurruk. He has to be good at it or he cuddent stay.

"He bangs away fr'm mornin' to eve, or, to speak more correctly, fr'm eve to morn, an' whin th' two kinds comes to a clinch niver bet but wan way. IN MURPHY'S BEDROOM.

"What time did th' convintion meet? Th' convintion was called to ordher four years ago an' adjourned last night at a quarther to twelve o'clock in Charles Murphy's bedroom. Th' platform, th' candydate, an' other minor detaails will be settled tomorrow, or th' nix' day, whin th' public will see a fine uphill fight put up be th' amachoors.

"They always make a betther showin' in th' Dimmycrat convintion, because they're young fellows fr'm th' South an' West, an' they have betther profissyional coachers than th' Republicans. But 'twill be th' same thing it's always been since I was a boy, an' first poked me head into a convintion hall.

"What happened today? Th' convintion was called to ordher be th' chairman iv th' Naytonal Comity an' th' polis, who had to put ou iv th' hall a barytone soloist fr'm th' Matsachoosetts Initiative an' Rifrundum Glee Club. "While panjymonym was ragin' a tall, broad-shouldered man, whose hed had been wore bald be bumpin' agin th' citydels iv wealth, was seen climbin' on th' platform. I'll let ye guess who is was, indeed, it was he.

"Our hero is somewhat aged, it's thrue, since first we met, but he is still a fine figure iv a man, looking', so th' pa-apers say, like a Roman sinitor, wavin' his pa-am leaf fan an' beseechin' th' dillygates to stop cheerin' whin they ar-re ready to. Whin he had finaly calmed thim down, be givin' thim a reproochful look f'r their poor stayin' powers, he launched, says this pa-aper, a phillipic agin th' enthrenched power iv priv'lege. I don't know what a phillipic is, but Hogan says it's a kind iv a speech an' that th' first man who made wan was giv' a dhrink be his rile masther to stop his talkin'.

"Whin Willum Jennins hurled his speech, I looked to see me frind, Thomas F. Ryan, come for'ard with a pan iv refrishmint in his hand f'r th' orator. But he didn't. He was settin' on half a chair in th' Virginya dillygation, an' him with money enought to buy all th' furniture in th' old diminyon an' not mind it. 'Tis sthrange how parsymonyous people can become. He had on'y half th' chair, but I suppose that's all he wanted. If he'd wanted th' rest, th' other half iv a dillygate wud be standin' in th' aisle.

"What did Willum Jennins say? Read it in th' pa-apers. What pa-apers? I don't care. Tomarrah's pa-apers. Yisterdah's pa-apers, Last year's pa-apers. Th' pa-apers iv eighteen ninetysix. In all thim vallyble publications ye'll find this noble effort. I will always love it. I always have loved it. I can't hear it often enough, although I may."

LOROLS CAUSE HEADACHE.

"At th' end iv this outburst iv rale iloquence, he inthrajooced as his candydate th' Hon'rable John Kern, iv Indiaynna. Sinitor Kern thrust the honor away fr'm him. Much as he appreciated th' honor, th' lorols iv a timpry chairmanship always giv him a sick headache. He wud not, aven f'r so gr-reat an honor, incur th' inmity iv ayther pa-arty in this momenchous sthruggle. At least, both of thim was his friends. He appealed to Alton B. Parker, in the inthrests of peace, iv harmony, iv pathrism to retire. Alton B. Parker turned to Charles Murphy an' thin manfully facin' th' speaker, refused.

"Th' orator, or betther still, th' Sinitor, thin got down to business an' appealed to Char-rles Murphy. 'I didn't catch th' names,' says Char-rles to Roger Sullivan. 'Is he mentionin' some compromise candidates?'

"'No,' says Roger. 'Thim ar-re a group iv Indynnay sintiments. Look at these figures. Am I right? I make it five seventy-eight.'

"'It's a five sivinty-nine,' says Char-rles. 'Wan iv our delegates fr'm Connecticut has gone out f'r a dhrink,' he says.

"So failin' in his appeal, th' Sinitor nommynated Willum Jennins Bryan, who accepted be foorce iv habit. Befur he cud withdraw, th' vote was on. Will ye believe it, Hinnissy, it come out just as Char'rles said. How d'ye suppose he guessed it?"

"An' so in his sthruggle against preedytory wealth, Willum Jennins Bryan got another bump. Preedytory wealth is a gr-reat champeen. It rowled Tiddy Rosenfelt lasht week in Chicago in sivin hours an' today it put Willum Jennins down in less than four hours, if ye take time out f'r th' prayer. I don't say, mind ye, he's down finally, but I've got to give th' first fall to ol' preedytory.

"We'll see what happens tomorrah. I read that it's rumored Willum Jennins is going to issue a jint challenge f'r himsilf an' Tiddy Rosenfelt against preedytory wealth. If they'd both get on his back, they might down him."

"Willum Jennins Bryan is all right," said Mr. Hennessy. "What d'ye suppose thim millyonaires are doin' in Baltymore?"

HUNDRED THOUSAND MARK IS PASSED IN MISSOURI.

Spirited Reception and Powerful Impetus Given "The Times" Ocean-to-Ocean Auto at Historic Booneville, Where Emigrants Ferried Oxen Across Mighty River en Route to California—Movement Acclaimed.

BY BERT C. SMITH.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

COLUMBUS (Mo.) June 25.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] One hundred thousand members of the Ocean-to-Ocean Highway Association and 564 to spare, are in line tonight in the movement for a national highway. The big figure was reached in Booneville, on the Missouri River—at the parting of the ways between the old Santa Fe and the Boonelick trails.

Never was a more historical setting arranged for a mass meeting than that planned for the grand rally of the Missouri army of fighters, which really is to take up the battle in earnest. Booneville is the point on the big river where the ox-teams were ferried across the water in the journey from the East to the West.

EMIGRANT DAYS RECALLED.

Up the long hill leading from the banks of the Missouri the yoked oxen hauled the wagons which the emigrants were driving through Kansas, Colorado, New Mexico and Arizona to California.

When Miss Gertrude Gosgrove, daughter of Col. John Cosgrove, former Congressman from Missouri, and one of the ablest jurists of this State, met The Times car eighteen miles out on the highway, some inkling was had of the reception planned for The Times car and its crew. With Miss Cosgrove was Mrs. Adelaide E. Stephenson, of a well known southern family; Mrs. Pensacola Million, a society matron; and Mrs. Nancy Lincoln Wallace, one of the most prominent daughters of the Revolution.

The big 1912 Velie car which carried the women was decorated with the Stars and Stripes, and was given the place of honor in the procession which was formed of twenty cars. The Times machine was piloted into the gate city of the Santa Fe and Boonelick trails.

Business men, mill owners and farmers, several hundred in number, waited at the gates of the city for the pageant of motor cars, and the brass band was then given first place and the cars were driven along the paved streets.

At the dinner the purpose for which The Times organization car is being driven over the Santa Fe and Boonelick trails was explained by Col. Dell M. Potter, national organizer for the Ocean-to-Ocean Highway Association.

POLITICS ABJURED.

By common consent the meeting was held on the lawn of the largest hotel, and the veranda was used as a rostrum. Judge J. M. Low, president of the National Old Trail Association, who is making the trip in The Times car, was the chief speaker. Judge Low is well known throughout Missouri. In a forceful address he struck straight home by declaring that the 100,000 members of the national highway movement are independent of any political organization.

With a mighty cheer the organization at Booneville was formed, with Capt. C. E. Leonard, as president; Hon. C. A. Sombart, vice-president; M. E. Schmidt, secretary; and Col. John C. Elliot, treasurer. These men are either wealthy land owners or merchants, and after having made a pledge that brought the total to 100,000 members, they served up extra 564 for good measure, and stated that this pledge is only half of the money Booneville will raise. This means more than $100,000 in cash, which can be used in this campaign for a national highway over the old Santa Fe trail.

TURNS A SURPRISE.

With the organization formed and with everybody in Booneville cheering for the good-roads movement, it remained for Col. Cosgrove to spring the greatest surprise of the day. There is no bridge over the Missouri River at Booneville. The ferry must be used in order to reach the opposite bank of the mighty stream, which so silently flows down to the Mississippi.

The people of Missouri need a bridge. They are to have one. With the meeting about to be adjourned, Col. Cosgrove came forward and was given the rostrum.

"The Legislature of the State of Missouri," said Col. Cosgrove, "has determined to take up the question of a bridge across the Missouri River at this point, and I am empowered to make the announcement at this meeting this afternoon that the bridge will be built by this State, and that the Santa Fe and the Boonelick trails will be joined without the use of the ferry."

ENTHUSIASM BREAKS OUT.

Pent-up enthusiasm was turned loose. The southern belles and the quiet business men forgot their usual calm, and cheer after cheer was flung across the Missouri to the opposite bank, where the people in old Franklin could hear the demonstration. This means that Booneville and old Franklin, two of the most historic points on the old transcontinental trail, are to be joined by a big span. It means more than this. The National Highway movement has been given one of its biggest impulses by the announcement made today.

The fact that A. L. Westergard had started a trip from New York to San Francisco by way of the Oregon trail has caused men along the Santa Fe to get into the harness with an even mightier effort. The National Highway is to be built from Los Angeles to New York. The men of the Middle West are in line for a fierce fight.

When it was announced this afternoon that one of the Congressmen from the northern end of Missouri had been won over to the Oregon trail movement, an excited speaker declared that that Congressman had decided, not for the Oregon trail, but to retire to private life.

PEOPLE ARE ALERT.

"We'll hang his political hide so high that he will never reach it again," was the comment.

The north-trail movement was started a week ago. When it was known that The Times car was to be sent over the old Santa Fe trail, on an organization tour, the people of the North and West got busy. Westergard was given a pathfinder car, and he is now in Minnesota mapping the route, but he will only have begun his great task when The Times car his finished the organization tour, with an army of at least 200,000 road boosters carrying the banner of the ocean-to-ocean highway movement.

One of the incidents of today's trip came soon after crossing the Missouri River and when the car was far out on the country road. It was hot, intensely hot, and the water bags were empty.

Just as the machine swung around a corner a pretty woman hailed the automobile. It was Mrs. J. A. Maxwell, of Fayette, Mo., who with her husband had carried ice water, sweet cider and ice cream thirteen miles to meet The Times car and offer refreshments to the roadmen. Mrs. Maxwell comes of one of the old southern families, and is heiress to one of the richest farms in Central Missouri.

AFFIRMS BOND VALIDITY.

SEATTLE, June 25.—The last obstacle in the way of the construction of Seattle's municipal street railway was removed today when the State Supreme Court affirmed the validity of an $800,000 bond issue voted for construction. On two offerings of the bonds banks refused to submit bids until some court had passed on their validity. A test case resulted in which residents friendly to the issuance sought to enjoin, in order to test the validity. Nearly three months ago the Board of Public Works awarded a contract for the construction of a portion of the line. Bids have been held in abeyance until the validity of the bonds should be settled. The action of the Supreme Court today will result in the council calling for bids. Condemnation proceedings are already pending for acquirement of all the properties of the Seattle, Renton and Southern, which it is proposed to make a part of the municipal system.

TONG MEN ARE HELD.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 25.—Superior Judge Sergent of Salinas, sitting in the special sessions court here, has held for trial the four Chinese members of the Sen Suey Ying Tong accused of the murder of four Hop Sing men at Salinas. The four defendants, who are Chew Rock Hew, Ho Kim Yeu, On Git and Ye Yum, are said to have assassinated their rivals on April 27, escaping in an automobile. They were captured at Moss Landing.

RIOT AT WEDDING FEAST.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, June 25.—Bricks and cobblestones pelted against the home of Tom Moy, a Chinese, brought to an abrupt close a wedding feast being celebrated in honor of Wo Sing, a laundryman, and Josephine Carlson, 17 years old, a white nurse. While many friends of the Chinese and his bride were making the night gay in Moy's dining-room a mob of 500 men and boys surrounded the place and hurled missiles until every window in the house was shattered. The guests made Wo's laundry beneath the home of the host a place of refuge until the arrival of the Englewood police in response to a riot call. The mob was dispersed, but no arrests were made and no one was injured.

WORKING FOR BIG STRIKE.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ST. LOUIS, June 25.—Members of the executive council of the Federation of Federations were at work early today on their task of tabulating the referendum strike vote of railroad employees on lines west of Chicago. The tabulating commenced yesterday. Members of the council said their work was far from complete this morning. The executive council is composed of the presidents of the organization's nine branches—International Association of Machinists and Helpers, Brotherhood of Boilermakers and Helpers, International Brotherhood of Blacksmiths and Helpers, Brotherhood of Railway Carmen, Sheet Metal Workers' International Alliance, Patternmakers' League of North America, Brotherhood of Painters and Decorators, Railway Clerks, and International Association of Steamfitters and Helpers.

Are Microbes In Your Scalp?

It Has Been Proved That Microbes Cause Baldness.

Prof. Unna of Hamburg, Germany, and Dr. Sabourand, the leading French dermatologist, discovered that a microbe causes baldness. Their theory has time and again been amply verified through research experiments carried on under the observation of eminent scientists. This microbe lodges in the Sebum, which is the natural hair oil, and when permitted to flourish it destroys the hair follicles and in time the pores entirely close, and the scalp gradually takes on a shiny appearance. When this happens there is no hope of the growth of hair being revived.

We have a remedy which will, we honestly believe, remove dandruff, exterminate the microbe, promote good circulation in the scalp and all around the hair roots, tighten and revitalize the hair roots, and overcome baldness so long as there is any life left in the hair roots.

We back up this statement with our own personal guarantee that this remedy called Rexall "93" Hair Tonic will be supplied free of all cost to the user if it fails to do as we state.

It will frequently restore gray and faded hair to its original color, providing loss of color has been caused by disease; yet it is in no sense a dye. Rexall "93" Hair Tonic accomplishes these results by making every hair root, follicle and pigment gland strong and active, and by stimulating a natural flow of coloring pigment throughout the hair cells.

We exact no obligations or promises—we simply ask you to give Rexall "93" Hair Tonic a thorough trial and if not satisfied tell us and we will refund the money you paid us for it. Two sizes, prices 50 cents and $1.00. Remember you can obtain it in Los Angeles only at our stores, The Owl Drug Co., Inc., Los Angeles, San Francisco, Oakland, Sacramento, Portland, Seattle and Spokane.

Life's Sunny Side.

THAW GOES ON WITNESS STAND.

Matches Wits With Jerome in Efforts for Liberty.

Says Memory Was Imperfect When He Killed White.

Thinks Some of the Questions Are Too Broad.

[By Direct (Wireless) Line to The Times.] WHITE PLAINS (N. Y.) June 25.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Harry K. Thaw, on the witness stand before Justice Keogh today in the proceedings to gain his freedom from the Matteawan Asylum, proved almost a match for William Travis Jerome, who is acting as a special deputy Attorney-General in prosecuting the case. While the witness became excited at times, he did not lose control of himself.

Once he corrected Jerome in naming a physician who examined him, saying that it was not Dr. Russell, but Dr. Mac.

When Thaw took the witness stand after the noon recess, Mr. Jerome asked:

"Will you describe more in detail the killing of Stanford White on June 25, 1906?"

Clarence Shearn, Thaw's lawyer, was on his feet instantly, and shouted: "I object to this. What does he expect to establish? So far we have not had a scintilla of evidence from the State as to the mental condition of Thaw. Jerome, for six years, has hounded this man with a vindictiveness which is apparent to all. I object to questions which are simply asked to badger the witness."

Although Justice Keogh allowed the question, little was learned from Thaw.

"I don't think I am able to say," was his reply.

"Is it because your memory is impaired?" asked Jerome.

"My memory was not perfect then," answered the witness, as his voice dropped almost to a whisper.

"Do you remember what you said to your wife after you killed Stanford White?"

"Yes, I think I said: 'Maybe I have saved your life.'"

Thaw kept telling Jerome that some of his questions were too broad, and declined to answer them.

When asked by Jerome what was his idea of his mental condition when he shot White, Thaw said:

"I think my mental condition was the same as Gen. Daniel Sickles—when he shot Keyes."

The calling of Thaw gave the first thrill of the day's proceedings. Thaw's counsel demanded to know if Jerome was making him the State's witness or intended to examine him generally. This demand came when Jerome asked if he believed in "living like a gentleman." Thaw wanted the court to decide whether he should answer this. With the court's consent Jerome went on:

"Do you think," he asked, "that because of the belief of a certain part of society as to 'noblesse oblige,' that a person who lies to protect his own wrongdoing, is doing right?"

"I do," Thaw replied. He was still outwardly cool, but kept the big fan waving.

Bitter Passage.

ASSAILS PREMIER; SPEAKER ANGRY.

BRITISH HOUSE OF COMMONS HAS TURBULENT SCENE.

Bitter Feeling in England Relative to Treatment of Suffragettes Reflected by Socialist's Tirade—Presiding Officer Threatens to Eject Member.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.] LONDON, June 25.—Intense embitterment has been engendered in England by the forcible feeding of the imprisoned suffragettes who declared a hunger strike while in jail. This was reflected in an extraordinary scene today in the House of Commons when George Landbury, a Socialist member, denounced Premier Asquith and the government in such vitriolic terms that the Speaker ordered him to leave the House and threatened to have him ejected.

Timothy Healy, the Nationalist, had appealed to Premier Asquith to release the women and the Premier replied that they could leave prison this afternoon on giving a promise not to repeat their offense.

Mr. Landbury immediately projected himself at the Treasury bench, shaking his fist in the faces of Premier Asquith and the other ministers.

"You're beneath contempt," he screamed. "Talk of Russian atrocities! Why, you will go down in history as the torturers and murderers of innocent women. You ought to be driven out of office."

The House was quickly in disorder. The Speaker, however, finally secured quiet and ordered Mr. Landbury to leave. He replied:

"I'm not going out while these contemptible things are torturing and murdering women."

He yelled this out in a loud voice, and appeared to be much overwrought but when the Speaker warned him that he would be forcibly ejected unless he went of his own accord, the labor members gathered about their colleague and induced him to quit.

PYTHIANS BANQUET.

The Pythian lodges of Tropico and Glendale were entertained last night at a banquet given by Arrowhead Lodge No. 298 of this city, in its quarters in the Adolphus Theater building. Fully 500 Knights of Pythias, including many visitors, enjoyed an elaborate menu. Selections were rendered by the Arrowhead Quartette, and Dr. C. T. Ehred gave a general talk on Pythianism. H. L. Le Grand, Chancellor-Commander of Glendale Lodge, and B. F. Cook, Chancellor-Commander of Tropico Lodge also spoke. J. M. Lampert, Chancellor-Commander of Arrowhead Lodge acted as toastmaster.

DYNAMITE RING IS SUSPECTED.

Rumor Revived in Connection With Boiler Explosion.

San Antonio Affair Thought to Be Work of Vandals.

Many Other Depredations by Striking Shopmen.

HOUSTON (Tex.) June 25.—[Special Dispatch.] Was the San Antonio locomotive boiler explosion of March 18, with its thirty-two casualties, a duplication of the Los Angeles Times dynamiting conspiracy for which the McNamara brothers are in prison?

The Harriman lines, in a statement just issued by Thornwell Fay, president of the system in Texas, raise publicly this question, which heretofore has been innuendo and rumor rather than positive assertion of well-grounded suspicion.

President Fay's statement, after reviewing the evidence, disclosed by a special board of inquiry, is concluded as follows:

"Under such circumstances, it is but natural to go further and to consider the circumstantial evidence in this case.

"Since the shop employees of the company letf its service on September 30, 1911, many acts of vandalism have been committed against its property, and in addition two guards and one workman were killed at Houston, while many employees have been assaulted and beaten up at many points along the line. Locomotives just out of the shop, after running a few miles, have knocked out cylinder-heads, and investigation has developed that small nuts or other pieces of metal have been placed in the pipes, which worked down into the cylinders, doing this damage. Bolts have been placed on guides, which did similar damage, and wooden plugs have been found in steam gauge pipes. Innumerable cases have been found where emery dust has been put in bearings; water has been doctored and many similar acts of vandalism have been perpetrated.

"Much evidence exists pointing strongly to the conclusion that this work has been done by men who sought employment in the shops for the very purpose of doing damage to property. It does not require much imagination to believe that some of the men who did such dastardly acts would also apply explosives such as may have occurred at San Antonio."

the State of Nevada, is going to handle the railroad's defense in the oil suit instituted by the government to regain possession of many acres of Elk Hill lands, which, the government alleges, was fraudulently obtained by the carrier. Lewers has given up his Nevada offices, moved his headquarters to the Flood building in this city, and, upon the completion of the oil cases, will be retailed in the general offices of the company in this city. A new man will be named for the Nevada position.

Lewers's transfer is regarded in the light of a promotion, and in the future, during Herrin's absence, the responsibility of the office will rest between Durbrow and Lewers.

Attorney Frank Shay, who gained some prominence last fall when the Supreme Court imposed a fine of $500 upon him for certain correspondence alleged to have been passed, in which Shay was alleged to have intimated that he had a strong influence with the State Supreme Court justices, will remain in the legal department in the capacity of "inside man." Assigned to general corporation work, his duties are such as will place upon his shoulders much of the responsibility of the office details and very little outside work.

In reorganizing the department Herrin, it is said, exercised particular care in order to make it as strong as possible. Careful attention to the new State and national laws relating to the regulation of railroads was one of the particular requirements he desired to have made strong. The reengagement of Durbow and the transfer of Lewers's activities form the main basis of the reorganization. J. E. Foulds used to look after the general corporation work, and Dunne's position was accepted as the closest to Herrin. Herrin himself remains just as active as ever in the department.

VETERANS INSTALLED.

New Officers of Evans Post and Relief Corps Mustered in With Impressive Ceremonies.

Officers of Admiral Robley D. Evans Post, No. 200, G.A.R., and Woman's Relief Corps No. 120, were installed last night with impressive ceremonies in McKinley Hall, Walker Theater building.

Commander M. N. Myrick, of the John F. Godfrey Post, Pasadena and chief mustering officer of the Department of California and Nevada, installed the veteran officers and Mrs. Mary E. Hartwell, the women.

The commander of the post is James D. Boyer; senior vice-commander, Henry Harrison; junior vice-commander, F. W. Hults; chaplain, Harvey De Wolf; surgeon, William B. Hill; quartermaster, W. J. Black; officer of the day, Charles B. Ford; officer of the guard, Archibald G. Leffel; adjutant, James A. Ford; trustees, George W. Wilson, William J. Black and Harvey De Wolf.

RECORD OF A GREAT MEDICINE

Doctors Could Not Help Mrs. Templeton—Regained Health through Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound.

Hooper, Nebraska.—"I am very glad to tell how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped me. For five years I suffered from female troubles so I was scarcely able to do my work. I took doctors' medicines and used local treatments but was not helped. I had such awful bearing down pains and my back was so weak I could hardly walk and could not ride. I often had to sit up nights to sleep and my friends thought I could not live long. At my request my husband got me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I commenced to take it. By the time I had taken the seventh bottle my health had returned and I began doing my washing and was a well woman. At one time for three weeks I did all the work for eighteen boarders with no signs of my old trouble returning. Many have taken your medicine after seeing what it did for me. I would not take $1000 and be where I was. You have my permission to use my name if it will aid anyone."—Mrs. SUSIE TEMPLETON, Hooper, Nebraska.

The Pinkham record is a proud and peerless one. It is a record of constant victory over the obstinate ills of woman—ills that deal out despair. It is an established fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has restored health to thousands of such suffering women. Why don't you try it if you need such a medicine?

Another Party Launched

At a harmonious convention assembled the following platform was adopted, which unites Republicans, Democrats, Socialists and Prohibitionists, not for political purposes but for financial betterment.

Declaration of Principles: To accomplish this, the business must be conservative, stable, permanent, non-speculative, income producing and dividend paying, and one in which no loss would occur during financial depression.

A committee was appointed to ascertain what business would meet all of these requirements and to formulate a plan of procedure. Extract from the report:

"Our investigation demonstrated the fact that there are many safe and profitable business enterprises in which to engage. To find the one that met all of the requirements of our platform was a difficult task. In reaching our final decision we were governed by a number of unquestionable facts.

"FIRST—The business we decided upon has been successfully conducted for centuries.

"SECOND—This business, in itself, embraces more avenues for earning large profits than were combined in anv other which we investigated.

"THIRD—The best evidence that it is a safe and profitable business, is shown by the fact that many large financial institutions engaged in it are controlled by wealthy people, who are wealthy because they refuse to go into unsound and unprofitable enterprises.

"FOURTH—Los Angeles, because of its rapid growth, is the best field in America for this business.

"FIFTH—There are many men who are familiar with and capable of managing this business, as it involves only ordinary business principles.

"Therefore, it is with great satisfaction that we recommend a corporation be organized to loan on and purchase mortgages on Los Angeles property.

"Your committee further recommends that at a later date a thorough investigation be made regarding Banking Business with the view of organizing a Bank and Trust Company in conjunction with the Mortgage Corporation. In formulating the plan of procedure we first took into consideration that the corporation must be so organized that the small and moderate investors would be on an absolutely equal footing with the larger ones. This can be done by permitting no promotion stock to be issued and selling the shares of the corporation either for cash or in monthly installments so as to enable those who have $5.00 or more per month to invest to so do. We realized those with small capital are only able to do a small retail business, making under the most favorable conditions a very small profit. While those with large capital enter the wholesale field and make fortunes. If one thousand persons united, each investing $100.00 in a business they would have a united capital of $100,000.00, thus permitting them to enter the field now occupied by the capitalists. As the mortgage business is the most profitable and as the plan is thoroughly equitable we respectfully suggest that steps be immediately taken to organize the corporation. It is confidently believed that wise judgment will be exercised in the selection of the men to manage the affairs of the corporation. Many ministers, lawyers, wage-earners, doctors, salaried people and merchants will avail themselves of the opportunity of becoming interested in this dignified business, hence those desiring stock should not delay making their application."

The above report was unanimously adopted and three months ago the United Mortgage Corporation was organized. The capital stock is $500,000.00, divided into 50,000 shares of the par value of $10.00 each. Already much of the stock has been sold and the money invested in first-class mortgages which are yielding large profits to the corporation. The present price is $12.00 per share, cash, or $12.60 per share on installments, payable 50c per month per share. The right is reserved to advance the price without notice. As little as $5.00 a month may be invested.

The printed platform (prospectus) may be had on request to United Mortgage Corporation, Suite 620 Consolidated Realty Building, Los Angeles California. Phone A-5195.

CONCESSION IS TO BE ALLOWED.

Progressive Likely to Succeed Parker in Chair.

Democratic Committees Balk at All-night Sessions.

Full Committee to Consider All Contest Cases.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BALTIMORE, June 25.—After being forced into night session by a vote of the convention, the various committees on organization took matters in their own hands soon after meeting and decided not to continue through the night.

William Jennings Bryan, the probable selection for the chairmanship of the Resolutions Committee, was not present to assist in the organization, and the platform makers adjourned until 10 o'clock tomorrow.

The Permanent Organization Committee adjourned until 10:30 a.m., tomorrow. There was no discussion of the probable choice to succeed Judge Parker in the chair, but it is well understood that a progressive will be named. Senator Kern of Indiana, Senator-elect James of Kentucky, Senator Culberson of Texas and Gov. John Burke of North Dakota are being considered. The Rules Committee also postponed its session until tomorrow.

The Credentials Committee organized, then adjourned until 9:30 a.m. tomorrow. Contests from nine States and Territories, involving the seats of seventy-seven delegates, will be heard. Joseph E. Bell of Indiana was elected chairman and Frank J. Donahue of Massachusetts, secretary.

A motion to adopt the findings of the National Committee on all contests was ruled out of order by Chairman Bell. The full committee will consider each case, and all evidence bearing upon the contests will be admitted. It is expected they will be completed, and decisions reached before the convention meets at noon. A call of the States tonight showed the following contests: Illinois—First to Tenth Districts, Twentieth District, one delegate in the Seventeenth District, and eight delegates-at-large; South Dakota, all ten State delegates; Rhode Island, all ten delegates; Missouri, Ninth; Texas, Seventh District; Alaska, District of Columbia and Philippines, six delegates each; Seventh and Ninth Pennsylvania Districts.

FAMED ELLIS CLUB CONCLUDES SEASON

DISTINGUISHED MEN'S CLUB WINS PLAUDITS.

BY WILLIAM DELLAMORE.

Los Angeles music-lovers never heard finer ensemble singing than that proffered by the Ellis Club in the Auditorium last evening. For eighteen years this sterling organization has been pre-eminent in the musical life of this city. Its personnel includes many of the best male solo voices in Southern California; and that there are a goodly number of excellently-trained voices here was fully shown by the work of the club, not only last evening, but on many previous occasions. To J. B. Poulin, the efficient musical director of the Ellis Club, belongs much of the credit for the artistic work that has been accomplished, each year seeing an improvement over the one previous, until now, after directing the club for eleven years, he has brought his band of singers to well-nigh perfection. The members of the club, too, are nearly all seasoned musicians and take a personal pride in the achievements of the organization.

Last evening's programme opened with the "War Song of Gamelbar" (Bullard,) followed by "Suomi's Song" by Franz Mair. Several compositions which caused ripples of laughter were the comical "Handorgan Man" song and the ditty, "About Clocks," by Hammond. Other pieces which displayed the excellency of the club's singing were: Buck's "Chorus of Spirits and Hours," in which G. H. Whitaker carried the tenor-solo parts; "Swords Out for Charlie" (Bullard,) an English Jacobite war song, a melodious composition with tenor solo, which was sung by John Douglas Walker; "Venetian Love Song" (Saar) with solo quartette and violin obligato; Nevin's "Rosary" arranged for male chorus, and the "March and Chorus" from "Tannhauser," with organ accompaniment by Ray Hastings.

The soloist of the evening was well chosen in the person of Miss Adele Dilli, soprano. We of Los Angeles, however, will not call the promising young prima donna by her programmed name; to us she is Miss Florence Dillon, dearly beloved, not only as a fine singer, but also as a young woman of charming personality. Famed abroad for a number of years, Miss Dillon has returned home to enrapture us with her beautiful voice. Her offerings were a group of arias from Puccini's "La Boheme"—"Mi Chiamano Mimi," "Addio Senza Rancor," "O Buon Marcelle"—and Tosti's beautiful "Serenata," "O Sole Mio" (Capua) and Massenet's tender "Elegie," with violin obligato by Arnold Krauss. This latter number was one of Miss Dillon's best offerings. Miss Dillon's rich, flexible voice filled the large auditorium with soulful melody and she was recalled at the conclusion of each number for encores. We can certainly feel proud of Miss Dillon, and her singing last evening was another triumph. We can but add to the laudatory expressions and tributes of esteem which have been showered upon the young prima donna.

Miss Mary L. O'Donoughue was as charming as ever and gave excellent support at the piano for the club, while Will Garroway was the accompanist for Miss Dillon.

PARKER SOUNDS KEYNOTE TO HOSTS OF DEMOCRACY.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BALTIMORE, June 25.—Judge Alton B. Parker in his address as temporary chairman of the Democratic convention, said:

"We meet while the hills yet echo to wild cries of liar, thief and traitor, and furious wails of fraud, bribery, treachery and corruption; and our ears are weary with the din of the articulate shrieking and passionate villification of the most shameful brawl of our political history.

"Our candidates, however, are, without exception, men of such lofty mien that we meet immune from the distemper which seized the Chicago convention, and privileged to discharge a solemn public duty calmly, deliberately, seriously.

"The cause of government by the people the world over has been materially checked by the disgraceful brawl which terminated in the bedlam of Chicago. Every good citizen has been put to shame by the brutality and the abuse which characterized this wrangle between a President and an ex-President. Gratitude, friendship, party loyalty, patriotism and common decency were forgotten in the tussle.

ASSAULT ON PROHIBITIONS.

"The assault upon the unwritten prohibition against a third term made in the wild scramble for the Republican nomination, warns us of the vital necessity of incorporating in our Constitution a safeguard against repeated terms.

"In the very beginning of our constitution-making it was urged by delegates participating that safety required a constitutional limitation of the period of years one man might hold the office of President. History warned them of the coming of a man whose insatiable lust of power would be as consuming as Caesar's, towering high above his love of country. The danger seemed, even to the pessimists, to have passed with the establishment of a precedent by Washington, Jefferson and their successors. Indeed, where lives the man who has not either heard or said that an unwritten law forbids more than two terms, and if anyone could be so foolhardy as to seek further, he would be crushed by the wrath of a patriotic and intelligent people.

"Would the man who threw his hat in the ring and sought to slug his opponent over the ropes in his fight for a third term rest satisfied with its achievement? Clearly, his lust of power would have brooked no such limitation. A third term would but have whetted his desire for more and as the terms slipped away each renewal would discover greater injury to our Constitution, to the form of government established under it, and to every legal curb on his imperious will.

"This is the man who menaced us with an increase of Federal power by usurpation of States' rights and without authority of constitutional amendments.

"This is the man who advocated Federal incorporation for the increase of power at Washington and the lightening of legal burdens on the corporations; the man who authorized the absorption of the Tennessee Coal and Iron Company by the steel trust; the man who, by many such drastic acts, and by unnumbered words, has sought to batter down our statutory and constitutional safeguards.

LIMITATION IS DEMANDED.

"He who runs may read the danger that threatens the country ruled by such a man. Do we envy Mexico her thirty years of wedded life, or the war the divorce from Diaz precipitated, the end of which no man may prophesy? The way to prevent a life series of terms is to prevent the present attempt to capture the office for a third term. One of our opportunities in this campaign is to lead the fight against the third term. That opportunity should appeal to every drop of patriotic blood in our veins.

"Unquestionably we have been wrong in assuming that a tradition against third term constitutes a sufficient safeguard against unscrupulous ambition for unlimited power. We need a definite constitutional limitation which shall prevent imperialistic souls from forcing personal continuation in office for long periods, or for life, and the personal selection of a successor in office. And the constitutional provision should go one step further than our recently-assailed tradition.

"The provision should limit to a single term. Then will the occupants of the office have before them but the one ambition so to fulfill the great trust reposed in them that upon retirement they shall hear from a grateful people the commendation, 'Well done, thou good and faithful servant.'

"In this great country, which boasts of a wealth of one hundred and thirty billion as against eighty billion for Great Britain and Ireland, sixty-five billion for France, and sixty billion for Germany, all are conscious that too large a part of our wealth has been secured by a small percentage of our population and that the cost of living rises faster than the average income.

LAID TO THE TARIFF.

"The principal cause of all this is to be found in the tariff statutes and in the combinations restraining trade and competition created for the purpose of wringing from the public every dollar which the tariff statutes make possible.

"The average of duties under the tariff of 1789 was 8½ per cent. Now the average is 50 per cent.

"In 1842 the average was 32 per cent. In 1846 it was reduced to 25 per cent., which worked so well that a reduction to an average of 20 per cent. followed in 1857."

"Probably it would never have again been increased, but for the war, for the census of 1860 disclosed a higher percentage of increase of the national wealth during the preceding ten years than for any other decade before or since and the percentage of increase in capital invested in manufacturing was greater than during any similar period in our history.

"Protected interests benefited by two increases during the war, the first to an average of 37½ per cent., the second to 47 per cent. That high average, then excused only by the exigencies of the war, is exceeded now as the average is nearly 50 per cent.

"The Republican party thus has gathered the machinery of government to enrich the few at the expense of the many. That increase of 30 per cent. in the average has taken thousands of millions from the general public and devoted it to the creation of swollen fortunes.

INSPIRED WITH HOPE.

"One outcome of this breach of faith was a Democratic House, which has acted so wisely and courageously as to arouse the enthusiasm of the people and inspire the Democratic party with reasonable hope of opportunity to render a public service sorely needed.

"Under sagacious and intrepid Democratic leadership special bills have been passed having for their purpose a revision of the tariff downward, ultimately to a revenue basis. These bills are known as 'free list, wool, cotton, metals, chemicals, sugar and excise.' The President's use of the veto power has postponed the hour when the people shall enter into the enjoyment of the relief proposed, until after the inauguration of the next President.

"The temporary failure owing to the action of the electorate of Canada to effectuate reciprocity with that country, is regretable. The agreement proposed was in the interest of the people of both countries.

"The movement started was in the right direction because it was toward a competitive policy. Its immediate and laudable purpose was to lessen the cost of living in each country.

"Whether later the natural advantage to our respective peoples shall be appreciated by our neighbor across the border, the consciousness that we took the right course should content us. In all probability, however, the sober second thought of the people of Canada will induce reconsideration of the action of last year. The temporary reduction of the duty on cement by the Canadian opponents of reciprocity is significant of the results that in due course may be expected.

"All honor to the Democratic House, which stood for the good of the nation as a whole and prevented the repeal of the reciprocity act, thus leaving the door to Canada, if her people later shall elect to accept our proposal.

"For the ills that flow from that tariff increase, on an average of 20 per cent. to 50, the Republican party is responsible. For the continuance of that rate against the efforts of a Democratic Congress a Republican President is to blame.

"It is evident there, that a relief can come only through the election of a Democratic President and Congress.

"The tariff beneficiaries were and for many years had been contributors to campaign funds of the party, which in turn protected the special privileges enjoyed by the donors. But competition prevented in some instances the collection from the people of the full sum stipulated in the tariff. To secure it all, tempted the cupidity and stimulated the ingenuity of the beneficiaries.

"But one way could be found—combination to control the price up to the point where the statute let in foreign competition. The same party which shut out foreign competition was found willing to permit the formation of combinations which effectually banished home competition. The common law on the subject and the Sherman act were treated by Republican officials as repealed by implication. Need it be said that the protected interests, for these larger privileges, made larger contributions?

"We are indebted to the President for the evidence that his predecessor, having first enjoyed an interview with George W. Perkins, restrained his Attorney-General from bringing suit against the harvester combination.

"For the steel corporation he went further, for he wrote his Attorney-General in advance of its absorption of the Tennessee Coal and Iron Company that he had decided 'to interpose no objection.'

"Indeed, apparently he stood ready to perform similar kindly offices for all corporations, for he advocated the passage of a statute permitting voluntary submission of all engaged in interstate commerce to Federal authority, with the advantage to them of immunity from prosecution because of contracts made if stamped in advance with executive approval, as reasonable.

"In the light of all the testimony and of these admissions, I submit that the jury of the people should find as a general verdict, 'that the failure of the executive and legislative branches of government, both Federal and State to protect the people from the special privilege hunters and graft-seekers, is deeply rooted in a corrupt alliance between the latter and the leaders of the Republican party.'

"Upon that verdict but one judgment can be entered—that of eviction.

"If we are to preserve undiminished a heritage bequeathed us and add to it those accretions without which society would perish, we shall need all the powers that the school, the church, the court, the deliberative assembly and the just thought of our people can bring to bear.

"For their crimes against American citizenship, the present leaders of the Republican party should be destroyed.

"For making and keeping the bargain to take care of the tariff-protected interests in consideration of campaign funds, they should be dedestroyed.

"For encouraging the creation of combinations to restrain trade and refusing to enforce the law, for a like consideration, they should be destroyed.

"For the lavish waste of public funds, for the fraudulent disposition of the people's domain and for their contribution toward the division of the people into classes, they should be destroyed.

"For the efforts to seize for the Executive Department of the Federal government, powers rightfully belonging to the States, they should be destroyed.

"All destruction will be theirs, this very year, if we but do our duty.

"What is our duty? To think alike as to men and measures? Impossible, even for our great party. There is not a reactionary among us. All Democrats are progressives. But it is inevitably human that we shall not all agree that in a single highway is found the only road to progress, or each make the same man of all our worthy candidates his first choice.

"It is possible, however, and it is our duty to put aside all selfishness, to consent cheerfully that the majority shall speak for each of us, and to march out of this convention shoulder to shoulder, intoning the praises of our chosen leader—and that will be his due—which ever of the honorable and able men now cleaming our attention, be chosen."

WOULD MAKE RESTITUTION.

Seller of Lotions Makes Proposition in Court to Escape Prosecution. Many Alleged Victims.

Restitution of money and jewelry to her alleged victims may save Mrs. Crystal Bartee from prosecution on a charge of having obtained money under false pretenses, as set forth in a complaint sworn to by Mrs. Anna Shaw, No. 1552 West Pico street. In exchange for a ring said to be worth $35, Mrs. Bartee gave Mrs. Shaw a lotion which she is credited with guaranteeing to remove wrinkles.

Mrs. Bartee was arraigned before Police Judge Rose yesterday morning. The following alleged victims of the defendant were in court: Mrs. Harriet A. Stewart, No. 123 Carr street, and Mrs. M. E. Busford, No. 1224 South Flower street, who gave her $50 each, and Mrs. C. F. Becker, No. 742 Towne avenue, who gave her $10 for the lotion.

Attorney John C. North proposed that the complaint against Mrs. Bartee be dismissed on her refunding to her alleged victims the money and jewelry she received.

"I object to any such a proposition," declared Assistant City Prosecutor Stafford.

Judge Rose proposed that Mrs. Bartee make full restitution of money and jewelry, and that on August 12, when he returns from his vacation, she appear before him, plead guilty and accept a suspended sentence.

"I object to my client pleading guilty," protested North, "for I do not think the offense alleged to have been committed comes under the statute of obtaining money under false pretenses."

Stafford intimated that he might file new complaints against Mrs. Bartee if additional witnesses appear.

"Don't do that," asked North. "We are sincere when we say we want to make complete restitution. If any new victims appear, let me know and we will refund the money."

After filing a demurrer to the complaint, to preserve the standing of his client in court, North and Mrs. Bartee left.

Mrs. Bartee was arrested on the 17th inst. The number of her alleged victims is not known. Where women did not have money with which to buy the alleged anti-wrinkle lotion, they are said to have given Mrs. Bartee jewelry.

The Reason Why

We are offering you a share in a going and growing business and guarantee you at least 8 per cent. on your investment.

Heretofore we have been selling our trees to the subdivider who has bought land in large tracts at say $100 per acre.

Now let us figure it out.

Cost of land	$100.00
Cost of 80 orange trees at $1.25	100.00
Cost of water and planting	25.00
Total cost of one acre	$225.00

As soon as planted it sells for from $450 to $600 per acre; in other words, it has doubled or more than doubled in value. The trees bought from us for $100 bring $200.

We want you to become one of the subdividers by putting in a part of the money to buy the land, put the water on it, and plant the trees.

In order that you may do so safely we have incorporated this company, which owns 1,500,000 olive trees, 350,000 orange trees, besides other properties worth in all more than $500,000. We say to you that if you buy our 8 per cent. preferred shares, you shall have your full share of the profits from the business, and we put more than a half million dollars back of that guarantee.

Our proposition is plain and clear as daylight. You join your dollar with our dollar and together we will make three dollars instead of one.

The present market price of trees assures us a return of over 40 per cent. on our outstanding stock.

Co-operation insures three profits instead of one—that of growing the trees—that of subdividing the land—that of the planted orchard over the vacant ground.

The immense profit from bringing water to rich land is a matter of record.

The unequaled returns from subdividing land have made fortunes even when combined with nothing else.

Every right, every preference, and every privilege is given the preferred stock and the purchaser is taken into a long established money-earning business on an equal partnership basis.

For a short time we will receive subscriptions to the preferred stock at par, 10 cents per share, either in cash or twenty monthly payments. Write or telephone for further information.

"REAL YELLOW PERIL IS WAR."

Forceful Peace Address by Baroness von Suttner.

Distinguished Visitor Tells of Conditions Abroad.

Declares Americans Lead in Great Movement.

The Baroness von Suttner of Austria, author of two-score or more volumes on the subject of universal peace, founder and first president of the Peace Society of Austria, and as early as 1905 winner of the Nobel prize for a work on the subject of peace, addressed a select audience in the Polytechnic High School auditorium last night. The distinguished visitor is en route to the convention of women's clubs in San Francisco, where she is to be one of the speakers.

The Baroness is a large and comely woman. She delivered her address without manuscript, except the final sentences, as she sat in a chair. She has a deep-toned and pleasant voice, and as she made her closing appeal, she was applauded at every sentence. She spoke in part, as follows:

"Universal peace is not a question of possibility, but of necessity. It is not only the aim, but the normal condition of civilization. We must not think we have attained civilization while we are still loaded with the barbarities of war. The higher organization of the world must be based on universal peace.

PRINCIPLE OF BROTHERHOOD.

"The development of the doctrine of international arbitration, considered from the standpoint of its ultimate benefits to the human race, is the most vital movement of modern times. This sentence is not my own. I quote it from William Howard Taft. Another sentence from the same source: 'If the United States has a mission, it is to develop the principle of the brotherhood of man into a living, palpable force.' The one-half of humanity that has never borne arms is today ready to blaze into this living palpable force. Perhaps the universal sisterhood is necessary before the universal brotherhood is possible.

"Everything in America can start fresh. We Europeans are eternally shaking off the horrors of the past. You are full of strength and courage, and daring, while we grow [illegible] struggling for truth. The strides you have made for peace and suffrage since I was over here eight years ago are immeasurable. You are organizing the whole country and federating all the branch societies, and your executive head is the chief apostle of the movement. When people speak to me of the future, I tell them, 'go to America and look at the future, for there it has already arrived. They are fifty years in advance of us, ethically.'

Our founders died in the battles for pillage, and our leaders, to our sorrow, are busy planning still other campaigns, while the people hopelessly ask, 'Who is our enemy? We know no cause for war?'"

CONDITIONS ABROAD.

Baroness von Suttner declared that the chief weapon of the enemies of peace in Europe is the daily press; that it is under the control and influence of the War Department, and that if war is declared between France and Germany it will be largely due to the attitude of the press. She gave warm praise to Baron d'Estournelles, who some time ago visited Los Angeles and spoke for peace from the same platform the Baroness occupied last night, declaring that he was one of the pillars of the Hague Tribunal, and that his principal backing came from the American delegation. Continuing, she said:

"War must be put on 'its last legs' by aeroplanes—not aided by them—and the press must help us do it all. Today it is more of a 'yellow peril' to us than any yellow peril in the little cherry-blossoming flower garden of Japan. The duel between peace and war is on. They have picked up the glove between them, and have crossed swords in mortal combat. It will be the great achievement of the twentieth century and we are sure of the winner. And as we fight, we must teach the young. Teach them that patriotism means world-welfare; that the greatest protection to their nation is in its moral courage; teach them that good will is a stronger protection than armies and navies.

"Oppose all legislation which appropriates money for armaments instead of development; oppose the fortifying of your great seaports and your canal, which are destined to be the bridge between the races; awake from the delusion that the Boy Scout movement is for manly development and character. It is designed by great war captains as the forerunner of conscription to make it easy for your boys to be forced into the army. Know that the gun merchants are lobbying to sell their wares for sheer profit, and are always busy in working up scares to rush through the appropriations they covet."

NORMAL FACULTY RECEPTION.

Large Graduating Class of State Institution Takes Part in Pleasant Function.

Eight young men graduates of the State Normal School were smothered—out of sight—among the 307 young women graduates of the same institution, on the lawn of the Normal School yesterday afternoon. The occasion was the faculty reception to the graduating class, an informal but pleasant and picturesque function. The receiving line was headed by Prof. Sheppardson, in the absence of President Millspaugh, the seniors passing single file in a serpentine line, winding about under the trees. There was music by an orchestra and punch was served by ladies stationed at one side of the lawn. Jollity and good-fellowship marked the hour. The graduating exercises will be held at 10 o'clock this morning in Temple Auditorium, when the address to the class will be delivered by Dr. James A. Blaisdell, president of Pomona College, his subject being, "The Simplicity of Teaching."

Courthouse Blackbird Whacks and Bites All Who Pass That Way. Many go to See Performance.

The anxious little blackbird that flits from palm to palm, occasionally resting on the pedestal of the Stephen M. White memorial in front of the Courthouse, is still as nervous as ever and strikes indiscriminately at every passer-by. She is aided now by a shiny black mate, who rushes down from the head of the figure on the statue and whirls in front of the men and women who have to visit the county offices.

Grants No Quarter.

The fighting blackbird attacking Dr. W. R. Hendrickson on the courthouse grounds yesterday. The camera snapped just as the bird had pecked him on head and was rising for another sally.

It gives some of them a shock. Walking along, thinking of something else, there is suddenly heard the sound of whirring wings and a black shadow passes in front of the face. Looking up, there is a whack on the shoulder and a bite. One looks around and there beholds a demoniac blackbird, his eyes flashing fire, his wings fluttering with rage. Women are scared and men, if they would confess it, are not altogether free from feelings of alarm.

Since the story of the female bird's antics appeared in The Times, many persons have visited the Courthouse lawn just to see the bird perform, and now they see an even better performance by the male bird. The gardener says the young that are the cause of the pair's anxiety are rapidly growing and will be ready to take flight before long.

Waitress Dislocates Jaw Yawning and Goes to Receiving Hospital for Help—Other Strange Cases.

A yawn on arising in the morning is desirable and comfortable up to a certain point, according to Mrs. Anna Herzog, a waitress. Beyond that point lies dislocation.

Mrs. Herzog called at the Receiving Hospital early yesterday morning for help. Her jaw was out of kelter. Dr. Carter reset the member, then demanded to know what had happened.

"I was yawning," said Mrs. Herzog. "Something slipped. Thank you very kindly for putting my face in alignment."

A Lemasne, a bartender, 40 years old, living at No. 1326 Pleasant avenue, sustained internal injuries yesterday that may prove fatal, when he was knocked down and run over near Eighth and San Pedro streets by an automobile driven by Dr. K. Ikeuchi, No. 128 North San Pedro street. Lemasne stepped in front of the machine after alighting from a street car. When the man was placed on the operating table at the Receiving Hospital, Dr. Frank Thomas found it necessary to administer a restorative.

H. F. Grother, a contractor, No. 116 East First street, was taken to the hospital with a broken right thigh. He fell twelve feet, from a scaffolding while working on a building of P. J. Sever's, at Thirty-seventh and Alameda streets.

Mrs. Esther Vellage, No. 265½ West Forty-second place, 29 years old, was thrown partially through the windshield of an auto in which she was riding when the machine ran into a steel cable stretched across North Beaudry avenue, while a house was being moved. She sustained an inch cut on the right cheek and a half-inch laceration on the left forearm.

While putting on his right shoe with the aid of a shoe horn, John Bishneau, No. 1217 West Pico street, 28 years old, a musician, cut his left thumb.

William Morrison, No. 321 East Sixteenth street, a messenger, 16 years old, may lose the end of the middle finger of his left hand. He caught it in a door.

H. C. Franz, No. 617 South Hope street, 24 years old, had an altercation with a fruit dealer over cherries. He says he was attacked with a hammer. He sustained a contused left hand and bruises on the face.

A middle-aged man who was unable to give his name, tried to commit suicide shortly after 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, on the stairs of a Japanese rooming-house at No. 123 North San Pedro street. The man walked in from the street, mounted the stairs half way, sat down, took a razor out of his pocket and slashed his throat. He will probably recover.

Coroner's Jury Finds Real-Estate Operator Was Killed in Collision, that's All—Other Inquests.

A Coroner's jury investigated yesterday the automobile accident at Ninth and Alameda streets early on the morning of the 20th inst., which resulted in the death Sunday morning at the Columbia Hospital of J. W. Rannells of No. 1124 Harvard boulevard, wealthy realty operator and attorney, and failed to fix responsibility.

The jury merely found that the machine in which Rannells was riding was driven by J. W. McGhee, and collided with a Southern Pacific switch engine. Two women and six other men were injured at the same time.

Rannells was buried yesterday afternoon in Hollywood Cemetery. The funeral was conducted by the Masons.

Accidental death was the verdict in the case of Alec Brulins, an aqueduct laborer, whose head was crushed by a rock falling on him in the Clearwater Canyon conduit. He will be buried in Evergreen Cemetery this morning following services at 9 o'clock at the Greek Catholic Church.

Two inquests will be held today. At 10 o'clock an inquiry will be made into the death of Grover Wiggins, shot through the abdomen in a shooting gallery Saturday night. At 2 o'clock this afternoon a jury will investigate the death of H. D. Stokes, a Southern Pacific switchman, who was instantly killed early Sunday morning by an auto on Santa Fe avenue.

Pretty Mothers

Health is the foundation of all good looks. The wise woman realizes this and takes precautions to preserve her health and strength through the period of child bearing. She remains a pretty mother by avoiding as far as possible the suffering and dangers of such occasions. This every woman may do through the use of Mother's Friend, a remedy that has been so long in use, and accomplished so much good, that it is in no sense an experiment, but a preparation which always produces the best results. It is for external application and so penetrating in its nature as to thoroughly lubricate every muscle, nerve and tendon involved during the period before baby comes. It aids nature by expanding the skin and tissues, relieves tenderness and soreness, and perfectly prepares the system for natural and safe motherhood. Mother's Friend has been used and endorsed by thousands of mothers, and its use will prove a comfort and benefit to any woman in need of such a remedy. Mother's Friend is sold at drug stores. Write for free book for expectant mothers, which contains much valuable information.

BABY HAD ECZEMA WHEN 2 WEEKS OLD

Burned and Itched. Had to Keep Hands Covered So Could Not Scratch Face to Pieces. Started with Cuticura Soap and Ointment. In 8 Days Not a Sign of Trouble.

2720 La Salle St., St. Louis, Mo.—"Our baby's trouble began when he was two weeks old. It started with little red pimples on his cheek and ear lobe and on his forehead. When the pimples were about twenty-four hours old they would fill with clear liquid like water. Baby would not sleep because it would burn and itch. He would scratch in his sleep. Our family doctor said the child had got eczema. When the baby was two months old, we had to keep his hands covered so that he could not scratch his face to pieces. I was giving up hope that there was any cure for our child.

"One evening my wife saw the advertisement of Cuticura Soap and Ointment. When we started with Cuticura Soap and Ointment the sores were one hard crust. We followed the directions and in three days the crusts came off, and in eight days you could not see a sign of any trouble. Now his skin is as soft as velvet and as healthy as can be. We always give him his bath with Cuticura Soap." (Signed) H. W. Bundstein, July 7, 1911.

The regular use of Cuticura Soap, assisted when necessary by Cuticura Ointment, not only preserves, purifies and beautifies the skin, scalp, hair and hands, but tends to prevent clogging of the pores, the common cause of pimples, blackheads, inflammation, irritation, redness and roughness, and other unwholesome conditions. Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers throughout the world. Sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. book. Address, "Cuticura," Dept. T, Boston. Tender-faced men should shave with Cuticura Soap Shaving Stick.

FOR SALE— WHY DID YOU COME TO CALIFORNIA?

You are probably like the man who was in our office last week who said: "I came to California because I wanted to get TWO years of REAL LIVING out of one calendar year."

And when you stop to think you realize that the hours of "real living" are the evening hours, after the day's hard work.

Come with us on one of our special MOONLIGHT AUTO TRIPS to our property. We will then show you the charm of living in a suburban location. You will see for yourself what delightful, balmy evenings we have.

And then when you know our proposition, which is "so different," you will realize what is attracting so much enthusiasm in our evening trips.

Auto leaves every evening (this week) at 7:30 sharp. But reservations must be made in advance. 50 cents round trip.

Take early advantage of this unique opportunity to see what your home life would be at Verdugo, "The Throne City," in the evenings. Then take one of our day trips (free) to study the tract itself.

You will appreciate these facts to the utmost if you take a moonlight trip with us this week.

IN THE YUCAIPA VALLEY.

This is positively the cream of Yucaipa; lies at an elevation of from 2700 to 3000 feet above sea level; is a rich placentia sandy loam soil, from 20 to 30 feet in depth, perfectly level, about 1 mile south of Yucaipa City, and is positively the last of the high-class apple land in the Yucaipa Valley.

We offer you here any size tract with one share of water stock to the acre, at the price of $300 an acre. This is the most rapidly selling tract we have ever put on the market, and we shall be glad to show you over this land at an early date so as to give you a perfect selection. We predict now that One Thousand Acres of this rich land will be planted to apples, cherries and pears during the coming season. One Redlands orange grower will plant 50 acres to apples. This gives you an idea as to the opinion of the Redlands people regarding growing of apples in Yucaipa.

Don't be one of the "too late fellows," but make your selection now. Parties who bought in our earlier subdivisions and now wish to sell are doing so, frequently at a profit of 100 per cent. and over. There is no better, safer, or surer investment on the market.

We offer you in our Subdivision No. 4 a few choice tracts at $275 an acre. All of these tracts sold on easy terms.

NEWS IN BRIEF.

What New Preacher Thinks.

"The Impressions of a New Pastor," will be the subject of an address before the Federation Club today at the noon luncheon, by Rev. Russell F. Thrapp, pastor of the First Christian Church. Lunch served at 12:30 o'clock.

Charged With Fraud.

A. B. Smith of San Diego was arraigned before Judge Wellborn yesterday on the charge that he had used the United States mails to defraud. It is alleged that he has for some time been doing a fake mail-order business, dealing in butter, eggs and other country produce. Smith pleaded not guilty.

Advertising Pointers.

In an address at the weekly luncheon of the Advertising Club yesterday, John A. Fox urged the hastening of harbor improvements in order that full advantage may be taken of the opening of the Panama Canal. M. Martin Kallman spoke on modern methods as applied to advertising. Other speakers were F. G. Whitelow of Chicago, I. H. Rice and D. H. Schuman.

Say Didn't Try to Sell.

Whitney Tansley and Ronald Jackson, who were arrested by Detective Hawley, Monday, on the charge of stealing an automobile, assert that they had no intention of stealing the machine and that Hansley voluntarily went to the police to turn it over to them. The statement that they took the machine to Pipher Brothers' garage and offered to sell it, is entirely without foundation, according to their story. They say that they not only did not offer to sell the machine to anybody, but did not take it to Pipher Brothers for the purpose and the latter did not notify the police.

BAN ON LAND LOTTERY.

Police Close Offices of Concerns Which They Allege Are Misrepresenting to Prospective Purchasers.

The offices of the Pacific Land and Development Company in the Wilcox building, against which concern many complaints have been received by the police, were closed yesterday morning. Fred Franz, who represented himself as the head of the company, was warned by Detective Zeigler that if he continued to do business in this city he would be arrested and charged with obtaining money under false pretenses.

A few days ago Zeigler was instrumental in closing up the offices of the Buena Vista Land Company, also in the Wilcox building. One of its agents, Abe Rosenberg, pleaded guilty Monday to obtaining money under false pretenses when arraigned before Police Judge Rose, and was sentenced to sixty days in the City Jail. Sentence was later suspended.

It is charged that the agents misrepresented matters in giving people chances on lots, later informing them they had won and charging from $6 to $20 each for the deeds.

Agents of the Pacific Company said their lots were in Sonoma county.

Wear Toric Lenses
Did you know that they are actually BETTER for the eyes than Flat Lenses? The reason is because the focus is distributed over the entire surface of the curved lens, whereas, in a flat lens it is confined to the CENTER. You get a wider field of vision, and clearer vision, consequently, GREATER COMFORT.

Now Chicago has had her row, Baltimore is due. It seems as if Los Angeles ought to get a national convention occasionally. We believe that eventually she will. And when that happens, we shall sell these famous Brauer suits-to-order, to delegates from every State in the Union, simply because we will beat their local tailors to death, on quality, on price, on fit, and on general tailoring excellence. We do the same thing every time a convention is called in this city. If you have missed our suit-to-order special at $23, you have overlooked the best bet of the season.

Trouble to the End.

BLOODY RIOTS MAGON ADIEUX.

Anarchists Get Month Less Than Law's Limit.

Howling Mob Rages Outside; Many Hurt.

Sympathizers' Armed Rescue Narrowly Prevented.

To a sort of running obligato of thudding night-sticks on the heads of their foaming sympathizers as a full-grown riot raged and roared around the Federal building, the Magon anarchists were yesterday sentenced by Judge Olin Wellborn, of the United States District Court, to one year and eleven month apiece in the Federal penitentiary at McNeill's Island. The charge, proven by such a plethora of evidence as to make almost ridiculous the efforts at defense, was that of having conspired to violate the neutrality laws by the enlisting in this country of men for armed service in Mexico. The defendants indicted, tried, convicted and sentenced are:

Ricardo Flores Magon, head of the revolutionistic junta maintained at No. 519½ East Fourth street, this city. Arrested when the junta was raided by Federal officers June 14, 1911. Has previously served a sentence on the same charge in Arizona.

Enrique Flores Magon, brother and right-hand man of the first-named. One of those chiefly active in the maintenance of the junta and of Regeneracion, the inflammatory sheet published there in support of anarchy and disorder in Mexico.

Liberado Rivera, next to the Magons probably the most active violator of international neutrality laws in the Southwest. He was convicted in Arizona at the same time as his chief and served a like sentence in the Federal prison of that State.

Immediately following the passing of sentence, a ten-day stay of execution was granted and the prisoners were ordered from the locked courtroom under heavy guard. In the meantime, answering the frenzied appeals of I.W.W. agitators in the plaza, over 1000 excited revolutionists and "Industrial Workers," unionites, Socialists and anarchists, had massed around the Federal building, held at bay by a score of stalwart and resolute deputies from the offices of the United States Marshal and the Sheriff. Hundreds more were arriving every instant. The motley throng held a considerable proportion of women, every one wearing the red ribbon of anarchy pinned across her breast and spitting venomous epithets at the officers. At their head was Lucille Norman, stepdaughter of Ricardo Flores Magon, and Mercedes Figueroa, daughter of Anselmo Figueroa, and girls who have already achieved notoriety through their violence during the trials of their relatives.

In Sensational Climax to the Magon Case.

While 2000 of their sympathizers raged and rioted about the Federal building yesterday, Ricardo Flores Magon, Enrique Flores Magon, Liberado Rivera and Anselmo L. Figueroa were sentenced to one year and eleven months at McNeill's Island by Judge Wellborn yesterday. The charge was conspiracy to violate the neutrality laws. The photograph in the center is that which appeared in the exclusive Times expose of the revolutionistic junta of the Magons in this city more than a year ago. The picture was made in the interior of the junta, where men were enlisted for armed service in the army of the Mexican insurrectos, and shows the two ringleaders actually at work, together with a mass of the documentary evidence used against them in the trial. Lucille Norman (Mrs. Lucille Norman Quidera) and Mercedes Figueroa led the riot. Both were arrested, together with three other women and thirteen men.

"SCOTTY" FREED AS HIS BACKERS ARE JAILED.

As Death Valley Scotty passed through the gates of the jail yesterday afternoon, a free man, the vice-president and secretary of the Death Valley Scotty Mining and Development Company passed into it in the custody of Deputy Sheriff Lipp. F. E. Sharp, vice-president, and F. W. Goodin, secretary, of the company, had been indicted a few hours previously by the grand jury on a charge of perjury, alleged to have been committed in swearing that they had paid Scotty $25,000, when they knew, the indictment declares, that he had been given only $200.

Goodin cut the confessedly spurious prospector dead as they passed each other in the jail entrance. Sharp grinned at him good-naturedly.

The two men were arraigned before Judge McCormick in the Superior Court and were given until Monday to plead. In the meantime their bail was set at $5000 each. Later they asked that this be reduced to $2000, but the court refused to consider the proposition, and both were placed in cells. They refused to discuss the case.

Meanwhile, Scott had been called before Judge Craig and asked to tell what he had done with the $25,000. It was for failure to answer this, in the suit of a physician for $1000 for treating Scotty's wife, that the prospector had been sent to jail for contempt of court. Yesterday Scotty smiled sheepishly as he admitted that he had no money and never had received $25,000, as he had testified. The doctor's attorney told the court that his client now understood that he never would get any money from Scotty, so he was willing to let the case go. The court, therefore, released the man who was once the greatest mystery of the mining camps of the West.

"What are you going to do next?" Scotty was asked.

WILD SCENE IN DARROW TRIAL.

Violent Brawl of Attorneys Barely Averted.

Fredericks Snatches Ink Well to Hurl at Appel.

Prosecution Scores Heavily on Dictograph Record.

Aroused, as he said, by a succession of sneers, and covert attacks by the defense in the Darrow case, Dist.-Atty. Fredericks lost his temper yesterday afternoon and was only restrained by desperate efforts from making a physical attack upon H. H. Appel, of counsel for the defense in the jury-bribery trial.

Capt. Fredericks several times implored the court to make the trial proceed in an orderly and customary manner, and requested that Appel be restrained from making a verbal attack upon himself.

Suddenly he declared his purpose of taking matters into his own hands.

He grasped a heavy ink well with the evident intention of hurling it at Appel. He was kept from throwing it by the united efforts of Earl Rogers and Bailiff Martin Aguirre.

In the scuffle Rogers had one wrist deeply gashed.

Just before adjournment the District Attorney made a short, manly apology for his display of temper and promised that it would not occur again even under greater provocation.

The trouble reached its culmination when Appel accused Capt. Fredericks of suppressing evidence and making false and misleading statements in the presence of the jury.

DISORDERLY TRIAL.

The trial has been unprecedented in the annals of the local courts in its bitterness and lack of decorum. Spectators have laughed and clapped their hands in the courtroom and made comments that could easily be heard by the jurymen.

The lawyers have indulged in a long succession of arguments apparently intended for the ears of the jury, and court attaches have commented upon the unusual way in which court rules were departed from. Judge Hutton has had occasion more than once to rebuke counsel as well as the spectators. He has summoned representatives of each side into his chambers to beg a cessation of personalities. A few days ago an encounter between Rogers and Ford was narrowly averted. Yesterday's incident may or may not be repeated, but, as Judge Hutton said, it showed the strain under which the lawyers for the State and defense have been working and the animosities that have developed between the opposing forces.

It was expected by some that the judge would fine Capt. Fredericks and Appel for contempt of court, the latter for provoking the near-combat and the former for an attempt to use personal violence within the precincts of a judicial tribunal.

Even when the bickering was apparently over, Appel continued to make remarks. He said he "wanted the record to show that he was not afraid of the District Attorney and that he did not propose to be intimidated or swerved from what he considered to be his duty."

TOWERING RAGE.

The quarrel arose while Rogers was cross-examining Harrington. The defense had failed to make the State produce its dictograph records. Appel remarked it was evident that the District Attorney was suppressing evidence. He continued to speak along this line when suddenly Capt. Fredericks arose to his feet in a towering rage.

"Is this a court of justice or are we

SANTA MONICA COUNCILMAN IN COUNTY JAIL.

Caught in Trap Accepting Five-hundred-dollar Bribe From Paving Company Agent, According to District Attorney's Officers, Who Say They Have a Full Confession.

Caught in a trap especially laid for him, Daniel W. Baker, City Councilman of Santa Monica and owner of a large butcher business there, is in jail charged with taking a bribe from the agent of the Bitulithic Paving Company of Cincinnati. The arrest was made yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock in front of the Westminster Hotel.

Half an hour later, sitting in the office of the District Attorney, Baker, dejected, said: "I did wrong and I was caught." He would say no more.

Stories have been carried to the District Attorney's office for some weeks past and have been laid before Chief Trial Deputy Horton, in charge of the grand jury work, that some member or members of the City Council at Santa Monica demanded money to pass ordinances. Horton put the matter in the hands of Chief Detective Browne, who found that Baker was associating with contractors and their agents in the paving business.

LARGE CONTRACT THERE.

Santa Monica is about to let paving contracts for fifteen miles of streets and is the center of interest among contractors all over the country, many of whom have agents on the ground, because such jobs are not snapped up every day. Among the concerns interested in securing the contract, if possible, is the Bitulithic Paving Company of Cincinnati, owner of a patent mixture called Warren-

TALENTED EVANGELIST'S WORLD WORK ENDS.

Mrs. J. Q. A. Henry, a taleted worker of this city, and a world and greatly beloved Christian evangelist, died yesterday morning at her home, Ninth and Berendo streets, after a long and painful illness.

She had just passed her fifty-third birthday. She leaves a widower, Rev. J. Q. A. Henry, a son, who is a junior in Occidental College, and a daughter, who acted as her father's secretary during most of his evangelical campaigns.

Mrs. Henry had been ill for six months and suffered greatly, but was uncomplaining and courageous to the end. During her long illness hundreds of letters have been received from all over the world, expressing thanks and appreciation for her radiant Christian life and the wisdom and worth of her work.

Mrs. Henry was a daughter of Rev. P. M. Waddell, for more than fifty years a prominent and efficient pastor in Pennsylvania and Ohio. When her husband became pstor of the First Baptist Church of this city several years ago she at once became his strong co-worker in that church. Later when Dr. Henry resigned his pastorate to undertake a world-wide evangelical tour, she went with him and shared in the work, a great deal of which was in Australia.

Dr. and Mrs. Henry had planned a series of meetings to be held in all the principal cities and towns of the Pacific Coast, these to be followed by a second trip around the world in evangelical work. Mrs. Henry's illness made it necessary to abandon these plans.

It was Mrs. Henry's acquaintance with the conditions of church life and work on the Pacific Coast which peculiarly fitted her for the position of vice-president of the Women's American Baptist Home Mission Society. Her untiring efforts in church and evangelical work were nobly and intelligently directed and were crowned with wonderful success. Her friends and co-workers, both here and abroad, held her in the highest love and esteem.

Mrs. J. Q. A. Henry,
Who died in this city yesterday, after a lingering illness.

She was for years the Pacific representative of the Women's Baptist Home Mission Society, chairwoman of the California board and president of the Federation of Women's Circles.

The funeral services will be held Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the First Baptist Church, of which Dr. Henry was pastor.

Public Service: City Hall, Courts.

SUMMARY OF THE DAY.

Representatives of the Southern Sierra Power Company proposed to the Public Service Board yesterday that the company will dismiss two of the Silver Lake Company suits and submit the third on stipulated facts in a friendly suit if granted the desired rights of way across aqueduct lands for its high-power transmission lines.

The Glendora Irrigation Company made formal application yesterday to the Public Service Board for water for irrigation in the Glendora district. Many other similar applications are to be filed within a few days.

Special Counsel Mathews yesterday submitted to the Public Service Board a proposed ordinance providing for the formation of assessment districts for the distribution of aqueduct water and power.

The Council yesterday indorsed the plan for building a $20,000 grand stand in Exposition Park. It also provided $5000 for the entertainment of the national G.A.R. encampment in September.

Steam Roller's Smashup.

COUNCIL SNUBS MAYOR; VINDICATES HUBBARD.

MAYOR ALEXANDER was given an official snub by the City Council yesterday when it unanimously adopted a resolution tabling his request for confirmation of President A. A. Hubbard's dismissal from the Board of Public Works. The Mayor's desperate efforts to summarily remove a faithful public servant against whom no charges have been preferred failed emphatically.

When the Mayor realized that the spark plug on his home-made steam roller was missing, he hurriedly dispatched one of his political errand-boys into the Council chamber to inform Councilman McKenzie that the resolution about to be introduced met with his "approval."

Councilman Lusk then introduced it and it went through unanimously. The clerk tied a black-rubber band around the Mayor's message requesting the Council to sustain him in his fight against Hubbard and pigeonholed it in the City Hall morgue.

Hubbard's friends in the Council chamber applauded vigorously when the vote was announced. He received scores of callers and telephone calls during the day congratulating him on his vindication and victory.

The Mayor declined to discuss the action of the Council in refusing to obey his "orders."

President Hubbard retains his seat at the head of the board because the Mayor's dismissal of him is ineffective without the Council's confirmation.

Hubbard vigorously denied a rumor that he agreed to resign within a month if the Council tabled the Mayor's request.

"Nothing of the sort," said Hubbard. "I refuse to resign, and that's all there is to it. It has been my intention to resign when the aqueduct is completed, and not before. Of course, I may resign before that time, but it doesn't look that way now."

He declared that scores of his friends have asked him to head a recall movement against Alexander, but he declined.

"I am opposed to the recall at this time," he said. "I am very happy over the action taken by the Council, and feel that I have been vindicated in every sense of the word."

The Mayor's plan for the reorganization of the Harbor Advisory Board was adopted by the Council after it had disposed of the Hubbard matter. The new board will be composed of three members of the Board of Public Works, the three Harbor Commissioners, and the Mayor.

T. E. Gibbon, who resigned from the Harbor Commission, is preparing a full statement of his position in the controversy, and will probably make it public this afternoon. Gibbon says he will call a spade a spade in his statement.

At the City Hall.

PROPOSE PLAN FOR DISTRICTS.

PUBLIC SERVICE BOARD CONSIDERS ORDINANCE.

Special Counsel Outlines the General Features of a System to Be Adopted for Formation of Water Distribution and Power Distribution Districts.

At the meeting of the Public Service Commission yesterday Special Counsel Matthews presented the draft of an ordinance which he had prepared for the purpose of providing for the formation of districts for the distribution of water from the Los Angeles aqueduct and electric power from the aqueduct power project. No formal action was taken on this ordinance, but each member was given a copy of it and after a thorough study thereof it is possible it will be commended at the next meeting of the board.

The proposed ordinance provides that the City Council may order the construction of water mains and conduits for the transmission of power and electric current for posts and lamps for lighting purposes; that before ordering the formation of any improvement district for these purposes the Council shall adopt a resolution of intention declaring its purpose and the proposed boundaries of the district. Such districts may be established for the purpose of distributing water and electricity or either of these utilities.

The Council must then refer to the Board of Public Works the plans, estimates of cost, diagram of the assessment district, the total assessment and a statement of the assessment subdivided according to the diagram.

When the Board of Public Works reports this back to the Council, that body may then modify it in any respect, but shall set set a time and place for hearing protests, not less than twenty days after the adoption of the resolution, and the clerk must post notices thereof.

Protests may be made against the improvement as a whole, or against the amounts assessed, and if a majority protest is against the improvement as a whole, it is barred, but if the protest of majority is against the assessment, then the Council may overrule this by a two-thirds vote and proceed with the improvement, and in such case no protest from the assessment can be made after thirty days from the levy of the assessment. The assessments are collected in accordance with a plan similar to the provisions of the Hammond Act, the ordinance providing that the money shall be accumulated before the improvement is begun.

After the completion of the contract, if the original assessment is not sufficient, then a supplementary assessment may be levied, or if the money is in excess of the cost of the work, then it shall be refunded in the proper proportions.

APPLICATIONS.
MANY WANT THE WATER.

The Glendora Irrigating Company, by its president, C. C. Warren, and its secretary, C. F. Gordon, yesterday presented to the Public Service Commission a petition or formal application for the construction of a conduit within five years for the delivery of water to this company at an elevation of 1100 feet at Glendora, and agreeing to take water at the rate of 3½ cents per miner's inch per hour and to distribute the same at no profit to the company.

This is but one of a series of such applications filed and expected to be filed within the next few days. All of these are being prepared on the same general lines, although the board may ask for another form of application before the subject is finally settled.

Will Investigate Franchises.

Councilman Reed yesterday introduced into the Council a resolution providing that the City Attorney be instructed to investigate the condition of the Pacific Electric franchises on Los Angeles street between Aliso and First streets, the Covina line from Aliso street to the city limits, and the Pasadena Short Line from Covina Junction to the city limits, and the franchise, or lack of franchise, for a third rail on Central avenue from Ceres to Towne avenue. The Council voted to so instruct the City Attorney. Reed believes that the company has not proper franchise rights on the lines mentioned.

WILL STIPULATE.
CITY AND POWER COMPANY.

C. F. Potter, special counsel for the Southern Sierras Power Company, appeared before the Board of Public Service yesterday to urge that body to take immediate action in granting the desired rights of way across Los Angeles aqueduct lands for the transmission lines of this company. He urged that speedy action be taken as the company has had to lay off the steel structural crews and has high-salaried men awaiting idle until it can proceed with the portion of construction that will have to be carried across the city's lands—a distance of about twenty-three miles.

Various phases of the situation were discussed, Special Counsel Matthews and members of the board urging that the power company should agree to dismiss suits brought against the city in regard to water and power rights by the Silver Lake Company, an allied concern, and finally the company's representative made a statement in which he agreed to the dismissal of two of the three suits now on the calendar, while the third is to be reduced to stipulated facts and submitted to the court as a friendly suit.

It was finally decided that Special Counsel Matthews, Attorney Potter and members of the board shall draft the proposed stipulations as soon as possible, and on such a basis it is probable that the much desired rights of way will be granted to the power company.

In this connection, Attorney Potter broached the subject of the city and the power company jointly erecting a dam at a point on the aqueduct, the city to have the exclusive right to the water and the company to have the exclusive power rights. This immediately called forth a protest from Matthews, who said that the board ought to immediately declare its policy to be that the city shall not join with any power company or individual in power transmission projects, etc.

Renews Proposition.

President Elder of the Los Angeles Investment Company was in the Council chamber yesterday to renew the concern's offer to purchase the old State Normal School site and hold it for the city until financial arrangements can be made by the municipality, the city to pay 6 per cent. interest on the price. As a syndicate of bankers is shaping up a proposition whereby the city may be able to get a much lower rate of interest, Elder advised the adoption of the latter plan if possible, and said that his offer stands as a matter of last resort. The property is to be sold on July 8.

G.A.R. National Encampment.

The City Council yesterday unanimously voted to adopt a resolution introduced by Councilman Whiffen, providing for an appropriation in the next fiscal year's budget of $5000 towards defraying the expenses of the National Encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic, which will take place in Los Angeles next September. The State has provided $25,000 and the county $15,000 for this purpose.

Not Quite Enough.

Residents of Vermont Square district yesterday protested to the Public Service Commission as to the water situation there and asked for relief by the city extending its mains to the territory. They presented a petition signed by twenty-one property owners who agree to make water connections at the prescribed rate, but as the city requires twenty-four such subscribers the subject was referred to Auditor Anderson to see that the people desiring the improvement get the necessary number of signers.

Favor Assessment District.

J. N. Grancell and F. I. Ball, representing property owners of the upper Garvanza district, which is served by the Campbell-Johnston water system appeared before the Board of Public Service yesterday and declared that residents of the district, which is now within the city, are willing to be formed into an assessment district for the purpose of providing funds to place a tank at a high point so as to serve the property and for the purchase of the Campbell-Johnston distributing system. The subject was referred to Chief Engineer Mulholland.

Favors a Grand Stand.

The City Council yeesterday put itself on record as favoring the proposition to erect a handsome grand stand at a cost of $40,000 or more, in Exposition Park, on the plans outlined by C. A. Canfield, who proposes to donate half the cost if the city and county will divide the other half. Canfield also proposes, in case this proposition is accepted, to donate $5000 for the further improvement of the athletic field, inclosed by the race course. The Council named Councilmen Whiffen and Langdon as a special committee to confer with Canfield and the County Supervisors in order to get the proposition into legal form, and there is much probability that provisions will be made for the city's share in the new budget.

Look After City Titles.

The City Abstractor was instructed by the City Council yesterday to bring all titles of city property down to date and to hereafter take this action annually and include a resume of this work in his annual report.

To Inspect Proposed Cut.

Frank Walker appeared before the City Council yesterday representing protestants owning property on California street against the proposed cut of that street in connection with the proposition to lower the grade through the Broadway tunnel. Although the protestants do not represent a majority of the frontage of the entire proposition, which includes Broadway to a point within the tunnel and California street to Hill street, they do have a majority of the frontage on California street. The arguments of Walker had sufficient weight to cause the adoption of a motion postponing action until the members of the Council can make a personal inspection of the territory affected, although Councilman McKenzie urged immediate action, as the subject has been dragging along for six months.

Library Site Selected.

The City Council yesterday adopted a resolution declaring the lot at the southeast corner of Workman street and Avenue Twenty-six as the site for the branch library on the East Side. The report of the City Engineer on the petitions for the site and the one at the northeast corner of Griffin avenue and North Broadway showed that the former site's petition had a frontage of 120,526 feet represented on it, while the North Broadway site had 85,667 feet represented.

Slauson-Avenue Hearing.

The protest of property owners on Slauson avenue against the acceptance of the improvement on this street was set for hearing by the City Council, yesterday, but because of a misunderstanding among protestants, causing the absence of some of the leaders, the hearing was postponed until 11 o'clock next Tuesday.

City Hall Brevities.

The Harbor Commission's recommendation that a police patrol boat be provided for the inner harbor at San Pedro was referred by the City Council to the Budget Committee yesterday.

The City Council referred to the Land and Public Buildings Committee the subject of the proposed sale of aqueduct lands near Monolith and also the sale of the cement plant.

A resolution was adopted by the Council extending an invitation to the International Association of Chiefs of Police to hold its convention here in 1913.

The Summit Lime Company applied to the Aqueduct Advisory Board yesterday for information as to the prospect of purchasing 15,000 barrels of lime per month from the plant at Monolith, but the board decided to take no action on the application, as the subject of the sale of this plant is now in the hands of the City Council.

The mess inspector on the aqueduct makes complaint that the presence of peddlers along the work causes disorder among the employees, and asked the advisory board yesterday to prohibit this. This was referred to the special counsel for a report as to the proper method of procedure.

Auditor Myers yesterday advised the Aqueduct Advisory Board that he would begin the inventory of aqueduct material, etc., on July 1, with a force of twenty men, and asked for the co-operation of experts on the work. It was decided to give him the services of one expert on each division.

At the Courthouse.

SUES HIMSELF WINS PROPERTY.

TRADITION IS UPSET IN UNIQUE SUIT TO QUIET TITLE.

As Defendant Man Wins Case Brought by Himself as Plaintiff. Deed Improperly Made Is Corrected and Couple's Ownership of Property Is Established.

John Fred Heiniger solved the apparently insoluble yesterday by being in two situations at the same time. The feat was accomplished by a suit to quiet title, in which Heiniger as plaintiff sued himself as defendant. It was one of the most unique suits tried in the Superior Court.

It grew out of a deed to Heiniger and his wife covering property in Vermont Avenue Square. The Los Angeles Abstract and Trust Company detected that the deed read to John Fred and Bertha Heiniger instead of to John Fred Heiniger and Bertha Heiniger. This was a defect which would cloud the title, and in order to make the deed good, it would be necessary to quiet title by a suit.

Heiniger proceeded to bring suit against himself. As John Fred he served notice of the trial on John Fred Heiniger, testified against himself and was jubilant when John Fred won the suit against John Fred Heiniger.

Judge Willis, who tried the suit, wrote down in his dairy that another tradition had been "busted."

THREATS, THAT'S ALL.
COURTROOM QUIET RUFFLED.

A will case, which bristled with possibilities of an encounter between Attorneys Kase and Nefsey, stirred the sedate atmosphere of the probate department of the Superior Court yesterday.

The encounter only reached the verbal stage, but there was a passage in an undertone between the lawyers which did not reach the court's ears, the import of which was that Nefsey said Kase ought to apologize for certain intimations. Kase came back with a remark which Nefsey characterized as unfair and ungentlemanly.

Nefsey was a witness, called by Attorney Slosson as the custodian of the will of Dr. Walter L. Allen, an incompetent, now in a hospital. Kase, representing Allen's guardian, who is a relative, wanted the will delivered to the guardian. Nefsey refused to turn it over. Kase declared that bonds belonging to the estate had been scattered, picked out of the dust, put in Allen's lap and taken by him to wine dinners.

The cross-examination was severe, and Nefsey seemed nettled, particularly at the implied statement that he is not an attorney. After he was released from the witness stand, he said to the court that remarks had been made by counsel he would like to have retracted. He wished to state that he is an attorney-at-law.

"Your name is not on the door," retorted Kase.

"I have just moved into the office," declared Nefsey.

The court distinctly stated he did not want to hear any more controversy about the will until the man is dead. By stipulation he ordered that the will be sealed and delivered to Court Clerk Devin.

ALL ENDS WELL.
COURT UNITES RUNAWAYS.

Big, shy and awkward, Frank Zozas was slow in obeying Judge Wilbur's injunction to kiss the bride after the court had married them in chambers yesterday.

Josephine Ruth Tuso, who will be 16 in August, stood on tiptoe, pulled down Frank's shaggy head, and gave him a sounding smack with her rosy lips.

Thus was fulfilled the romance little Josephine had planned. On the 12th inst. she left home and sought Frank. She complained that her parents had mistreated her. Frank did not understand the American idea of eloping, and asked Josephine to wait two years before they married. She had it all planned, however, and Frank, very much in love, agreed to run away with her.

They first went to San Bernardino, then to Glendale and finally took a night train for San Diego. There they fell into the arms of officers who had been notified of the runaways.

Josephine's parents objected to her marrying because she is so young. Frank was brought into the Juvenile Court on a charge of having contributed, because Josephine's mother had said she is not 15. She said differently yesterday, and the marriage was witnessed by Mrs. Harriet Shaw, probation officer.

MANY HEIRS NAMED.
LOCAL WOMAN'S FORTUNE.

Mrs. Susan B. Tufts, who died on the 6th inst., at Santa Monica, left an estate of $35,000. The petition for the probate of the will was filed yesterday by Edward B. and W. A. Tufts and Thomas A. Sanson. The estate consists of 149½ shares of stock in the Tufts-Lyon Arms Company, $14,950; real estate, $16,000; cash, $3000, and promissory notes.

The will was made June 12, 1911, and will be filed later. The heirs named in the petition are Edward B. Tufts, a son, No. 1315 West Adams street; William A., Carl R. and Roy R. Tufts, sons; Mrs. Eva Tufts Sanson, a daughter, No. 1617 South Marengo avenue, Pasadena; Mrs. Martha Tufts Cass, daughter, No. 1601 South Fair Oaks avenue, South Pasadena; Mrs. Maude Tufts Frick, daughter, Redondo; grandchildren, Kathleen and Carroll Tufts, John Tufts, Jr., Theodore Tufts, No. 324 West Thirty-third street; Percy Lyon, No. 767 Hawthorne street; Frank, Donald, Quincy, Harold, Alonzo and Emily Cass, No. 1601 South Fair Oaks avenue, South Pasadena.

HER FATE UNCERTAIN.
HEARS DEAD COMES TO LIFE.

In order to determine whether Alfred Wade, the first husband of Mrs. Susie Marshall Ormsby, is alive as reported, Judge Willis ordered the deposition of Lillian Alvin of Goldfield taken. This action was taken yesterday when Mrs. Ormsby sought to have her marriage with George Ormsby annulled.

It was reported to her that Wade, who was believed to have died in the Klondike, had been seen. This news coming after she had been happily married to Ormsby, created consternation and led to a suit for annulment, which, if granted, will be followed by a remarriage to Ormsby. It is understood that the Goldfield woman can throw some light on the matter.

NEW CRIMINAL COURT.
OPENS IN HALL OF JUSTICE.

Judge George H. Cabaniss of San Francisco has been selected by Judge Willis to open Extra Sessions Three, the new Criminal Court, in the Hall of Justice, next Monday. This is a temporary arrangement in order to relieve the congestion caused by the transfer of Judge Hutton to the Darrow trial.

Judge Cabaniss will sit during July and for August another visiting judge will be selected. There is a solid calendar for July. Judge McCormick has been standing the brunt of the work, but one judge cannot cope with the grist.

ONCE TOO OFTEN.
CHECK-PASSER SENTENCED.

D. F. Reynolds, who was formerly a member of the City Council of Cleveland, was sentenced to five years in San Quentin by Judge McCormick yesterday for having passed fictitious checks. The downfall of Reynolds ends a career which once seemed promising.

He was arrested for having obtained $20 on a check, tried, convicted and placed on probation for one year. Later Reynolds uttered another bogus check and was taken before the court for sentence.

COURTHOUSE NOTES.
BREVITIES MISCELLANEOUS.

NEW WHITE HOPE? The blow which Julius Laventhal is alleged to have struck Leon Bloomberg on January 12 last, according to the latter's complaint filed yesterday, classes him as a new white hope. Leon alleges he was knocked senseless by Julius's fist, which landed on the side of his head and produced concussion of the brain, affected the nerves of his head and face, caused loss of memory of locality, laid him up in a hospital, and afterward necessitated his removal to the seashore. His total loss of time from employment by reason of the blow was twelve weeks. The damage is placed at $13,218.65.

APPLAUDS ACTION. Gen. H. Lawton Circle, Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic, recently passed a resolution indorsing the patriotic motive of Judge Willis in hanging the Stars and Stripes on the wall on Naturalization Day. A letter signed by Mrs. M. C. Tyler was received by the court yesterday urging him to keep the flag on the wall always, as it stands for justice, liberty and free speech, and expressing the gratification of the Ladies of the G.A.R.

When buying a suit, do you think it pays to buy from a reputable firm or are you satisfied with any old pick up?

Now for instance in your own line of business, is it possible for you to sell your wares below cost and still let you remain in business? In my business I must sell at a profit, but I aim to give a man the best possible value obtainable. That's why my $20.00 and $25.00 suits have such an excellent reputation and are such good sellers. I have better ones up to $40.00, and I know they are worth the money, too.

Every one a top notcher at the price I ask, and sold under an absolute guarantee. Can you ask any more?

The Oil Industry.

INDUSTRIAL IS IN NEW HANDS.

West Coast Finally Takes Possession.

Associated Will Help It in Filling Orders.

Midway Fields Strike Stirs Maricopa District.

The West Coast Company has taken complete possession of the Industrial property at Olinda as the climax to a deal that has been under consideration for some time and which was closed several weeks ago. With the taking-over of the property the West Coast gets the Industrial's contracts with the Riverside Portland Cement Company, and others, for every barrel that can be produced.

These contracts have from five to [illegible] years yet to run. The past year, the Industrial was unable to meet the demands, making it necessary to keep a range of tools working all the time.

The Associated, marketer for the West Coast and the Amalgamated, both Associated subsidiaries, will be in position to fill these orders from [illegible] obtained from its several [illegible] to the south of Los Angeles provided the Industrial at any time is unable to do so. Therefore it is not known whether development will be pushed as in the past.

At the time the contracts were entered into by Charles Victor Hall, then head of the Industrial, it was not known how much oil would be required. The cement plants increased their equipment and enlarged upon their output. There was a wide range between the minimum and the maximum specified. When Mr. Hall took hold, it is said, he intended going into the furnishing his residuum under the contracts, but did not find this a [illegible]. He was induced to sell, it is said, when the demand upon him under the contract, grew beyond the company's capacity.

Spurs Other Forward.

The bring-in of the 2000-barrel well by the Midway Fields Company on section 4, 11-23, last week, has inspired others in the immediate vicinity who have been less fortunate so far, to go ahead with renewed [illegible].

Among them are the Bronco, Old [illegible], Kyle-Davies, Coronation and [illegible] Midway. They have never [illegible] to the stratum reached by the Midway Fields. Instead they drilled to the upper stratum and stopped, fearing water which test wells showed lay below.

Superintendent Dave McKinsey of the Midway Fields, disregarding precedent and believing he could overcome the water, dauntlessly pushed on, passing through the water and all the strata below it until he reached the oil [illegible] which now promises to make the [illegible] famous as a producer of high-grade oil.

The well is yet beyond control, throwing oil estimated to be worth [illegible] a barrel almost to the top of the rig. It came in at a 4000-barrel [illegible] and at last report was flowing [illegible] barrels. It is considered the most important strike of the year. Unlike most of the oil in the field it is nearly white. In many ways it resembles distillate. It tests .27½ [illegible].

With this well little more than a [illegible] out of Maricopa, that end of the field has taken a fresh grip, for with all companies going down but a few hundred feet beyond present depth [illegible] sand can be encountered.

Porterville Attracts.

Southern California men have become interested in the possibilities of the so-called Porterville district becoming an oil producer. It is said there is still a chance of making the [illegible] wells commercial producers if the water can be shut off. [illegible] Caldwell and a party of several [illegible] men are now at Porterville and investigating conditions there. In the party are H. G. Bailey, F. W. [illegible] of Whittier and I. E. Cook of Long Beach. They will remain until they are satisfied as to the conditions and possibilities of the country.

Steady Producer.

An air compressor has been installed on well No. 2 of the Midway North Midway. The well was redrilled and is now making [illegible] barrels a day. The oil is 24 gravity. No. 4, now drilling, twisted off the drill stem some time ago and has changed from rotary to standard. The rotary drilled to a depth of [illegible] feet. The tools now have [illegible] 2100 feet in depth, drilling past the lost drill stem. No. 1, which was reconstructed, is drilling past the casing that was cut off at 1950 feet. No. [illegible] stands idle at 1800 feet, awaiting the completion of No. 4. The casing collapsed in No. 3.

Field Notes.

The [illegible] K. Company is preparing to [illegible] wells on section 2, 20-15. [illegible] Five strings will be run. [illegible] oil territory.

From Taft comes the report that the [illegible] Petroleum Company is seeking [illegible] the property of the Pacific [illegible]. The Buick people have been [illegible] to buy this property for some [illegible].

The Grand Pacific Oil Company and [illegible] directors have been sued in the Bakersfield Superior Court by [illegible] for their failure to fulfill [illegible] contract for the purchase of [illegible] lands. A. G. Deardorff, one of the directors, is named among the [illegible]. The land involved is [illegible] 9, 28-20. The plaintiff was [illegible] 100,000 shares of stock and [illegible] conspiracy to defraud.

The [illegible] Oil Company, operating on section 32, 12-23, has contracted with the American Well and [illegible] Company to drill its No. [illegible]

RAINS LIKE A SAHARA DESERT.

HYDE PARK MIRACLE FAILS TO STUN THE WORLD.

Flaming Circus Posters of Texas Weather-maker, Warning Public to Get in Out o' Wet, Flap Disconsolate and Desiccated—"Professor" Not of Those Present.

The chair of rainology at the Hyde Park University of Weather is vacant. A somber stack rears its gloomy height sixty-five feet into the undisturbed and cloudless ethereal; a heavy padlock guards well the secret of stockade, but—the professor has aparently "flown the coop."

Yesterday was the day fixed by the Texas rainmaker, "Professor" J. W. Matthews, for a demonstration of his wonderful machine; the instrument by which the rainless zone was to be deluged, and through which the irrigation systems of the world were to be as naught.

Ten days ago the "professor" issued his warning and hoisted the storm signals. "Get in your hay," he advised, "and get out your umbrellas, for on June 25 it will rain; no measly little tuppenny shower, but a real sure enough man's sized rain, an inch anyway—mebbe more."

So it came to pass that the ranchers in the Hyde Park district hurried as they worked, and hurrying kept an eager eye on the weather factory. By Monday night all was snug. The hay was in; a wagon load of cement was carefully blanketed; windows were closed, and at the postoffice along about bed-time it was the consensus of opinion that the "professor" was at liberty to "let 'er rain."

Did it rain?

"No, gtnele reader, it did not rain. Instead, the sun rose in unusual splendor, and even the "high fog" of which the regular "honest to goodness" weather makers delight to tell was absent. Clouds did hover over that stack, but they were clouds of gloom, and incapable of settling a single grain of the prolific dust.

A hunt started for the "professor," but the "professor" was apparently not apparent. While they hunted, the Hyde Park citizens re-read the announcement that "my perfected apparatus for rainmaking is the only sure moisture gathering machinery in the world. By the use of certain chemicals which are known only to me I can command rain whenever I so choose. Remember the date, June 25, 1912. Get that hay under cover."

Hyde Park is disappointed, not to say disillusioned. For two months the man of mystery has worked at his wonderful invention. He used to arrive at his "factory" at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, and spent the night in communion with the gods of rain. About 4 in the morning he tuned up the machinery, and everybody within a radius of two miles would get up to help assemble the remains. Only there never were any remains, for after a few minutes of racket the performance would be over and the wet foundry closed until night.

FROM TEXAS.

The only information Matthews ever volunteered was that he came from Texas because he was disgusted with a country where it rained—sometimes—of its own accord. He wanted a field for endeavor unsullied by the butting-in of Nature. He could give the other fellows the entire deck, all but the two spot, and then evolve embryo Niagara Fallses and other scenic reproductions notable for their extreme aqueousness. The secret of the ages had "loosened up" for the Texan, the Sphinx had whispered and upon Southern California was the boon of her communication to be bestowed. This, or words to the same general effect, Hyde Parkers aver the rainmaker said, as they listened in open-mouthed wonder to his infrequent discourses.

For the most part he worked by himself, locked into a stockade about sixteen feet square, from the center of which rises a big stack. Although the rain factory adjoins a lumber yard, all of the material was hauled from Los Angeles. A fifty-horse-power electric motor was installed. This is attached to an immense blower at the base of the stack. Fifty-horse-power fed into the yawning mouth of an otherwise inoffensive smoke stack is conducive to rain—or something. In this case it was noise.

THE FATAL DAY.

Yesterday, the 25th, arrived as close to schedule as a limited train. The public ranged itself in a hollow square, armed with umbrellas, but ready to flee to shelter if this protection proved inadequate. Then, oh ten thousand piffles, it not only didn't rain, but the "public" suddenly remembered that Matthews had not been on the job for a week.

No one in Hyde Park knows where the noisy near-rain-maker lives. He may have gone back to Texas for all they know; he may be mixing a new batch of chemicals; he may be vexed with the climate.

In the meantime some $2000 worth of perfectly good machinery waits only the waving of the magician's wand, and the return of the day of miracles to start into activity, and "astonish the whole civilized world," in the words of Matthews's announcement.

But not on June 25, 1912.

HEARING POSTPONED.

Sickness of Proprietor of Vernon "Country Club" Sends Case to Close Resort Over for a Week.

The hearing of complaints against the so-called Vernon "Country Club" operated by Baron Long, which was to have been held yesterday by the Board of Trustees of Vernon, was postponed until Tuesday of next week owing to the sickness of Long and his inability to leave the Sisters' Hospital.

The little City Hall of Vernon was well-filled when the board was called to order. A communication from Long was presented by W. H. Jones, manager of the "club," in which Long stated that he had been ill for the last three weeks and would not be able to leave the hospital for a few days, and asking that the hearing be deferred until he could be present.

As a first move on the part of the Vernon Trustees to put a stop to the criminal speeding of automobiles coming from the "club," an ordinance is now before the board regulating the rate of travel. Heretofore Vernon has relied upon the State law, which permits thirty miles per hour. The new ordinance is a duplicate of the one in force in Los Angeles and is expected to pass on final reading at next Tuesday's meeting.

The resort was closed by the Trustees Sunday. This action was taken upon the grounds that liquor had been sold to minors. The Trustees yesterday stated that the place would remain closed until Long was given a hearing.

At the same time it was asked that those having complaints against the club would prepare them by next Tuesday.

IN THE INFERIOR COURTS.

Young Man Makes Second Change of Plea to Charge of Disturbing the Peace and Is Fined.

J. J. Tilley, a young man arrested about ten days ago and charged by Traffic Officer Johnson with disturbing the peace, was fined $40 yesterday by Police Judge Frederickson. When grt arraigned, Tilley pleaded guilty and asked for immediate sentence. The justice continued the case until the next day. Tilley appeared with counsel, pleaded not guilty and demanded a jury trial. Later he signified a willingness to plead guilty, whereupon the City Prosecutor's office recommended clemency.

Tilley was charged with affronting three actresses on South Spring street.

Long Distance Speeder.

D. A. Gaddas, No. 111 Stimson block, told Police Judge Chambers yesterday that he had driven more than 100,000 miles in and around Los Angeles during the last nine years when he was arraigned by Motorcycle Officer Gardner on a complaint charging him with exceeding the speed law on South Grand avenue. "There was something wrong with the auto and I let it out a little to find out what the trouble was," explained the defendant. He was fined $25.

Explanation Is Lame.

It cost Jose Garcia $30 or thirty days to fashion one blade of an old pair of scissors into a knife, using two pieces of wood for the handle, which were held in place by bits of string, and carry the weapon around in his pocket. He was arrested on the Plaza by Patrolman J. J. Hickey. "I used it to cut string," said Garcia when asked for an explanation. "Poor thing for such a purpose," replied the court imposing sentence.

A Costly Imitation.

John E. Wilson looked as rational as the average human being when arraigned before Police Judge Chambers yesterday. He was charged in a complaint signed by Patrolman S. L. Walker with being drunk on San Fernando street and acting like a crazy man.

Aside from admitting he was drunk, Wilson had nothing to say. He was fined $5 or five days.

Because It Was Empty.

A white enameled bath tub in the rear room of a barber shop at No. 123 East First street looked so much like a fresh, clean bed to Joe Hawse while in a drunken condition Monday afternoon that he lay down in it and went to sleep. He remonstrated with the Japanese attendant of the shop when awakened, declaring he had left no call. When Plainclothesman A. A. Watson appeared, Hawse resisted and showed an equally unruly disposition when taken to the Central Station. Police Judge Chambers fined him $5 or five days.

SMUGGLER CAPTURED.

William E. Balluff, better known as Ed Gibbons, was captured yesterday by Inspector Miller at Alamitos Bay. Balluff is the eighth man to be taken into custody in connection with the case of the launch America, that unloaded twenty-three contraband Chinamen at Pescadora. When taken before Immigration Inspector Connell, yesterday, he confessed the part he had played in the smuggling operations and told the story of the voyage of the launch from the time it left Ensenada until it was abandoned.

POHLMAN CASE ARGUED.

The argument in the W. H. Pohlman contempt case was completed yesterday afternoon, and at the conclusion, Judge Wellborn said that he would decide the matter later. Special Counsel Oscar Lawler asserted that Pohlman had refused to turn over the letters and telegrams received from the McNamaras, because he wanted to protect Olaf Tveitmoe, Anton Johansen, A. E. Clancey and J. E. Munsey of Salt Lake.

SEEKS OUTLET FOR MONEY.

English Capitalist Says Foreign Loans Were Held up Because of Canadian Treaty Provisions.

"America in general, and California in particular, needs the aid of foreign capital in great development enterprises," said Ralph Hancock, financial expert and general engineer of London, yesterday at the Angelus.

"Patriotism has recently caused Americans to look with aversion on England and English money when the real inside of the reciprocity treaty with Canada was bared and English capitalists became apprehensive as to further placing of money in this country," he said.

"Many projects which were in their hands at the time were turned down and much money which would have been used in the United States was diverted to Canada and other British colonies. American promoters now in London are seeking to obtain upwards of $150,000,000 for the exploitation of big enterprises.

"California is looked upon as the best territory in the world at the present time for sound investment with the biggest returns, and therefore had much English money coming this way. My present visit has to do with the inspection of properties which may or may not be taken up by the people I represent."

BEWITCHING.

Los Angeles has had a week of wonder nights. They have been cooled by the breath of the sea and flooded with an ecstacy of moonlight, bringing us, if it were possible, to love our city more and more.

HIS DAY.

Every dog will not have his day in this city if those who own these faithful friends fail to muzzle them at once, according to the requirements of the city ordinance for the summer time. If you care for your dog see that he is a conformist.

OUR LITTLE BROTHERS.

Anaheim is making preparations for an elaborate and a delightful celebration of the glorious Fourth. The smaller cities cannot cope with Los Angeles in the entertainment of big conventions and our people should join them with enthusiasm in the lesser feasts which they give.

GOOD SENSE.

The former Roosevelt men who are hastening to secure places on the Taft band wagon are showing good sense. Roosevelt has small hope of splitting the Democratic party, nor can he win the Socialists. Republicans cannot afford to be deceived on this score. A party's fight should end at home and never be carried outside of the nominating convention.

AN INJUSTICE.

The failure of Congress to appropriate money is reported to have left army and navy officers temporarily without pay. It is a great injustice to work a hardship upon these men. The public has no servants who do so much for so little pay and it has no business adding to their discomfort. Men of the same ability in any other line of business would probably be vastly better rewarded.

MATURE JUDGMENT.

For some time the owner of the Broadway Department Store has been considering several sites for a new building to house that large establishment. His mature judgment is to build on the present site at Fourth street and Broadway. He is in the very center of the city's best business and certainly has no occasion to go elsewhere. Every foot of Broadway is good and it will always be.

A RIPE SCHOLAR.

The presence of Dr. Richard Burton, who has the chair of literature in the University of Minnesota, is a source of pleasure to students of the drama in Los Angeles. Dr. Burton gets away from the pedagogic in his brilliant and mature studies, caring vastly more for the message of a work than he cares for its form. He is one of the greatest exponents of things worth while in modern letters who is today contributing to the progress of American universities.

USING CARE.

It must be with profound grief that so many automobile accidents with their sad fatalities are noted. As they value their own lives automobile drivers must consider the lives of pedestrians. In showing consideration for others they only safeguard themselves. The attempt to escape when an accident has occurred is a twofold folly. Those who do so are captured and made to face the responsibility anyway, and their attempt to evade it only emphasizes the feeling against them when they are in the wrong.

ABOVE REMORSE.

A man met some old friends from his native State in the lobby of a local hotel and was so stirred by memories of his lost youth that he went away and destroyed himself. Men should not feel less than they were before because life has brought changes to them. They should not be filled with despair because old friends are gone and new ones have come in their stead. They should not mourn that the flowers of childhood have ripened into the harvest of maturity. The heart should keep its youth and its dreams, wherever our feet may lead us at the noontide of life or at its sunset, and men should ever live above remorse, sure that although all things pass, the essentials of selfhood with its service and its triumphs remain in each heart forever.

A TANGLE.

What will the managers of the proposed Progressive party do in the Congress districts where they are now in control of the Republican organization? And what will they do in those districts where the friends of Taft are in control? The result of a State-wide preference primary cannot very well be made applicable to a Congressional or legislative district. Los Angeles voters will not expect to help nominate a candidate for Congress in Calaveras for whom they cannot vote, and they will not consent to invoke the aid of the statesmen of Siskiyou to help them nominate Congressmen from this city.

The voters in this city may be classified as Socialists, Democrats, regular Republicans and insurgent Republicans. No one of these alone has a clear majority; any two combined can defeat any one of the others. If all four should present candidates the Socialists would probably elect two Congressmen. If the regular and insurgent Republicans should combine they would elect both Congressmen. If either the regular or the insurgent Republicans should support Democrats then Democrats would be elected.

The situation is complex at present, but there is plenty of time between now and election in which to untangle it.

THIRD PARTY HAS NO LEGS.

Legs? Even if it had feet it would have no footing. There is absolutely not one square inch of room in America for the "Bull-Moose" party to stand on.

If Mr. Roosevelt is not deaf, blind and bereft of all his other senses, even he, in spite of his egotistical confidence in his destiny, must see this. Almost all his followers have comprehended clearly that there is no more necessity in the political conditions prevailing, and no more call on the part of the people for a new party than there is for a pig to have five feet or a lamb two tails.

California will probably occupy the awkward and undesirable position of being the only State in the American Union which will set up more than a simulacrum of an organization for Roosevelt. As to the other States, the cries of the colonel will be a mere squeak.

Even if he did think beforehand that the State of Pennsylvania or that of Illinois would follow him into the wilderness, he must realize now how unfounded his hopes were. Not even Kansas nor Nebraska will go out of the regular Republican party to follow in the wobbly steps of the "Bull-Moose" through the trackless woods that lead to destruction. Senator Cummins of Iowa with all his followers, however disappointed they may feel, will stay inside the regular party and fight their battles there. The same course is to be followed by Senator La Follette of Wisconsin and all the "Badgers" who refuse to take to their holes.

There is no room for the Bull-Moose party for the very good reason that popular rule goes in the Republican party, and reformers can fight it out inside of the party lines all summer and winter, all the years of their lives. This has been demonstrated in Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas and all through the Middle West, through the Far West, and away to the Farthest East in Maine. New York and Connecticut Republicans, those in Rhode Island, Delaware and elsewhere, have a right to fight for their reforms or against the Wisconsin idea, as may seem best to them. Can not the colonel and the rest of the little bunch that is out hunting a shady place in the dense woods, learn something from California? Surely our State is "progressive" enough to suit the most ardent ally of populistic democracy on the face of the earth.

The last sentence brings us to the end of these reflections. If some pent up Utica confines the Oyster Bay colonel's powers in spite of the progress made in Wisconsin, Minnesota and Kansas, is there not a wide sweltering wilderness of mob democracy surging around Col. Bill in Baltimore, and cannot our quondam colonel find refuge under the other big canvas? Is it not plain that in all the history of the United States, politically speaking, the political circus has always performed under two great tents, and if the fun was not furious enough under one it has always been competent for the dissatisfied to seek refuge in the other?

SCAREHEAD POLITICS.

Lower tariff rates would not bring lower cost of living except to a comparatively few people. The consumers of imported goods do not live on the farms, or in the cottages, or tenement houses. Nearly if not quite all of the income of those who earn or receive from $50 to $100 per month is expended for necessaries and comforts of life that are produced at home.

A reduction in tariff duties would not lessen the cost of flour, or of meat, or of vegetables or fruit, or fuel, or milk, or butter, or eggs, or rent, or taxes, or pew rent, or Sunday-school picnics, or moving picture shows, or contributions to foreign missions, or painting the town red.

The gainers by tariff reduction would be the very rich, the well-to-do, and those whose income is derived from investments, pensions, annuities or high salaries. The losers by tariff reduction would be the hand workers, the market for whose goods would be lost to the extent that foreign workers gained a market. Or, if the home producers held the American market, they could only do so by reducing the prices for their goods, and necessarily reducing the wages of those who made the goods.

The real question, the vital question, the dominant question before the American people at the coming election will be whether we shall now substitute a revenue tariff for a protective tariff. The people of the cotton States will be, as they always have been, against a protective tariff. Their great agricultural product is cotton, which finds a market abroad and the price of which is fixed at Liverpool. The great mass of their laborers are colored people who are a negligible quantity in politics, and in whose welfare the governing class do not even pretend to have an interest. The Democratic representation in Congress comes largely from the South, and from the slums of northern cities, and not from the manufacturing centers of the North. The members are provincial and prejudiced and make no secret of their hostility to the doctrine of protection to American labor.

The coming campaign will be one of education. The progressive leaders will not be able to mislead the great body of the voters with their chatter of loud sounding meaningless phrases about "big business," "predatory wealth," "special privilege" and "loathsome capitalism."

The worker in textile fabrics can readily comprehend that a reduction in duty on those articles will mean an immediate and inevitable reduction in his wages, while the effect of "predatory wealth" and "special privilege" upon his earnings, or the cost of living, cannot be made manifest unto him. He knows that the defeat of Taft will mean lower wages for those engaged in manufacturing industries, and when told that the election of Roosevelt will be of advantage to him he will say, "Show me."

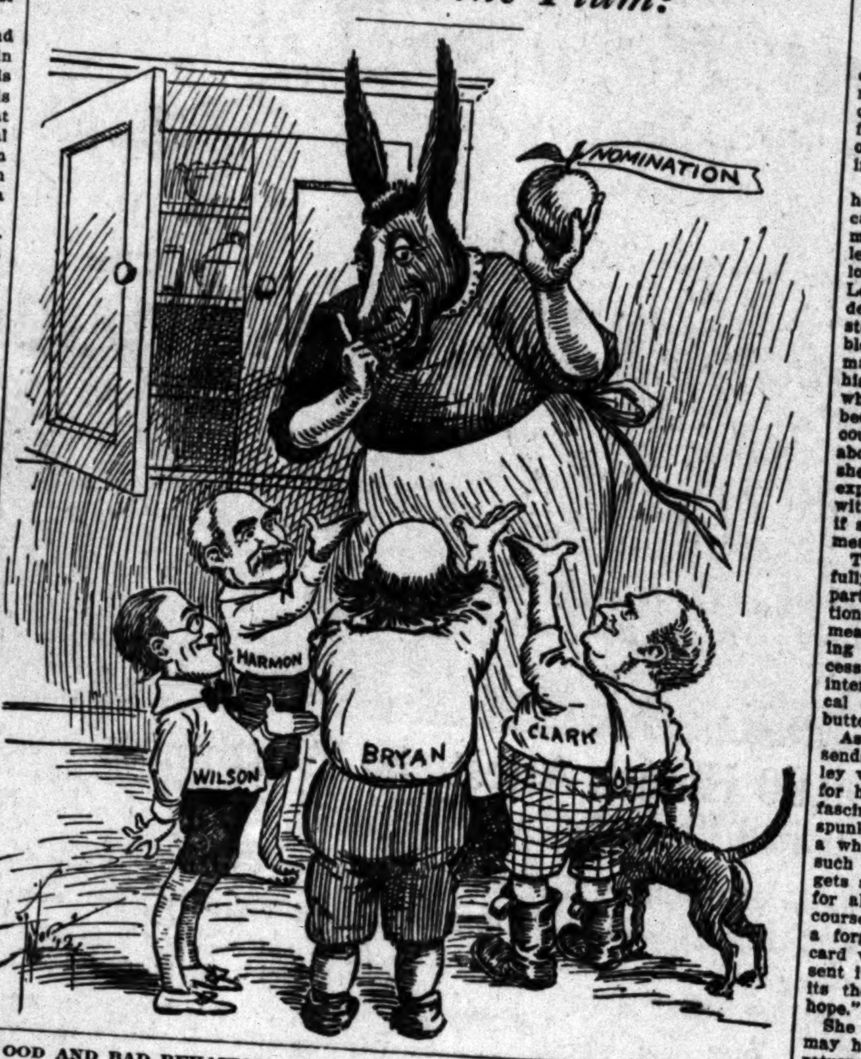
And they cannot show him.

The "reactionaries who stand for government by plutocracy" are hollow pumpkin scare heads perched on a fence rail. They scare horses and small children, but men laugh at them.

"Erin go bragh," said Sidney Smith, "is well enough for a slogan, but Erin would better go for roast mutton and plenty of potatoes instead of "bragh."

There is a woman in Los Angeles who can sharpen a lead pencil so cleverly that it does not look as if she had chewed it off with her teeth. She is in a class by herself.

Who Gets the Plum?



GOOD AND BAD BEHAVIOR.

There is pending in the United States Senate an amendment to Section 1 of Article 3 of the United States Constitution, which reads as follows:

"Section 1. The judicial power of the United States shall be vested in one Supreme Court, and in such inferior courts as the Congress may from time to time ordain and establish. The judges, both of the Supreme and inferior courts, shall, at stated times, receive for their services a compensation, which shall not be diminished during their continuance in office. The judges of the Supreme Court shall hold their offices during good behavior. The judges of the inferior courts shall hold their offices for ten years."

It is not stated what acts of a judge shall constitute "good behavior" and what shall be deemed bad behavior. Behavior is like an egg. It must be either good or bad. It cannot be medium. The proposed amendment does not indicate who shall be the judge of the behavior of the judge. If it is the President and—through the scourgings of Providence—he should chance to be a Democrat—he might deem guilty of bad behavior those judges who voted the Republican tickets. If the President should be a Republican—as is likely to be the case until well into the twenty-first century—the fact that a judge voted the Democratic ticket might not be considered bad behavior, for there are Democrats whose moral conduct is often exemplary, and whose manners leave very little to be desired. The fact that a judge was a Democrat would cast a cloud upon his intellectual qualifications only, and very stupid persons are often well behaved.

A standard of behavior might be established to comply with the old New England rule

> "Keep your nose clean,
> Do as you're bid,
> Shut the door after you
> And you'll never be chid."

It will be noted that good behavior is required only of Supreme justices. No such drastic and tyrannical requirement is imposed upon District and Circuit judges. As some compensation for limiting their term of office to ten years they are allowed to behave as they please.

A Supreme judge if he sings must chant "Lead Kindly Light" or "Beyond the Smiling and the Weeping," while a Circuit judge may carol "I Love My Wife, But Oh, You Kid," or dwell on the tail of the "Houn' Dawg." A Supreme judge may play only chess or checkers, while a District judge may take a hand at p——r. A Supreme judge must attend divine service on the Sabbath, while a Circuit judge watches a baseball game. A District judge may be a gay Lothario, but a Supreme judge must never, never, do anything wrong—if he can help it.

MISTAKEN.

The "progressives" who are comforting themselves with the idea that any considerable number of Democrats will join them in the political cave of Adullam wherein they are now abiding will find themselves greatly mistaken. They are dwelling in a fool's paradise. They are reckoning without their host. They are densely ignorant of the mental and moral composition of a true Democrat. They comprehend not the primary rules of political arithmetic. The Democrat will encourage the Republican to bolt. He will sing sweet songs to him about the Democratic support that will be accorded him. He will make him believe that half the members of the Democratic party are hungering and thirsting for a chance to leave their organization and vote for a progressed Republican. And all the while the unterrified one has not the slightest intention of voting for the Republican bolter. When he says he will do so he lies all the way from his trachea down to his diaphragm. He will leave the bolter at the church door and sing "My wife won't let me."

A tired mule on a mountain trail, with a sore back and a load of stoves, can neither be forced nor coaxed beyond his usual stopping place. There is no force known to nature that will cajole or drive an old-fashioned, saleratus-saturated Democrat away from his party. He is there to stay.

UNCLE WALT.

The Poet Philosopher.

I said to the butcher, Jones: "Your mutton is mostly bones, and your mildewed beef fills my soul with grief, and your fish is as hard as stones. Your chickens are on the blink, and your lard and your bacon stink; so I'll cross the street for a bunch of meat—they sell better goods, I think." The butcher he said: "Your verse, I'm certain, could not be worse; it's enough to make a dead man break the doors from the village hearse. The man who would write such rhymes should lie in the jail betimes with fetters to bind his wrists behind to keep him from further crimes." I said to this Jones next day: "I've come my account to pay; you are selling meat that can not be beat, and a tribute should come your way." The butcher he said to me: "I read all your rhymes with glee; they are out of sight and I hope you'll write till the end of eternity." You'll find things about the same; you climb on a neighbor's frame, and he'll swat you back with an ugly thwack and show he can play that game. You hand him a nice bouquet, and the scheme will surely pay; for he'll rake around till a rose he's found, and the same he'll pass your way.

WALT MASON

THE OLDEST AMERICAN.

The Yale experts on antique bones—the Yale paleontologists—have published their findings regarding the Cuzco man, dug up by that university's Peruvian expedition last year. There were found only two or three bone fragments of this primitive South American, pieces of the leg bones and ribs and part of the skull, but from these Dr. Eaton of the Peabody Museum is able to give a general idea of his appearance in the flesh. He was, says the doctor, a very thick set, powerful man, probably about five feet four inches in height, and evidently far more human than ape-like. Indeed so far as his appearance was concerned, he could not have differed greatly in general character from the savage man of today. The interesting thing about him, or, to be more accurate, about his bones, is the probability of his extreme antiquity. The gravel in which the bones were buried is almost certainly, according to Prof. Bowman, the geoglist of the expedition, a deposit of the glacial period; and the bones were buried in it something less than 40,000 but more than 20,000 years ago. If the professor is right, these are probably the bones of the very oldest American yet resurrected. There have been reported, it is true, numerous finds of bones of glacial man in the United States, but none of them to date standing the test of a careful study of their character and place of discovery. It is quite possible, indeed very probable, that the Yale expedition's conclusions will be questioned by other paleontologists. But at the present writing, and so far as the layman can see, the Yale experts have an unusually strong case in support of the genuineness of their bones. Europe has accumulated a considerable collection of glacial human bones. Java has the credit of Pithecanthropus erectus, probably the most primitive "human-like" man yet to be recorded; a few weeks ago a Neanderthal man was reported from the Cambridge fens in England (the genuineness of the discovery has since been denied) so that it was time for America to bestir herself unless she was willing to be left hopeless behind in the matter of old bones.

THE GROWTH OF CITIES.

Arguing that we are coming to a time of much great "social," interdependent and co-operative effort, a time of correspondingly lessening activity along purely individualistic lines, the Wall Street Journal presents some comparative statistics of the growth of cities:

City—	Present population.	Population. 1890.
London	7,252,963	4,231,431
Berlin	3,712,554	1,579,244
Paris	2,846,986	2,344,550
Tokio	2,186,079	1,309,684
Chicago	2,185,283	1,098,576
Vienna	2,004,291	1,364,548
St. Petersburg	1,907,708	956,226
Philadelphia	1,549,008	1,044,894
Moscow	1,359,254	753,469
Buenos Ayres	1,319,747	546,986
Peking	1,017,209	500,000
	32,107,965	18,237,022

The point the Journal makes is this: The growth of the world's urban population is so great that nothing can be permitted to interfere with the food supply; therefore, when strikes or lockouts threaten to lessen the opportunities of cities to get food, the state must step in and compel a cessation of hostilities.

CUPID'S FLOWER TAX.

BY JANIE B. JONES.

The bashful young man who finds difficulty in expressing his sentimental sentiments in words should study the language of flowers. Tradition says it was quite a favorite method of making love and was often with more or less success employed in such missions in times past.

It is indeed quite easy to understand how convenient such a means of communication might be to an inexperienced young man who stuttered or couldn't write a letter. But all sorts and conditions of lovers seem to have made use of it. De Lesseps's courtship of his young wife was decided, it is said, by a dry and withered stem which he pointed out to her as emblematic of himself, a lonely and hopeless man, he said. But he later decided that his case wasn't so hopeless after all, when she showed him the stem that had become a living plant under her care. A country woman who was being teased about an undesirable admirer retorted that she had dismissed him with a turnip. She explained, however, that she had hit him with it, which was probably as effective as if she had handed him a sweet pea, which means "depart."

The language of flowers to be successfully employed happily requires that both parties be interested. Under such conditions a love affair can be carried on by means of it, aided of course by an admiring glance or two, through the usual successive steps of fancy, admiration, lively interest and devotion, and on to its logical end in a wedding ring or a bachelor button.

As a confession of love the young man sends his lady a spray of lilies of the valley with a fern leaf for greenery. It says for him, "Your unconscious sweetness has fascinated me." If she happens to be spunky she turns them upside down, adds a white carnation to tell her disdain of such fooling and returns them to him. He gets angry, concludes she may go to grass for all he cares and subsides. She, of course, changes her mind and sends him a forget-me-not, but does not inclose her card with it for fear he might guess who sent it. He returns a rosebud divested of its thorns, meaning "I fear no longer, I hope."

She is afraid she may have gone too far, may have encouraged false hopes, and so returns the bud to him stripped of both leaves and thorns. It says to him, "There is nothing to either fear or hope," but to keep him from feeling too bad she adds a sprig of arbor vitae to show her "unchanging friendship" for him.

That settles him, changing his lively interest to absolute devotion. He gathers a moss rosebud and some myrtle, to show that as both mean "love" he loves her twice as much as any other fellow loves his best girl, and sends them to her wrapped in smilax for constancy.

She is afraid to say anything more definite until she finds out more about him besides flowers, so she returns him a pansy and a passion flower, telling him that she is thinking of him and has faith in him. He sends her a four-leafed clover; "Be mine," it begs. But she has discovered meanwhile that he is a tobacco clerk and gets only $7 a week, so she fences, sending him a yellow rose, an ivy spray and a broken straw. It says to the surprised young man, "Your jealousy has broken our friendship." He is very, very angry and ties up a bunch consisting of a lily, a columbine, a colored daisy, a sprig of witch hazel and a broken straw, rams it into an old shoe box and sends it to her, saying sternly in effect, "Your folly and coquetry have broken the spell of your beauty."

And she, woman-like, determined to have the last word, sends him a scarlet geranium, a passion flower and a purple hyacinth, saying in effect, "I trust you will find consolation through faith in your sorrow."

Hopeless of expressing his feeling in the floral language he turns to the hair shop and sends her a couple of "rats."

His Worry.

The president of the university wore a hunted expression. Every now and then he turned and glanced apprehensively behind him.

"You look ill," said his wife. "What is wrong, dear?"

"Nothing much," he replied. "But—I—I had a fearful dream last night, and I feel this morning as if I—as if I—" He hesitated and stammered. It was evident that his nervous system was shattered.

"What was the dream?" asked his wife.

"I—I—dreamed the trustees required that—that I should pass the freshman examination for admission!" sobbed the president.

ROOSEVELT AND THE TARIFF.

[Omaha World-Herald:] The Roosevelt history in regard to the tariff is sufficient explanation of his continued silence on that subject. He started out as a Free Trader and was a member of the Free Trade Club of New York and of the Cobden Club in London. He made a very characteristic speech in favor of free trade. Shortly after he withdrew from both clubs and in explanation of his course wrote a letter to Poultney Biglow and said that if he was ever to get anything out of politics he would have to join the Republican party, and he makes no mention of the tariff for fear the old record might trouble him.

When She Was Silent.

[Washington Star:] "Henrietta," said Mr. Meekton.

"What is it, Leonidas?"

"Suppose I stay at home and economize in order to facilitate your public career and employ my leisure hours in assisting you with your speeches and magazine articles"——

"Well?"

"When you are prominent in public affairs, will you be one of those who candidly admit that they owe everything to their husbands?"

A Good Ruse.

"I don't."

"Then why in the world are you wearing that auto rig?"

"To keep fool motorists from running over me. They think I'm one of 'em."

VAUDEVILLE IN SEVERAL HOUSES.

Real vaudeville from start to finish is the best thing that can be said about the new Sullivan & Considine bill at the Empress Theater this week. The bill is diversified and goes with snap and dash.

The bill opens with Henry & Lizell, a clever and lively young team of singers and dancers who surprise their audience with a whirlwind acrobatic finish. Miss Lizell is a graceful dancer, while Mr. Henry is a tumbler of the "cyclone" variety.

Ethel Whitesides and her pickaninnies continue to keep things lively with a most palatable and enjoyable morsel of southern melodies and mirth. Miss Whitesides is a most attractive young woman, and every one of her aggregation of pickaninnies scores an individual hit.

The Five Musical MacLarens, who furnish the musical portion of the new bill, provide one of the best musical offerings that have been seen on the Empress stage in recent memory. They play almost everything in the way of a musical instrument with a degree of excellence, while their numbers together are particularly pleasing. They also display good voices.

"Bill Jenks, Crook," a one-act play of the underworld, and one of the week's features, is one of the most interesting one-act plays this circuit has yet offered. The sketch tells the exciting tale of a crook of modern "Raffles" methods and a young girl lover, who, closely pursued by the police, are apparently "landed" in the room of a hotel. A battle of wits ensues in which the gentlemanly Mr. Jenks leads his captor to believe he has escaped by means of a fire rope. Falling into this trap, the detective starts down the rope in pursuit. Jenks steps from behind the curtain, cuts the fire rope, and the curtain leaves them leisurely making their escape to the elevator. The piece is well given by William S. Gill, Grace Hopkins and two other capable players.

George Yoeman, monologist and a favorite with local audiences, is again on the bill, and, as usual, scores a hit of no small proportions. Mr. Yoeman still retains the best of his funny "cafeteria" talk, but also comes with a fund of fine new laugh-producing material. Yoeman has found a unique manner of announcing himself, which brings him upon the stage amid a roar of applause—and there is a whole lot in getting a good start.

The Bessie Valdere Troupe of six bicycle girls offer an ensemble on wheels that is most effective and entertaining. Each of the girls proves her ability by a score of difficult tricks on the bicycle, and one in particular, a winsome little miss with Leslie Carter tresses, does some really sensational work.

Next week Manager Worley announces Mario Molasso and Mlle. Ana Bremonde, with their company of fifteen in the French dancing pantomime, "Paris by Night."

Three big features are presented at Pantages this week with the remainder of the bill almost as good. The big event is the appearance of Fred Bowers, late star of many musical comedies and a song composer not unknown to fame. He is accompanied by a dancer, Miss Lillian Broderick, who is almost as important in the act as the star. Miss Broderick can be equally graceful in the skirts of Columbine or the pantaloons of Pierrot, and uses both in her dances. She joins also in effective duets with Bowers. The hit of the act is Bowers's solo, "O, You Circus Day," with Miss Broderick as a red and purple clad clown dancing the accompaniment. A ferocious-looking French bulldog adds variety to the event. The second number in the quality trio is Leslie Keller, programmed as the Venus on Wheels. Miss Keller is there with the wheels and with the Venus part, too, also she sings, and dances, but she is most emphatic as Venus, in a costume of sheer silk built for the purpose of proving Miss Keller's claim to the title asserted in the programme, "The most perfectly-formed woman on the stage." Number three of the aristocratic trinity is

On the Stage.

Real vaudeville from start to finish is the best thing that can be said about the new Sullivan & Considine bill at the Empress Theater this week. The bill is diversified and goes with vim and dash.

The bill opens with Henry & Lizell, a clever and lively young team of singers and dancers who surprise their audience with a whirlwind acrobatic finish. Miss Lizell is a graceful dancer, while Mr. Henry is a tumbler of the "cyclone" variety.

Ethel Whitesides and her pickaninnies continue to keep things lively with a most palatable and enjoyable blend of southern melodies and dances. Miss Whitesides is a most attractive young woman, and every one of her aggregation of pickaninnies scores an individual hit.

The Five Musical MacLarens, who furnish the musical portion of the new bill, provide one of the best musical offerings that have been seen on the Empress stage in recent months. They play almost everything in the way of a musical instrument with a degree of excellence, while their numbers together are particularly pleasing. They also display good voices.

"Bill Jenks, Crook," a one-act play of the underworld, and one of the week's features, is one of the most interesting one-act plays this circuit has yet offered. The sketch tells the thrilling tale of a crook of modern "Raffles" methods and a young girl thief who, closely pursued by the police, are apparently "landed" in the room of a hotel. A battle of wits ensues in which the gentlemanly Mr. Jenks leads his captor to believe he has escaped by means of a fire rope. Falling into this trap, the detective slides down the rope in pursuit. Jenks comes from behind the curtain, cuts the rope, and the curtain leaves them leisurely making their escape via the elevator. The piece is well played by William S. Gill, Grace Hopkins and two other capable players.

George Yeoman, monologist and a favorite with local audiences, is again on the bill, and, as usual, scores a hit of no small proportions. Mr. Yeoman still retains the best of his funny [illegible] talk, but also comes with a lot of fine new laugh-producing material. Yeoman has found a unique way of announcing himself, which brings him upon the stage amid a burst of applause—and there is a lot in getting a good start.

The Bessie Valdera Troupe of six clever girls offer an ensemble on wheels that is most effective and entertaining. Each of the girls proves her ability by a score of difficult feats on the bicycle, and one in particular, a winsome little miss with long Carter tresses, does some really sensational work.

Next week Manager Worley announces Mario Molasso and Mlle. Ana [illegible] with their company of fifteen in a French dancing pantomime, "[illegible] by Night."

Six big features are presented at Pantages this week with the remainder of the bill almost as good. The headliner is the appearance of Fred [illegible], late star of many musical comedies and a song composer not unknown to fame. He is accompanied by a dancer, Miss Lillian Broderick, who is almost as important in the act as the star. Miss Broderick can be as graceful in the skirts of Columbine or the pantaloons of Pierrot, and is both in her dances. She is also in effective duets with [illegible]. The hit of the act is Bowers' "O, You Circus Day," with Miss Broderick as a red and purple clown dancing the accompaniment. A ferocious-looking French [illegible] adds variety to the event. The [illegible] number in the quality trio is [illegible] Keller, programmed as the "Venus on Wheels." Miss Keller is there on the wheels and with the Venus form, also she sings, and dances. She is most emphatic as Venus, in a costume of sheer silk built for the purpose of proving Miss Keller's right to the title asserted in the programme, "The most perfectly-formed woman on the stage." Number [illegible] of the aristocratic trinity is a cross-fire comedy dispensed by Arthur Don and Harry O'Neal. The only way to describe this number is to report the number of laughs it contains. This will never be done, however, as, in trying to stop laughing, one forgets to count.

Now comes the sad part of the bill, a waif story narrated by William Bittner, Ella Bittner and Margaret Bittner. The story is commonplace, the acting of the principal character is not acting at all, and the outcome is foreseen from the moment the man speaks his first sentence. According to this, the playlet ought to be a flat failure, and so it is, but the audience comes near to crying in sympathy with the waif, and certainly does laugh in appreciation of the cute little actress—so there you are, and Bittner continues to draw good money from Pantages. Jewell and Jordan whistle. They do it well. They whistle classic music and quail calls with equal accuracy. The Juggling Normans are as good as club manipulators get to be. They are shining examples of all that club-jugglers should be. Their work is fast and accurate—but who wants to see club jugglers. Another decade will see this class of act either forgotten or confined to its native European habitat. The Gaumont weekly news pictures are unusually good and interesting.

Monte Carter and the new company of players at the Olympic Theater will take leave of that playhouse tomorrow for a week's engagement at Ocean Park, and in their place will be seen the Edwin T. Emery Musical Comedy Company in a lively musical comedy offering entitled "Mam'selle Harriz." The latter aggregation of entertainers will include Mlle. Harriz, a talented young danseuse, who will appear with Comedian Emery in "La Danse Du Mort," a new and novel dance offering that this pair are credited with having presented last winter in New York City.

Sampson and Sampson, "The Roman Gladiators," in hand balancing and heavy lifting, take away all honors at the Colonial Theater this week. Mrs. "Happy" Harrison and the mule, Dynamite, kept the audience in an uproar of laughter for a period of thirty minutes. This little animal has made more people laugh than any other animal on the vaudeville stage today.

"Edo" Gambold, "the Juggling Kook," and his Komedy Lunch Kounter (so the programme reads,) run the above two acts a close second for headline honors. The International Duo, singers and comediennes, and Drew Avery, "nigger singer," are pleasing. The "Q" first-run pictures and the challenge orchestra complete the bill.

Only $7.50 Reduction.

After reading ads offering ¼, ⅓ or ½ reduction on tailoring, $7.50 reduction on $50.00 suits seems small, doesn't it?

But this $7.50 reduction is genuine—it means no sacrifice in tailoring—or in your satisfaction—while if you are a keen-sighted business man, you know very well no tailor can cut his prices ¼, or ⅓, or ½, and still give you high-grade tailoring.

I am willing to sacrifice $7.50 on my $50.00 suits or $6.00 on my $40.00 suits, to close out my summer suitings.

—but remember, quality cutting doesn't go here.

Mrs. Aldo Lehmann,

Who was married last evening at the Woman's Club House. She was Miss Elsie Thompson, who was graduated this season with honors from the Westlake School for Girls. Below are two of her attendants at the ceremony.

THE wedding last evening in the Ebell Clubhouse of Miss Hazel Barlow and Kenyon Farrar Lee pleased the most expectant. The gowns and decorations, arranged under the personal direction of Miss Barlow were as exquisite as any seen this season.

The bride entered on the arm of her father, Allison Barlow. She was attired in white charmeuse satin, with trimmings of rose point and Duchesse lace. Her tulle veil was crowned with a wreath of orange blossoms and she carried a shower of lilies of the valley. She was attended by Miss Laura McVay, Miss Eugene Stetson, Miss Evangeline Duque and Miss Blanche Kellie, who were attired in pink charmeuse and lace. They carried long stemmed American beauties. Little Virginia Hazzard in a pretty frock of pink with a lace overdress, carried a gilt basket of Cecil Brunners. Bradner Wells Lee, Jr., was his brother's best man and Thomas Duque, Harold Ferguson and Marion Terry were ushers. The Rev. Joseph Compton of the Second Presbyterian Church read the service. Music was rendered by an orchestra.

The bride and groom plighted their troth before an altar of Kentia palms, ferns, and Matilija poppies. Leading to this was an aisle formed of gladioli arranged in gold baskets, which rested upon fern pedestals. About the rooms in huge jardineres were large clusters of Killarney roses.

Lee is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Bradner Wells Lee of this city and is a Stanford man. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allison Barlow of West Thirtieth street.

Supper was served in the court, which was brilliantly lighted with many small electric lights. Immediately following Mr. and Mrs. Lee left for a honeymoon trip and upon their return will reside in this city.

Thompson-Lehmann Wedding.

Miss Elsie Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ashley Spencer Thompson of No. 4714 Wilton place, who was graduated this year from the Westlake School for Girls, became the bride last evening, at a pretty ceremony at the Woman's Clubhouse, of Aldo Lehmann of this city. Rev. Arthur S. Phelps of the Central Baptist Church spoke the service in the presence of 175 guests, while Mrs. J. M. Jones rendered softly, beautiful selections on the harp. Miss Thompson, who was given away by her father, was attired in white satin charmeuse and princess lace, made panier effect and en-train. A tulle veil caught with lily-of-the-valley fell over the gown, and she carried a shower of white blossoms.

Miss Margaret McNeely, in white satin, with an over-dress of shadow lace, carried a shower of bridesmaid roses. She assisted as maid of honor, while the Misses Lois Zeehandelaar and Hazel Fowler, in pink crepe meteor and shadow lace, assisted as bridesmaids. They carried arm clusters of pink roses. Wallace Bailey was best man and the ushers were Clarence Bean and Newell Logan. At the conclusion of a brief trip Mr. and Mrs. Lehmann will spend the summer at Ocean Park.

The clubrooms were decorated with yards and yards of asparagus plumosus and 8000 Shasta daisies. An altar of greenery, daisies and bows of tulle was erected in the parlor. Over this was a canopy of asparagus ferns on the top of which perched two white doves.

Blackburn-Boone Wedding.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Blair Ford Boone, No. 1110 Glendon Way, South Pasadena, was beautifully decorated last evening with pink sweet peas, Shasta daisies, huge bows of tulle, and garlands of asparagus plumosus, the occasion being the wedding of their daughter, Miss Ramona Boone, and Richard William Blackburn, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Blackburn of Lucas avenue, this city. The bridal gown was a dainty affair of crepe meteor over satin, en-train, with a cluny lace tunic. With this a long veil was worn, caught with orange blossoms, and a bouquet of bride roses, with a shower of lilies of the valley was carried.

Miss Jewell Boone, sister of the bride, maid of honor, was attired in a beautiful creation of Italian embroidered voile, over pink satin. She carried Cecile Brunner roses. Charles Culver of this city was best man. The officiating minister was Rev. J. I. Myers, pastor of the Broadway Christian Church. As the bridal party entered, at 8:30, Mrs. Edmund Gale played the popular marches, also before the ceremony. The service was read in the large living-room beneath a beautiful canopy of asparagus plumosus, pink sweet peas and pink tulle. This was further enhanced by white pillars draped with greenery, at the base of which Kentia palms and brake ferns were banked in artistic profusion. Pink tulle shaded the lights in this room, while in the balance of the house, white tulle and Shasta daisies were utilized. The bride chose a tan English suiting for her traveling-gown, and following a northern wedding trip, the young couple will make their home in this city. There were 100 guests present at the wedding.

Another Wedding.

Tuesday this season has been even more popular with the brides than Wednesday, and yesterday many interesting marriages were solemnized. Miss Laura A. Wright, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Z. W. Wright of No. 341 South Hancock street, was married to Hugh Stanley Teitsworth of this city. The service took place in the East Los Angeles Baptist Church, Rev. Carstens officiating. Miss Wright was attired in white embroidered marquisette and she carried a cluster of white carnations. Miss Clara Miller assisted as maid-of-honor, and was gowned in white lingerie and carried carnations. Miss Mabel G. Wright, in a dainty affair of white like a tongue of fire through the mob within a few seconds after Judge Wellborn ceased speaking. It was the signal for a concerted rush toward the building. The instant the courtroom doors were thrown open, Lucille Norman (Mrs. Lucille Quidera) and Mercedes Figueroa leaped out and ran like antelopes for the street They reached it just as the vanguard of the mob from Main and New High streets swirled up the steps. Screaming in Spanish the slogans of the revolutionists, "Libertad y Tierra," they hurled themselves into the crowd.

BLOODY RIOTS.

From a crowd, the mass of humanity became in an instant a howling riot, its geographical center shifting swiftly from Temple and New High streets to the southwest corner of the Federal building. Actual rioting was in progress for almost an hour and the police estimate that over 2000 persons took part altogether. Two riot calls were sent in, thirteen men and five women were arrested on charges of inciting a riot and eight persons were more or less badly hurt. Of the latter, one rioter was badly hurt by an officer's club, one citizen was stabbed in an effort to assist the police and six officers were bruised and battered.

The first riot call was sent in when it became apparent that the force of deputies and plainclothesmen would be unable to quell the trouble. It was swiftly followed by a second. Five automobile loads of policemen were rushed to the scene and within ten minutes after the first outbreak, Capt. Murray, in charge of the Central Station, had sixty reserves on the ground, these in addition to those already sent in anticipation of trouble.

While they struggled with the rioters, other officers were bundling their prisoners into machines and taking them to headquarters, returning at once to the scene of trouble. The women, one with a baby in her arms, were taken to the Boyle Heights station. The men were locked up at the Central Station.

THE PRISONERS.

Following is the list of the men and women arrested:

Antonio Sarabia, No. 715 Arilia street, taken to the Receiving Hospital with a cut head; A. Tellez, Fred Dutva, Jack Clark, Peter Castorona, Charles Quidero, George Dickinson, Julius Ege, Francisco Valdez, Louis Scurr, A. Coneros, E. Sanchez, John Rincon, Miss Mercedes Figueroa, Miss Fera Figueroa, Miss Lucille Norman Quidera, Mrs. Valentia Espinosa, who carried an infant in her arms, and Mrs. A. Figueroa, mother of the Figueroa girls. She gave the name of Mrs. Celevra when arrested.

THE INJURED.

Charles Johnson, a colored bootblack, of No. 213½ North Main street, was stabbed in the right side while assisting the officers who went to the rescue of Detectives H. L. Varey. He was treated at the Receiving Hospital.

The officers who were hurt during the riot were:

Sergt. J. A. McDowell, hit on the back of the head; Patrolman W. C. Garard, bruises and contusions; Detective John Fitzgerald, bruises and contusions; Patrolman C. R. Hoffman, bruised face and back; Detective H. L. Varey, thrown down, ear bruised; Plainclothesman McAuliffe, black eye.

The police had most of their trouble with the Mexican women in the crowd. They took advantage of their sex and resisted the officers, knowing that they would not be roughly handled. In several instances the women took the long pins from their hats and attempted to use them on the officers and others who were assisting in quelling the disturbance.

While the melee was at its height, a Mexican struck Detective Varey from behind, knocking him down. Instantly two other Mexicans jumped on the prostrate officer. One of them was in the act of drawing a knife when Patrolman Hoffman knocked it out of his hand.

Johnson, the bootblack, rushed to Patrolman Hoffman's assistance, and was stabbed by a rioter who picked up the knife that the Mexican tried to use on Detective Varey.

Detective Fitzgerald was assaulted by a man who carried a knife. He saved himself by knocking the man to the ground by a well-directed blow on the neck.

LIKE A TIGRESS.

Mrs. Quidera fought like a tigress until several officers smothered her by taking her bodily in their arms. The Figueroa woman could not be suppressed until handcuffs were placed upon her wrists. In that condition she tried to excite further trouble by screaming at the top of her voice when placed in the patrol wagon.

The proceedings in the United States Courtroom were comparatively quiet. In order to avoid trouble, the four prisoners were brought over from the County Jail at 9 o'clock. Even at that hour the line of march to the Courtroom was lined with angry crowds of sympathizers.

Sergt. McDowell and ten policemen mixed with the throng in the corridors and in the courtroom. They were the objects of bitter invective, chiefly from the women. Twelve plain-clothes men of the city police and a half-dozen deputy sheriffs were on hand ready for business.

Before the convening of court, the relatives and friends of the prisoners were allowed to visit them inside the rail. Ricardo Flores Magon spent his time with his wife, but was the center of attraction, and every Mexican who entered the courtroom stopped to shake his hand. He was evidently pleased with these attentions. Enrique Flores Magon put in his time playing with his baby and talking earnestly with his wife. Figueroa and Rivera, whose retreating forehead and ferret-like eyes have earned for him the sobriquet of "the rat," held a reception with friends. None of the prisoners were apparently at all worried.

When the case was called, Willedd Andrews, attorney for the defense, asked for some degree of clemency, declaring that but one conspiracy had been proven against the men, and that at the time of the overt acts complained of there were thousands of men crossing the border into Mexico.

Assistant United States District Attorney Robinson, to whose activity most of the credit for the conviction of the quartette is due, replied that the men were not mere enthusiasts, but that two of the four had already served terms in the penitentiary for violation of the neutrality laws. Not only that, he said, but immediately after their release from prison, they had started the propaganda in Los Angeles. He declared they had favored murder, robbery and fire as a means of achieving their end—the establishment of an independent republic in Southern California—and that sentence should be inflicted that would be a lesson to them. The government, he said, had no desire to pursue any man, but the frequent violations of the neutrality laws as shown these men had been guilty of was deserving of a severe sentence.

THE SENTENCING.

Judge Wellborn, in passing sentence, said that the jury could have come to no other decision in the case, that the proof of their guilt was overwhelming. The law against the violation of neutrality is one of the oldest in the Federal statutes, passed by Congress during the administration of Washington. The violations of that law by these men, he declared, had been deliberate and persistent; it could not be permitted. In this case, as in nearly every other criminal case, he remarked that the innocent families of the prisoners must suffer, but that fact must not stand against a proper enforcement of the law. He entertained no feeling of resentment against the prisoners, but said the law must be enforced with absolute conscientiousness.

It was evident that the prisoners were delighted with the sentence then passed. They evidently realized that they could be sent to prison for two years on each count of the indictment, but Judge Wellborn made his ruling plain by remarking that there was but one charge of conspiracy against the men, and all had been found guilty of that. The fact that they had been found guilty of varying numbers of overt acts in connection with enlisting men for service in Mexico cut no figure, he said, the only sentence to be imposed was for conspiracy. Under the Federal statutes two years imprisonment or $10,000 fine, or both is all that can be given on that charge. Ricardo Flores Magon, who had collapsed when taken to jail last Saturday morning, fairly beamed. His brother reached over and kissed his wife. Figueroa shook his wife's hand, and even Rivera managed to smile his satisfaction.

The prisoners were fairly pushed into the elevator in the rear of the Federal building, the crowd in the corridor almost sweeping the officers off their feet. A half dozen crying young Mexican girls pressed toward the Magon brothers as if to make a demonstration, but were repulsed by the officers, the Magons themselves doing what they could to stop the bedlam. The prisoners were badly scared fearing that some danger might come to them through the activity of their over-zealous friends, and urged the crowd to disperse.

One of the startling possibilities of the case was revealed when Detectives Varey and Fitzgerald called upon United States Marshal Youngworth with the information that just after the prisoners had been returned to the jail, three Mexicans, supposed to have come from the new headquarters of the Junta on Boston street, drove up in an auto and stopped in front of the county garage on New High street. Just as they alighted the cordon of police had reached the jail. If the new comers had intended a rescue they were too late. It is stated by those at the county garage who saw the outfit that the auto contained six guns, presumably to be used by the rescue party and the prisoners in their fight for freedom. Word was sent to the Central Station to locate the mysterious strangers and the machine.

HISTORY OF THE CASE.

The case completed yesterday began in Imperial Valley nearly two years ago. On December 22, 1910, Stanley Williams, whose real name was Cohen, and Simon Berthold crossed the line between Mexico and the United States and went to Calexico. Both men afterward became commanders in the insurrecto army, which was to establish a new republic in Lower California, based on the proposition of community of property. Williams and Berthold are both dead, the first named at Mexicali, and Berthold at Alamo, across the Mexican line.

The attention of the United States government was called to the violation of the neutrality laws by the Magons and on February 16, 1911, James Gainor, special agent of the United States Department of Justice, was sent to Los Angeles to work up the case. From that day to this Gainor has been on the job, and has made dozens of trips rounding up witnesses in this country and Mexico. Through long experience in riding the Rio Grande he knew nearly all of the men engaged in the rebellion, and his services were invaluable. He has literally eaten and slept with the Magon case since he participated in the raid of the Junta headquarters on East Fourth street on June 14, 1911.

SELLS STOCK FOR NOTES.

Testimony Given Before Federal Commissioner Relating to Affairs of Bessolo Invention Company.

The hearing of testimony in the case of W. L. and Felicia Bessolo of San Diego, charged with using the United States mails to defraud, was continued yesterday before United States Commissoner Van Dyke. Testimony was introduced to show that Bessolo, the inventor of a pipe wrench, sold nearly 20,000 shares of stock at $1 per share and received notes in exchange. Cash payments aggregating $6962.50 were credited on the notes, most of which are said to be good.

It is alleged that he agreed to give each purchaser 500 shares of stock a lot in the Marion addition in San Diego. Circulars in Italian, making this offer, were introduced in evidence. Circulars in English contain no reference to the offer.

All the purchasers of stock are Italians who live in Bisbee and other Arizona towns. Bessolo told them he was a nephew of Ferdinand Bessolo of this city and a relative of Angelo Bessolo of San Diego. Both asserted on the stand yesterday that there is no relationship.

The land which Bessolo was supposed to give as a bonus is the property of Charles W. Schaeffer of San Diego. Schaeffer testified that he contracted with Bessolo for the sale of the land for $16,500, the lots to be paid for at the rate of $100 each but that Bessolo had paid for only three lots.

J. H. Jack of Bisbee, one of the purchasers of stock, testified that the Bessolo Invention Company was insolvent, that Bessolo promised to establish an Italian colony at Marion where a factory for the manufacture of wrenches was to be built and that none of these promises were made good.

"Did you ever write a lecture?" he was asked.

"No, I never did," was the answer, with a laugh, "but I guess a fellow does not have to know how to write much to be able to tell people how easy they are for the men who go after their money."

Scotty has an engagement with a moving-picture concern. The reel pictorially sets forth his career as a punctured faker. He is to appear and explain the methods of fake mining companies on the same platform where the pictures are shown.

It appears that he really was a cowboy once. Detective Browne of the District Attorney's office yesterday received a letter from a man who knew Scotty when the latter was working on the Jesse D. Carr ranch, near Clear Lake. The prospector admitted it and said he had also worked on a ranch near Lakeview, in South-east Oregon.

Gen. Wolgast Calls the Roll After the Battle of Appendecitis.

Jinx.

SUPERSTITION TO PLAY PART IN RIVERS-AD GO.

Joe Gets a Cane Blessed by an Indian Medicine Man that He Believes Will Bring Him Victory—The Loss of Wolgast's Dog and the Injury to Rivers's Are Both Bad Hoodoos.

BY OWEN R. BIRD.

ALL kinds of jinks and hoodoos and superstitions are gathering around the Rivers-Wolgast fight.

Joe Rivers is carrying around an old battered cherry cane these days that he will not let out of his sight. It seems that he was walking along the Venice strand one day when an old-timer came up and said, "Howdy;" then asked for a few minutes with the contender alone.

The upshot of the conference was that Joe came away with this gnarled old cane which the old miner said had been blessed by an Indian medicine man and would bring him unfailing luck. This has been some time ago and ever since then all things have been breaking with Joe on the best end. It would take a charge of giant powder to get it away from him.

Rivers will not say much about the occult things but they make an impression on his nature and the incident of the cherry cane has burned deep in his mind and he believes in it absolutely.

AD'S LOST DOG.

Willie Rooney, Joe River's trainer, said when he heard that Ad had lost his dog in the mountains, that it was a sure sign that the champ was going to have bad luck, but when Joe's pup ran amuck with auto racers on the Venice pier, he did not know what to say.

When asked if it would make the fight a draw, he said, "No, not that, but it will give the champ a little more hope so we can lick him good." Bill is hard to beat when it comes to guessing.

STAR GAZERS.

An old-fashioned crystal gazer is on the job at Jack Doyle's.

Jack says that an old fan came to him yesterday and offered to predict the fight for him.

He said that if either of the fighters would fill a glass of water for him, he could look into the glass and see every event of the fight written therein. The offer was declined.

Many fans somberly shake their heads and croak about the celebrated jinx that is supposed to hover over Jack Doyle's camp. But, on the other hand, Wolgast has just come from Harrow's ranch, which place has always brought him good luck. Two of his greatest fights were trained for at Harrow's—the Bat Nelson championship fight and the Moran fight.

On one hand, it is pointed out that this is a tough year for champions; Attell lost his at Vernon. But, on the other hand, Johnny Coulon fought at Vernon and saved his, this year.

RIVERS MIGHT BE A GREAT RUNNER.

It has been stated before that Joe Rivers is a great natural athlete, being able to swim, play baseball and handball like a real professional, but yesterday he developed another line. This little Mexican wildcat is one of the greatest natural runners I have ever seen in action and, had he gone to college, instead of entering the

Too Much Class.

SLAGLE SHOWS BEAVERS HOW NOT TO SCORE RUNS.

BY GREY OLIVER.

LOS ANGELES, 3; Portland, 0.

Welcomed by a large crowd of enthusiastic fans, the Angels, fresh from a victorious trip to the North, showed up the Beavers yesterday and handed them a shut-out, just to show that what the locals have been doing in the North was not a bunch of flukes.

Slagle, whom many of the fans thought was bum when he first arrived, was picked out by Dillon to pitch, and he did, some. He gave the Beavers but five swats.

Five times they got men on third base, but none of them could score. Why, in the ninth inning, Doane ran to third when Lober muffed his fly in left center and to offset this, Slagle had to strike the next two men out and make the third pop up a dinky fly. In the first, Chadbourne tried to score from second on Krueger's sharp hit to left, but Lober nailed him with a fine throw to the plate.

It was a real pitchers' battle in a way, for Slagle was trying to pitch his head off to keep the Beavers from making a run. He did both. It has been a long time since the local fans saw such a pretty game in both the pitching and fielding line.

Steiger, for the Beavers, was not so bad, but the locals managed to bunch a single and a double in both the first and seventh innings and thus got away with the game easily.

Fielding? Well I guess there was some. Howard made the star catch of the day at the opening of the fourth when he dashed over into right field and speared Krueger's hard liner with his left hand while going at top speed. A slower man would have missed the ball by ten feet.

Lober's throw to the plate of Krueger's hit in the first, by which Chadbourne was nipped in his attempt to score, was also a fine thing, while the assists by Lindsay and Berger were three-star specials. A ball game in 1:30 is also something worth remembering for months.

Steiger got Howard out in the first on an infield grounder, but Berger went back at him with a hot single to center. The best that Daley could do was to pop to the shortstop, but Heitmuller cracked a double against the left fence that scored Berger.

This run was really enough, for the Beavers could not get any, but the locals had no trouble in making two more. They had a terrific time of it getting around in the next five innings, and only one of them managed to land on third base, and he needed two passes and a single to do that, even.

Steiger was right there for those five innings and in the sixth he began by striking out Lober. Then he passed Brooks, and this bird advanced on Slagle's sacrifice. Howard followed with a swat that he tried to put over the left-field fence, but it hit the telephone wires and bounded back into the grounds.

It would ordinarily have been a home run, but it went for a double and scored Brooks. A moment later Berger cracked a hot single to left that sent Howard in and Berger was caught trying to get to second on the throw-in. Two singles in the eighth

On To Denver.

LOCAL GOLFERS AFTER WESTERN GOLF HONORS.

BY ALMA WHITAKER.

TOWARD the end of next week there will be an exodus of golfers to Denver for the western amateur championships which are to begin July 15 and continue a week.

Although Norman Macbeth will not be among our representatives, E. S. Armstrong will, and quite a dozen of our local country club members have joined Dr. Frederick's party to represent California.

The present champion of the West is Albert Seckel, of Riverside, Ill., the only scratch man in the association, and the quidnuncs are finding it difficult to pick the man who is to defeat him this year. It is whispered that Michael McLaughlin, who spent the winter here, playing for the Annandale Country Club in all its team matches with such distinction and winning so many laurels in the various invitation tournaments, besides putting our hero, Macbeth, out in the semi-finals for the Californian championship, has secret and intense aspirations which are within the possibility of fulfillment. Ever since he left here in May he has been playing on all sorts of courses in all sorts of company, everywhere putting up a game of undoubted excellence.

ARMSTRONG'S BACKERS.

Then there are many ardent backers for E. S. Armstrong, who has certainly carried off most of the laurels in California during the last year, and indeed, after an hour or so with the Armstrong hero-worshippers one feels that no one else could possibly stand a chance.

From the North there will be several

M'CAREY OFFERS CLASSY TROPHY.

T. J. McCarey, the local promoter, has put up a gold belt set with three diamonds, for the winner of the battle on July 4, between Champion Ad Wolgast and Joe Rivers.

This is the only trophy of its kind in existence for the lightweight class in America and the little contender will have a chance, not only to wrest the title from Ad, but will have something to show for it after the battle is over, should he come out with the victor's share of the spoils.

McCarey says that he will not have the final work done on the belt until after the Fourth, as he does not know at the present time who it will fit.

Santa Cruz Tennis.

WARD DAWSON SURVIVES PRELIMINARY ROUNDS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SANTA CRUZ, June 25.—Preliminary play in the men's regular singles today in the Pacific Coast championship tennis tournament scaled the contestants down to four players, who will meet in the semi-finals tomorrow as follows: Maurice McLoughlin against Herbert E. Long, both of San Francisco, and Ward Dawson of Los Angeles, Southern California champion, against Melville H. Long of San Francisco.

McLoughlin is conceded a place in the finals, and Dawson, on his splendid form today, may be McLoughlin's opponent.

Dawson defeated William Johnston of San Francisco in straight sets, 6-4, 6-4.

Herbert Long took W. G. Knowlton's measure in a hard-fought match, 6-4, 7-5, in a battle of hard drives, with Long the more resourceful man.

WOMEN'S SINGLES.

In the ladies' singles there was much activity, there being four games played, in which Mrs. Niemeyer of San Francisco, who will probably contest with the southern representatives for supremacy, showed the best form, when she defeated Miss Herron of Stanford, 6-2, 6-0. The finals in the women's singles will be played off during the latter part of the week, as Miss Florence Sutton's sister, Mrs. Bruce, will not arrive in Santa Cruz until Wednesday.

MEN'S DOUBLES.

Play also started in the men's doubles during the afternoon and the unlooked for materialized when Maurice

[BY FEDERAL (WIRELESS) LINE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, June 25.—[Special Dispatch.] Rube Marquard went out after his seventeenth straight, drawing another tough assignment in Grover Cleveland Alexander, the pride of the Phillies. These two were bitter rivals from last season.

The dark day seemed to suit the Rube, who showed lots of speed as he warmed up into the game. After an exciting contest Marquard succeeded in annexing his coveted seventeenth straight.

ST. LOUIS, June 25.—[Special Dispatch.] Pittsburgh took both games of today's double-header, the first by a score of 10 to 4 and the second, 19 to 3. Manager Bresnahan's pitchers were pounded hard in both contests. Carey's batting in the opening contest featured the show, he poling a home run with the pillows packed.

The second game, so far as baseball was concerned, was a farce. The locals used four pitchers. Howell was given a trial, but failed miserably, allowing four hits and four walks in one-third of an inning. Wilson duplicated Carey's feat by knocking the ball over the right-field bleachers while the bases were filled.

The visitors' heavy hitting in the first three innings, during which three home runs were scored, largely contributed to the one-sided score.

CINCINNATI, June 25.—[Special Dispatch.] It was easy pickings for the Cubs in the first game of their double-header with the Reds here this afternoon. They knocked Keefe and Creamer out of the box and piled up a top-heavy count of eighteen hits. The final score was 11 to 0.

They lost the second through Humphrey's good pitching.

OAKS WALLOP SEALS AGAIN.

HENLEY PROVES EASY MARK FOR SHARPE'S TEAM.

Mitze Settles All Doubts About Contest by Hitting Home Run Over Fence in Final Inning. Losers Outhit the Victors but Have No Luck—Much Fine Fielding.

[By Federal (Wireless) Line to The Times.]

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, June 25.—[Special Dispatch.] The Seals reported on the home lot this afternoon and immediately took a 6 to 2 flop to the Commuters.

There never will be a chance for the Seals to beat Oakland if they play like they did today. Oakland had it on them so many ways that it would require an adding machine to figure them all out. Therefore, all excuses must be cast aside and the plain truth told.

The Seals outhit their trans-Bay opponents, but they were not so smart nor so clever on the bases nor in the field. They figured in only one inning when the score was tangled up. The Oaks on the other hand had three good innings and anybody knows that a 3 to 1 layout of this kind means a victory. There was no chance to dispute the fact after the Oaks had concluded the ninth spasm.

SEALS SHOW WELL.

The showing of the home team was not at all discouraging. In fact, it was a boost for Reidy and every man on the staff. The boys had plenty of the old pepper sprinkled around them and they fought hard to boost a victory their way. Under ordinary conditions they might have succeeded, but when the unexpected happens in baseball it must be taken as a matter of course.

The score was 3 to 2 in favor of Oakland when the ninth opened up. Hetling was the first Commuter to grab hold of a stick and he pounded the ball against the right field fence for a single. A moment later he was forced at second on a grounder by Cook, so the home fans were still hopeful.

But Henley evidently was not there. He passed a soft one up to Tiedemann who hammered it over second for a clean swipe. Next came Mitze who clouted the first ball pitched over the right field fence. It made little difference what the rest of them did. This clout was the darby of the afternoon.

Taking it all in all, the game was a tough one for any club to lose, but the luck had to be centered some place and it flocked with the Oaks. Still the fans must not crab. Six more are still to be played ere the series is over.

All One Way.

TIGERS GIVEN GOOD BEATING.

Senators Larrup Them Easily in Pretty Game.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SACRAMENTO, June 25.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Patsy O'Rourke by reason of relinquishing the captaincy of the Senators and for playing a star game in the field today, is a popular hero in fandom tonight for the first time this season.

That Carlisle's home run, when he came to bat as the first man in the first inning, was the only Vernon run registered and that the home team seemed rejuvenated under the leadership of Deacon Van Buren, apparently hitting the ball at will and keeping the crowd thrilled with sensational fielding stunts, seemed merely incidental.

O'Rourke was almost the whole show. Every time he came to bat he was cheered to the echo. With two down in the first inning he signalized his drop back into the ranks by poling a two-bagger over first, and then proceeded to gather in everything that came anywhere in the general direction of second base.

The Senators got started in the second frame. Miller opened with a single and took second on Lewis's sacrifice. Sheehan responded with a single to right center, scoring Miller with the run that tied things up.

SENATORS GET BUSY.

In the fourth the locals went after Carson. Sheehan opened by driving a red hot one over second which Carson barely sidestepped. Cheek sacrificed Sheehan to second. Arellanes popped to Burrell and Shinn drew a walk. Texas Tommy Madden was on the job with a single to short left. Sheehan scored from second on the hit, and when Carlisle's throw to the plate went wide, Shinn showed a burst of speed and scored from first.

Miller doubled to left in the sixth and scored when Lewis followed with a double to right. Sheehan hit one to McDonnell and was out when Carson got over in time to cover the bag. Carson turning in time to peg Lewis out at the plate for a double play. But in covering the bag Carson wrenched his ankle, and Sullivan was slightly spiked at the plate by Lewis and then it was a new Vernon battery in Temple and Agnew.

Temple got his in the seventh. With two down Miller doubled to right and scored on Lewis's double to center. Lewis stole third and scored when Sheehan drove a slow single to Litschi.

The game cost the services of Jimmy Shinn for two or three days. After he had played the most brilliant fielding game he has shown this year, Jimmy was carried from the field unconscious in the sixth inning, the result of an attempted stolen base.

JACK LIKES JOE.

Jack White was an interested spectator yesterday during the work-out, having just returned from a week's trip to Catalina, and when Joe had completed his day Jack said, "What do you know about this fellow? Every time I see him he gets better. I never have seen faster footwork and I think he has a swell chance to bring home the bread and beans on the Fourth. Any way, that is the way it looks to me and my money is going to talk like that."

Jack has fought Rivers and probably is in a better place to pass judgment than anybody else and when he says that Joe is better than ever, the words are bound to carry a little weight.

The crowd was wildly enthusiastic about the doings yesterday and when Joe stood toe to toe with his partners in mid-ring and simply swapped punches, until they had to quit, the roar of approval was deafening. A lot of the wiseacres were out to see what the contender had up his sleeve and from Charles Alphin on, all were deeply impressed.

The Jap cook whom the boys of the camp have named Chico, is an interested spectator every day and says that he is going to wager everything he has, on the outcome of the fight, counting Joe on the winning end. Since being named Chico he has taken a lively interest in the ring affair.

Cochrane, K. Elliott, R. Gautteran and W. Barnes, the Australians would have worthy opponents.

W. O'Carroll has played for the South Africans, against All-England, Oscar O'Carroll, for the "Gentlemen of Ireland;" E. H. Wilkes for Worcester county, R. Gautteran for British Honduras, K. Eliot for Dover College, P. J. Higgins for Sydney, Australia.; G. B. Page for Dunedin, New Zealand. While Cochrane, Maddock, Tomkins, Bamford, Mitchell and Jamieson have each played for first-class clubs.

A new cricket club is being started by West Indians. Messrs. Zink, Morgan and Green have set the ball rolling and have recruited several good players. Zink is an ex-member of the Wanderers Club of New York, Morgan played for Kingston, Jamaica, and A. Green, who is a fast right-arm bowler, and a careful batsman, has represented Barbados in the inter-island league of the West Indies.

A test match is being arranged for the Fourth of July. P. J. Higgins has written to ask the Hemet eleven to play Los Angeles at Vineyard on that date. Failing to get a fixture with the newly-formed club, San Diego will in all probability come north to try to regain its lost laurels of last year. In any event, a cricket match will be played at Vineyard on July 4.

that this is his last chance to make good here, as a defeat at the hands of Dalton always puts a black eye on the record book in the view of the local sports.

If Pete does not have any trouble with the weight question, he should make Wolgast happy by winning, as he has improved a great deal since being in the mountains with the champion and at present seems to be in the best condition of the two.

"BILL" SAYS ANGLING AT BISHOP IS FINE.

William Himrod, the former Pomona College athlete and Occidental track coach, who is a lawyer at Bishop, is visiting here for a few days. "Bill" says the trout fishing in the neighborhood of Bishop is the best of which he ever heard.

Within two miles of the town limit catches are the order of the day and he is a poor angler who can't bring back as many trout as the law allows.

M'INTOSH MAKES BIG OFFER TO BLACK SMOKE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LAS VEGAS (N. M.) June 25.—Hugh McIntosh, the Australian promoter, has written Champion Jack Johnson and offered him $30,000 for a bout to be fought in Australia within the next year. It is supposed Johnson's prospective antagonist is Sam Langford, though the name of that colored fighter is not mentioned.

McIntosh offers to post at once a forfeit of $10,000 as a guarantee of good faith. Johnson has not yet decided whether he will accept.

WOLGAST'S WORK BEGINS TODAY.

Two days as one of the idle rich was all the champion could stand. Ad Wolgast will begin his training work at Doyle's today instead of Thursday, as he planned.

He will do light work with Pete McVey and Hobo Dougherty today. Tomorrow he will begin his hard boxing. Sunday will come the hardest day of his work-out.

Yesterday Ad went to the ball game with his wife.

SUPERSTITION OF FIGHTERS.

He has a long, easy stride, which would make an ideal 440 or 880-yard runner, and one of his best features is his form. He neither gets set too far forward nor too far back, but maintains an easy equilibrium, with his hands swinging free at his side. I think that with a little training he could run the half-mile close to two minutes flat and the four-forty in about fifty-one seconds, and with a year's work could better these marks quite a bit, but then, he is in a game where money grows on bushes, so why should he worry?

However, the fact that he knows how to run and handle his feet enables him to get a lot more good out of this department of his training than the majority of fighters. Again, good fast road work is a great developer of speed and foot work, because to run correctly, one has to use the feet correctly or not at all.

INDOOR BALL "CAP" SICK BUT TEAM WILL TOUR.

Sergt. Herbert J. Simon of Company A, Seventh Regiment, who is captain of the company's championship indoor baseball team, is in the California Hospital and will not be able to accompany his team on the Studebaker tour to San Bernardino next Saturday.

This unwelcome news was withheld until last night by Maj. Decker, the ranking surgeon of the regiment, who operated on the athletic soldier, early in the week, but it was the desire of the leader of the team that the boys go after the scalps of the San Bernardino indoor stars without him and the major made a little talk to Company A in which he commended the work of young Simon and told them that it was up to them to win the game and help to get their captain out of the hospital.

Manager "Bud" Rose will take the team to San Bernardino in the E.M.F. cars furnished by William J. La Casse, Saturday afternoon, although the chances of winning the game are greatly lessened; but the members of the nine intend to win regardless of the loss of one of the stars.

Ingalls, the sensational fielder, will also be absent from the line-up Saturday night, but his position will be filled from ranks of the utility men and the Coast champions will play the game of their lives with the crippled team.

AMERICANS WIN PRIZES.

LONDON, June 25.—[By Cable and A. P. Day Wire.] Judge W. H. Moore scored another success at the International horse show at Olympia today. His Robin Hood and Wallenstein were awarded first prize in class thirty for pairs of harness horses exceeding sixteen hands. Alfred G. Vanderbilt's Hamlet and Hertes were placed second.

ATTELL-THOMAS FIGHT IN SIGHT.

[A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

If the Attell-Murphy fight scheduled for San Francisco on the Fourth falls through, McCarey is going to give Attell a chance to show before the southern fans on July 27 with Harry Thomas, the little English featherweight, who made such a good showing in the recent fight with Jack White.

Thomas is a natural featherweight and would give the public a good chance to get a line on the former champion before he takes his come-back whirl at the title in September.

Jimmy Johnson is well pleased with the opportunity which is likely to be accorded his lad, and says that Thomas will have more of a chance to get in condition for this battle and therefore be able to develop a great deal more class.

First Half.

DAVID BRUCE BROWN LEADS IN FRENCH RACE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

DIEPPE (France) June 25.—David Bruce Brown of New York, in a Fiat machine, won the first half of the French automobile grand prize, which started here at dawn today.

He completed the ten laps (a distance of 770 kilometers, or about 453 miles, 5½ furlongs,) composing the first day's programme, in 6h., 36m., 38s.

Boillot, driving a French Leon Peugeot machine, was second, only about two minutes behind, his time being 6h., 38m., 40s.

Hundreds of American citizens and Italians swarmed around Brown at the finish tape to congratulate him on his victory. His best lap (about 46 miles) was made in 37m., 18s. His hourly average was 76 miles, 7½ furlongs.

MECHANICIAN KILLED.

The start of the grand-prize race, which had not been competed for since 1908, was marred by an accident. Colinet, who was piloting a Gregoire machine, when trying to pass a competitor on the course, capsized. His mechanician, Bessagnans, was instantly killed and Colinet himself seriously injured.

Forty-seven automobiles started in the race, being dispatched at intervals of a minute. The course is a triangular one of 77 kilometers (about 46 miles,) of which the corners are at the towns of Eu, Londinieres and Dieppe. The competitors must cover the course twenty times, completing ten laps today and ten tomorrow. The total distance is 1540 kilometers (about 907 miles, 3 furlongs.)

THOUSANDS LINE COURSE.

An immense crowd gathered at the start, special trains having been run from all parts of Europe. The course was guarded by more than 2000 officers, who were stationed at intervals to prevent the public trespassing and running into danger.

One of the entries from the United States, a Ford machine, was withdrawn at the last moment. The countries represented in the race are France, England, Italy, Germany and Belgium.

VENICE TENNIS PLAY TO START TOMORROW.

THE annual tennis tourney of the Venice Country Club is to open at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning on the courts of the club. The play will continue three days, the final matches in all events being scheduled for Saturday afternoon.

Many young players who have had little open-tourney experience are entered and it is expected that the play will bring to light more than one "future great."

The entries are to close this morning. Among those received to date are the following:

Men's singles: J. Stopp, F. J. Ashley, Harold Lamson, Edwin Birdsall, E. F. Struble, S. B. Kellogg, E. G. Galusha, Fred Eldred, H. F. Weller, E. V. Weller, Bromley Oxnam, John Holmes, E. Kobbe.

Women's singles; Mildred Dawson, Mrs. Stickrod, Miss Kingcade.

Men's doubles: J. F. Ashley and J. Stopp, Barber and Warren, Lamson and Birdsall, Struble and partner, Galusha and partner, Johnson and Eldred, E. V. Weller and Oxnam, H. F. Weller and partner, Holmes and Kobbe.

Women's doubles: Mrs. Stickrod and Miss Kingcade.

Junior singles: A. H. Barber, E. A. Warren, Harold Lamson, Edwin Birdsall, S. B. Kellogg, Albert Johnson, Harold Huntington, Dean Waddell, Domaschanz.

Junior doubles: Warren and partner, Lamson and Birdsall, Barber and McCormick, Ketchum and Hobson, Huntington and Johnson, Waddell and Paul Dorn, Domaschanz and Huber.

Women's special: Joan McCall, Helen McCall, Dorothy Jones, Dorothy Eaton, Mrs. Gladys Widdowson, Mrs. Stickrod, Miss Kingcade.

The drawings for the first day's play are to be made tonight. Johnny Holmes is to defend his title in the singles and Holmes and Gerald Young, who won the club championship in the doubles last year, will defend.

Nothing Else.

HEN BERRY SAYS ANGELS MUST BE IN FIRST PLACE.

BY GREY OLIVER.

"NO SECOND place for our Angel team," said Henry Berry after looking at the game yesterday. "We figure on first place and I do not see why we cannot get it. The pitchers are going fine now and the boys are fielding in fine shape and but for our bad luck in the early part of the season we would have been at the top before this.

"We have the team and the pitchers and I think we have had our share of men in the hospital. If we get no more than what is coming to us in the way of accidents from now on we will give the best of them a battle."

The sale by the San Francisco club of Pitcher Harry Suter to the Portland Northwest team and of Raftery to the Wilkesbarre team will not come as a surprise to the local fans who have been expecting something like this news for sometime. Suter apparently is no more as a pitcher while Raftery has not been hitting up to expectations.

The Los Angeles team did not draw very well up in Portland on its last trip for the very good reason that the Portland fans will not support a losing team like they have now. At that the local players did not complain about the attendance, for it was satisfactory from a money standpoint. McCredie must strengthen his team very materially before his own fans will turn out to see the Beavers.

"No, I do not intend to play Moore regularly on first base," replied Dillon yesterday to a question intimating his own retirement. "The team is going good right now and I do not see why I should make any changes. It is well enough to have a few good men sticking around in case of need and such fellows as Moore, who can play both infield and outfield, will come in very handy."

Cal Ewing has commenced to brace up his weak Seals by the purchase of two good men in Del Howard and Wuffli, the latter being a third baseman from the Spokane team. He is said to be a hitter, but as he is batting just above the pitcher on the Northwest team, he cannot be a demon.

"This fellow Berger is a peach," murmured one of the Angels yesterday after the game. "He is not only very fast, but he has made Howard play the best ball of his career. Ivan is not only able to make faster double plays himself with Berger's help, but he helps Berger make fast ones. They work just like a real team and if there is any pair in the league that can beat them I don't know where to find it."

FROM THE MASON TO THE MAJESTIC

By Julian Johnson

Lew Stone is not going to leave Morosco management, after all.

After the blow-up in opinion between Morosco and Stone, a week or two ago, lots of folks wondered if the actor would resume his part in "The Bird of Paradise," or go his own sweet way.

Morosco said he'd be blessed if he knew what Lew would do.

And Lew told me that no contract bound him to go back, and that he didn't know what he would do.

He thought for a while—according to report—that he might go back to Columbus, O.

Or to Arizona for a long vacation in the big open.

What is of immediate interest, however, is that Mr. Stone has had an extremely fine offer from Elitch's Gardens, Denver, for a summer starring engagement in fine plays.

Very likely, he will accept this offer.

It will keep him busy right up to the Chicago opening of "The Bird of Paradise."

One of the biggest contracts, theatrically, ever entered into here was completed yesterday between Oliver Morosco, C. William Kolb, and Max Dill.

Commencing next week, Kolb & Dill come under Morosco's management for a period of years.

Sagacity note: This contract runs up to and over Panama Fair year in San Francisco.

Question for the foolish: What town will the comedians infest during that great exposition, and what will their probable patronage be?

They will open in New York, immediately following the Presidential election, in "The Politicians."

Morosco telegraphed Aaron Hoffman, the author of the piece, yesterday, to come on at once, and look it over thoroughly during its coming season at the Majestic Theater.

If anything needs doing, it will be done now.

In New York it will have the advantage of the strongest metropolitan cast that can be found, a big new production will be built, and every effort will be made to put over a real success.

Kolb & Dill had one very profitable season in New York under practically no auspices at all, and quit then only because their supply of ammunition failed.

They had nothing but "Lonesome Town," and no way to reintrench with another work.

So they came home.

The New York Review, for some obscure cause or other, has recently been making overt attacks on Kolb, personally.

Dill fares very well. Kolb needn't mind, however. The rest of them liked him well enough.

Whether Lambardi will play the Auditorium or the Hamburger Majestic Theater hasn't been decided as yet.

Editor Patrizzi of San Francisco is gathering the company this season. He is in Italy now.

Polacco, last here with the "Girl of the Golden West," may be the chef-d'orchestre. With the exception of Campanini and Toscanini, America has heard none so talented in a generation, and if the Polacco contract has really been signed, "Old Man" Lambardi is indeed to be congratulated, for he has gained the greatest conductor he has ever had.

Patrizzi has contracted one of Hammerstein's successful London sopranos, Tarquinia Tarquini, whose picture has, in the past year, adorned the magazines of two continents.

Bessie Valdere, head of the big bicycle troupe now at the Empress, is in private life the wife of J. Peterson, concert-master of Harry James's orchestra at the Lyceum.

Some time ago I ventured the prediction that Beatrice Nichols, and not Antoinette Walker, would eventually be found as ingenue of the Belasco Theater company.

Now comes the announcement that Lola May of the Burbank, is to return to New York, and that Beatrice Nichols is really to become the Belasco young girl.

Yet Walker is still coming out.

Puzzle: Where is she going, if not to the Burbank?

Welcome Home Item: M. A. Hamburger, long a luminary on the local Rialto, and long absent from it, on oriental and other shores, is again shaking the hands of our White Light tenders.

Tonsorial note: The only leading man ever seen here wearing a genuine, live, home-grown moustache is John Barrymore.

The Barrymore opening night, next Monday, will be something between a function, an occasion and a riot, if the seat sale is a criterion.

With Mr. Barrymore is Mrs. Barrymore, a pretty young thing who has also been known to act out, on occasion, and with Mrs. Barrymore is a dawg.

The houn' drove them from hotel to hotel, at their arrival on Monday, and finally landed them in an apartment-house on South Olive street.

"Margaret Illington stayed at the Alexandria, and I KNOW she had a dog!" exclaimed Mrs. Barrymore, tearfully.

We have some tremendously good operatic idications for next season—early in the season, too.

As announced in these columns from time to time, Lambardi is coming back, and will open a four weeks' season in Los Angeles, October 27.

Charles R. Baker, who was advance manager last season, is living in Los Angeles at present, and will act in the same capacity next year.

I was right when I guessed that "Gauntlett's Pride" was the unnamed Manners play to be tried out at the Belasco.

The Nat Goodwin repertoire as now arranged includes — first, "Oliver Twist," and "Gauntlett's Pride," and "The Fox." One other piece is still to be named.

"You may be sure that 'Barbaraza' will be seen here," said Morosco, yesterday.

"Taylor is quite mad about her double role, and I'll give her her chance, no matter what the run of 'Peg o' My Heart.' If necessary, we'll put on 'Barbaraza' at a series of special matinees.

Margaret Leslie cabled her acceptance from London yesterday, and is now formally slated to become the next Burbank leading woman.

Oliver Morosco yesterday received a copy of David Graham Phillips's last novel, "The Price She Paid," from its publishers, with a terse offer of its dramatic rights and a request that he dramatize the book.

Frank Tokeramo, a Japanese bellboy gentleman, appeared at Morosco's office yesterday to apply for the Japanese acting job in the Barrymore revival of "On the Quiet."

He was handed the part.

He accepted—conditionally.

"I do it," he said, "if it makes nothing bad against Japan.

"If long speeches, more pay.

"Short speeches, I work for what you offer.

"One rehearsal plenty. I work in hotel. I go to last rehearsal.

"I do not act very much. To make the big gesture, too much work.

"English I can read with very correctness. The speech I make you will be proud of."

Frank states that he was an actor in Japan. Probably there is no one who can disprove that assertion.

This is the evening devoted to Bill Ham Cline's celebrated sofa-cushion party, in his cozy-corner in the Orpheum building.

Those who can are expected to bring sofa-cushions.

Those who cannot are expected to bring bricks.

SANTA CRUZ TENNIS.

McLoughlin and W. Havens found Carl Gardner and W. Johnston more than a match for them. Gardner played remarkably clever tennis and, with Johnston's unfaltering support, took both sets, 6-1, 6-1.

The Long brothers won their event easily and did not overexert themselves to take the measure of Havens and Finkenstedt, who were allowed a handicap of 30.

Thomas C. Bundy arrived from Los Angeles today to take part in the doubles as Dawson's partner.

HERB LOCKWOOD BACK FROM YALE.

Herbert Lockwood of Pasadena, the former Occidental College pitcher, who transferred to Yale last October, has returned home for the summer. "Herb" turned out with the baseball squad this season. There were 200 candidates for the team and he was among the thirty-five who survived the weedings out and were still in uniforms at the end of the season.

Lockwod, according to advices from New Haven, has a good chance to make the varsity team before he finishes his university course. He has two more years at Yale.

NEW HYDROPLANE RECORD

ROCHESTER (N. Y.) June 25.—[By A. P. Day Wire.] Fred G. Eells broke the world's record for sustained hydroplane flight today when he piloted his machine over Irondequoitt Bay, seventy-three miles, in one hour and twenty-one minutes, at an average speed of fifty-four miles an hour. The previous record for sustained flight was forty-six miles.

NORMAN MACBETH WINS GOLD MEDAL.

CHICAGO, June 25.—Norman Macbeth, captain of the Los Angeles Country Club golf team, today was awarded a gold medal for the best individual score made in the Tom Morris memorial trophy matches, played June 15.

His score was one up on par. He was the only player of about 500, who contested, that was up on par. The Los Angeles club also won the trophy.

CALIFORNIA GIRLS SHINE IN PITTSBURGH TOURNEY.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PITTSBURGH, June 25.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The third day's playing in the Clay Court tennis championship tournament was played under clear skies before a large crowd of enthusiastic patrons of the genteel sport, who had lots of opportunity to applaud. The play was excellent and some of the contests very close.

Miss Mary Browne, the Los Angeles girl, has made many friends by her sterling good work on the courts, as well as by her unassuming manner of recognizing the applause of her friends. She has won her preliminary matches very easily, as has also Miss May Sutton, the other California girl, who has always been near the front in championship tournaments. It looks as if the final round will find these Pacific Coast girls pitted against each other for the Clay Court championship of the United States. However, there are two splendid players here in the person of Miss Lois Moyes, the Canadian champion, and Miss Green of Philadelphia, both of whom will have to be taken into consideration by the supporters of Miss Browne and Miss Sutton.

Tomorrow's events will tell the tale. G. F. Touchard, a former San Francisco boy, but now located in New York, has fought his way through in the men's singles, and is qualified for the fourth round, and he promises to make it warm for the other New York experts—Hall and Hackett, as well as R. W. Williams, the State champion.

MACE IN RUNNING.

Win Mace, the Los Angeles boy at Princeton College, has played good tennis, and, with G. M. Church has qualified for the third round in the men's doubles. Mace won two matches in the men's singles, only to go down before one of the most-promising players in the Pittsburgh district—W. S. McElroy.

F. H. H. Harris, the big boy from Dartmouth College, is going at a great clip, as well as John T. Nelson, the Vermont boy, and these two are still in the men's singles and also the men's doubles. The mixed doubles will begin tomorrow, and the enthusiastics are anxious to see Champion Williams and Miss Mary Browne work together. Results:

HARNESS RACES JULY 4.

The Los Angeles Driving Club is arranging an interesting programme of harness races and stunts to be held at Exposition Park, July 4. There will be four harness events and several novelty contests, among them a stage-coach sprint.

GOLFERS AFTER HONORS.

good men, notably Dr. Fredericks and Whitney, and altogether, even if California does not actually capture the highest laurels they will certainly come in for some of the many lesser distinctions that are offered.

The contest is open to any amateur who is a member of any of the country clubs that belong to the association and entries must be made through club secretaries not later than 5 p.m., July 8. The entrance fee is $3, which covers all the events.

Strictly Royal and Ancient rules are to be adhered to, with a few additional ground rules for the Denver course.

The course is 6329 yards, with par 73, which is also the amateur record so far. No. 1 is 568 yards, par 5; No. 2, 417 yards, par 4; No. 3, 408 yards, par 4; No. 4, 249 yards, par 4; No. 5, 150 yards, par 3; No. 6, 415 yards, par 4; No. 7, 340 yards, par 4; No. 8, 352 yards, par 4, and No. 9, 242 yards, par 4. That makes a total of 36 for the outward half.

The second half shows No. 10 with 361 yards, par 4; No. 11, 294 yards, par 4, and No. 12, 482 yards, par 5; No. 13, 394 yards, par 4; No. 14, 112 yards, par 3; No. 15, 478 yards, par 5; No. 16, 327 yards, par 4, No. 17 is 201 yards, par 3; and No. 18 is a par 5 with 539 yards. A total of 37 for the homeward half.

UP-TO-DATE GREEN.

There are genuine water hazards and grass greens and Colorado is noted for the enthusiastic galleries it can muster. The clubhouse is as large as that at Beverly, with a limited number of bedrooms which, they tell me, have already been snapped up by far-seeing aspirants. However, Denver can brag a hotel or two so there is nothing to worry about on that score.

OPENS JULY 15.

The championship programme will commence on Monday, July 15, at 8 a.m., with an elimination round of eighteen holes. This will continue on Tuesday morning as the qualifying round, which will be limited to sixty-four players, thirty-two of whom will qualify on the total of their elimination and qualifying round scores.

In the afternoon of Tuesday, the 16th, the first round matches will be played. Wednesday will be devoted to the second round matches and Thursday to the third round.

Friday will see the semi-finals and Saturday the finals, all rounds to be thirty-six holes, divided into the morning, eighteen, and the afternoon, eighteen.

NUMEROUS PRIZES.

Denver has surpassed herself in the generosity of her supplemental prizes and special events, so that a week's golf has been provided for every degree of golfer.

There is a president's cup, a vice-president's cup, a treasurer's cup, a secretary's cup, a directors' cup and a committee's cup, each put up for a different rating of golfers. For instance, those having 6 to 9 handicap are eligible for the director's and committee's cups and so on. All play is from scratch but the handicaps are required as a guide to eligibility.

Altogether the fourteenth annual championship meeting of the West promises to be a wonderful success. More than two hundred entries are already assured.

FACTS, FEATURES AND FANCIES FOR WOMEN AND MEN

BY OLIVE GRAY

DAILY BEAUTY HINT: The woman who cares for a good complexion—and, of course, this is every woman—should not mix face powders. Many do this, and it is in all instances detrimental to the smoothness and beauty of the skin. Select a powder which is pure and which agrees with your particular case, and adhere to this kind.

Housekeepers would do well to follow the example of the stores which hold "spring clearance" sales. Before summer sets in, it is a good plan to weed out everything superfluous for by so doing you will simplify the housework and make life more comfortable for yourself and those around you.

The endless dusting of bric-a-brac, or even looking at a number of articles is burdensome in warm weather. The thought dwells first upon one item then upon another and the brain wearies.

So, before the advent of summer, it is well to clear the livingrooms of superfluities. Even the most beautiful objects become wearisome, when one thinks of their care.

Packed carefully away, the cherished pretty things will come out in the fall, as welcome as though newly purchased.

The furniture, also, should have a rest as far as possible. Every chair, table and couch, not actually in use, should be trundled away to the attic, wrapped in paper and given a rest from the sight of the family. The very multiplicity of even useful articles of furniture, becomes tiresome. If you are of the large majority who do not have a summer home, make your city home as summerlike as possible, by relegating all heavy winter carpets and rugs, and replacing them by matting squares, or cool, bare floors.

All stuffed furniture should be covered with linen or crash, which will add to its attractiveness, and heavy draperies, if such exist, should be dispensed with or replaced by something cool and airy looking.

With a few such precautions as these the advent of summer will be nothing but burdensome, even to those who cannot avail themselves of the country or the beach.

Three in One.

No, I do not mean an oil, nor any of the "three-in-one" articles that you would expect. I mean a tea set. As you glimpse it, it looks like a coffee pot of silver, a French coffee pot, perhaps.

When you begin to examine you find that it is more than this. It is in fact not a coffee pot at all, but a teapot and also a sugar bowl; and also a cream pitcher. You see there are three stories. The teapot proper is the first floor, the cream pitcher the second and the sugar bowl the third floor, and upon this rests the lid, which finally comes off and there you have the three articles completing the tea-server, pretty and compact.

Another.

In another establishment I found, at a special sale of brass articles, another "three-in-one" article. This is an umbrella stand, a tray and a jardiniere. This is, I think, especially designed for California, where we pack away our umbrellas for at least half a year (happily.) and go back to the chemical rain-drops, but confidentially, I am glad [illegible] to give us a rainy day in [illegible].

The lower half of this umbrella stand is a straight pedestal of hammered brass, and upon this rests the tray of very good design. Upon this rests the jardiniere. The effect is as if the upholding of a fern or a flower were the only business [illegible] of the entire affair. The price is such that one having a few dollars to expend for a wedding gift, would look favorably upon it.

Brass.

In this special offering of brass articles there are many which are worthy of examination by the seeker of wedding gifts of intrinsic value at small prices. The array of articles as one looks down the length of the department of household brass is really inspiring. There are some unusual articles, too. For instance, there are baskets of brass, in unique design, with inner bowls of glass. These may be used either for fruit or for flowers. There are jardinieres at as many different prices.

There are tall vases, and sets of [illegible] in delightful shapes, and most charming of all, candlesticks in the colonial design with the tall shades of colored glass which have so quaint a look and are useful, too.

Surf Kinks.

Have you seen the "surf curls?" They consist of a string of tiny curls to fasten inside the bathing cap, when your hair is twisted tightly on top of your head, to keep it from the water. These beach curls are warranted to stay in kink, and they give you a coquettish look, when your neighbors are far from looking [illegible].

There are other strings of curls for wear inside the boudoir cap. These are longer than those for surf use, and are more costly and complicated. We are really getting to the place where one need not comb one's hair at all, unless one wishes to waste time.

Little Smockings.

In the fancy work department of one of the big stores, I noticed such little frocks, stamped in colors and ready cut out ready to work in cross stitch and run up on the sewing machine.

They were in kimono shape, which is so becoming for little ones, whatever fashions may come or go, and around the bottom of skirt and around neck and sleeves were processions of Greenaway figures and little Dutch people. These smockings were such as would delight even if at the last moment one became too lazy to do the work, and I am told that the colors are lasting. Any child would be pleased beyond expression, by these.

Clothes-Pin Neckties.

There they are, in plain sight in the show window, of a large clothing house. If you do not believe me go and see for yourself. Upon each necktie is worn a regular clothes-pin. Do you suppose this is the latest fad in necktiery for men? Oh, indicates that those ties are washable, does it? Perhaps it does.

WOMEN'S WORK, WOMEN'S CLUBS.

State Conference of Women.

The women of the California conference of the United Brethren church, which is now holding its forty-seventh annual session in this city, will hold an all-day missionary convention today in the church at Figueroa and Seventeenth streets, where the conference is in session. There will be addresses by Mrs. A. A. Haskell of Oakland, Mrs. L. Harter of Sacramento, Mrs. L. S. Woodruff of Stockton, Mrs. E. S. Eby and Mrs. H. A. Dowling of Los Angeles. Mrs. R. M. Zuck of Riverside is president of the organization.

What Is Culture?

Dr. Newell Dwight Hillis, in an address the other day to the graduates of Berkeley Institute in Brooklyn discussed the obligation of the educated girl to society.

"We are assembled to confer these diplomas," he said, "as the outer sign of an inner culture. Matthew Arnold defined culture as 'familiarity with the best that has been thought, and said, and done,' plus the full power to use and enjoy this knowledge and translate it into terms of life. The first claim is that upon the intellect, and the soul's first duty is to grow. The second obligation is that of service. Society owes no girl a living, but every girl owes society both a living and a dying—through service."

The other day I chanced to sit beside a woman of broad experience and culture at a club luncheon. In commenting afterward about the table talk and our companions, she remarked: "What cultured women they all were," and then, after a moment, she added: "Do you know how I define 'culture?' Briefly, it is that habit of mind which is able to distinguish between the great and the trivial."

I thought that was the best definition I had ever heard, and quite equal to that other one of what constitutes good manners—the habit of being kind.

Festival of Apollo.

The final programme of the Friday Morning Club for the year will be given next Friday at the clubhouse, followed by the annual luncheon. Preparations are going forward for the presentation of a delightful entertainment — the Greek festival of Apollo adn Venus. Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Scovel will direct a part of the programme, together with a group of young girl dancers, of which the awakening scene from "Pygmalion and Galatea" will be a feature.

Club members will assume the part of the Nine Muses. The stage will be set with the rear doors open, disclosing a Grecian courtyard with fountain playing in the middle distance.

Roasts the Husbands.

"The girl grows to womanhood, but the boy never grows up," observed Mrs. M. E. Johnson in her response to the toast "Masters of the Situation," at Ebell luncheon the other day. "I know a woman who went East last fall on a visit and left a perfectly good husband. She was away two months and in that time that man had contrived to get pneumonia by going without his overcoat, lost twenty pounds, and turned Socialist—just because his wife wasn't here to look after him. It never would have happened had she been at home. Ladies, we promise to love, honor and obey, but we have to create in our husbands that which we can love, honor and obey in order to fulfill our marriage contract."

Returns from Yosemite.

Mrs. Thomas B. Stowell, newly-elected general curator of Ebell, has just returned from a trip to Yosemite with her husband, Dr. Stowell, of the University of Southern California.

City Teachers' Club.

The City Teachers' Club has planned a summer course of section work, two departments of which opened yesterday—that of the drama, under the direction of Mrs. Mila Tupper Maynard at the Cumnock School, and of Dr. Susan Balfe on parliamentary rules, in the senior clubrooms of the Y.W.C.A. building. Miss Ida Leonard has charge of the section devoted to the education of the speaking voice and the interpretation of literature, which was organized last Saturday.

Mrs. Maynard's work will deal with Ibsen's dramas, "A Doll's House," and "Ghosts." Dr. Richard Burton's course of lectures, which comes next month at the Cumnock School, may be included in the summer course if desired. A large number of teachers are availing themselves of these opportunities.

Church Women's Cooking.

The women of Union Avenue Methodist Church will give a demonstration of their home cooking next Saturday afternoon in the social hall of their church, at the corner of Union and Court streets, when there will be opportunity to secure at bargain prices cakes and pies and salads and all sorts of delicacies made by their own fair hands. This church is struggling bravely, under the splendid leadership of Rev. Robert J. Coyne, to lift its indebtedness, and the women of the congregation take this means to help do their share.

Class Party.

Engagement Announcement.

The engagement of Miss Marietta Gould and Floyd Rittenour was recently announced at a charming luncheon given for the bride-elect by her sister, Mrs. Arthur T. Campbell of North Gramercy place. Covers were laid for ten of the most intimate girl friends of the bride-elect, and cupid cards announcing June 26 as the wedding date surprised all.

Miss Gould is a graduate of the Los Angeles High School. She later continued her studies at the University of Southern California, where she became a member of the Redivva Club and took an active part in all college affairs. She was graduated in '09, receiving honors in Spanish, besides honorable mention. After completing a year of post-graduate work, she accepted a position in the Visalia High School, where she has been teaching Spanish and German for the past two years.

Mr. Rittenour is a graduate of Ohio Wesleyan University, and a member of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity. After graduating, he taught in the high school at Delaware, O., and later took the chair of chemistry in Ohio Wesleyan University. He came West and was interested in mining in Arizona, where he remained five years. Twelve months ago he came to Visalia to take charge of the science department in the High School, and next year will be vice-principal.

A simple home wedding has been planned and Mr. and Mrs. Rittenour will leave immediately following for the East, where they will spend the summer with relatives and friends.

Pretty Hollywood Wedding.

Miss Harriet Celestine Keliher, daughter of Mrs. M. A. Keliher of No. 1911 Bronson avenue, Hollywood, became the bride of Edward Jeffery Gilleas yesterday morning at 8:30 o'clock in the Church of the Blessed Sacrament. High mass was read by Father Ford, assisted by Father Murphy.

The bride appeared leaning on the arm of her brother, Lester Keliher, who came from the University of Michigan for the occasion. She was attired in a gown of white crepe meteor, with a court train. It was trimmed with pearls and draped with duchesse lace. Her veil was caught in her hair with orange blossoms and reached to the hem of her garment. She carried a handsome shower bouquet of bride roses and lily of the valley. Her maid of honor was Miss Maybell Sullivan of Toledo, O. Miss Sullivan wore a gown of white charmeuse satin with an overdress of pale-green marquisette. Her hat was of green and white chiffon with clusters of lily of the valley, and she carried a shower bouquet of Killarney roses and lily of the valley.

Miss Mabelle Lewis and Miss Loretta Young assisted as the bridesmaids, wearing gowns of imported pink tissue cloth made panier effect. Their dainty pink bonnets were trimmed with pink rosebuds and they carried baskets of pink sweet peas and maidenhair, tied with immense bows of pink tulle over their arms.

Little Marian Keliher, sister of the bride, dressed in a white lace frock over pink, was the dainty flower girl and scattered rose petals in the pathway of the bride.

Ned Marsh acted as the groom's best man. The groomsmen and ushers included Otto Keliher, Benjamin Sellars, Leo McLaughlin and Frank Jenal.

The church was beautifully decorated with thousands of pink carnations and ferns, which were banked in the rear of the altars. Groups of pink hydrangeas and potted ferns added much to the artistic decorations. Potted palms were placed in the aisles. The seats holding the families of the bride and bridegroom were topped with greenery and white satin ribbons, while those of the guests of honor were topped with clusters of carnations and tied with large pink tulle bows.

An elaborate wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents after the ceremony. Dainty hand-painted cards marked places for the bridal party and members of the two families. The tables were decorated with Killarney roses, fern, pink tulle and pink-shaded candelabras.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilleas left for a trip to San Francisco, after which they will be at home to friends in Hollywood after August 1.

Off to Europe.

Mr. and Mrs. U. T. Clotfeller will leave for New York this morning on a three months' trip to Europe and will sail on the Mauretania, July 2. They will visit the British Isles, Holland, Germany and France.

HIS ATTITUDE IS CHANGED.

Man Charged With Having Reviled Flag Asserts He Merely Denounced Government—No Jury Trial.

In a penitent mood was J. A. Bost, alleged I.W.W. agitator, when taken before Police Judge Frederickson, yesterday afternoon, to plead to a charge of having reviled the flag, preferred against him several weeks ago by Plainclothesmen Wedge and Burgess. At that time he demanded a jury trial, and asked time in which to enter his plea.

"I did not mean to revile the flag," Bost declared yesterday.

He entered on a long dissertation on the position of the wage-earner and the policy of the government. He said that when arrested he was attacking the present form of government, not the American flag.

"I probably used the flag as a figure of speech to make clear my argument," continued the defendant, "and was misunderstood."

Bost commented on the beauty of the flag, saying that his father fought under and for it, and declared that the flag, as he looks on it, changes with different forms of government. In reality, he said, he had denounced the governmental system.

After Bost had withdrawn his request for a jury trial, saying he is willing to be tried by the court, Judge Frederickson asked him if he would be willing to plead to a charge of having disturbed the peace.

While Bost was making an evasive reply, Capt. Murray, admonished the patrolmen against swearing to such a complaint.

"I don't care to have the officers change the complaint," said the captain, addressing the court.

"Why not?"

"This complaint is good enough," answered Murray.

"That is for me to determine," replied the court.

"Then I would suggest you dismiss it," said Murray.

"I will not do that either," returned the judge. "I am competent to handle this court."

to sit here and listen to abuse and misstatement?" he said, addressing himself to the court. Appel continued speaking.

"If this is to be a court of justice let us have justice and let the trial proceed according to law," thundered Capt. Fredericks. "How much more have I got to stand? How long shall I endure the insults of the other side?"

Fredericks then started to pick up a heavy ink well as Appel sat down. Rogers grasped Fredericks and strove to calm him. The bailiff seized the other arm of the wrathy prosecutor. Finally they got him to resume his seat.

JUDGE REBUKES APPEL.

Turning to Appel, Judge Hutton said: "Mr. Appel, your personal attack upon Capt. Fredericks was entirely uncalled for."

The judge did not rebuke the prosecutor. Appel continued to speak and Ford declared it was the duty of the court to stop the defense lawyer.

The prosecution scored a victory yesterday when the court ruled that the State did not have to give up its dictograph transcript to the defense as requested by Rogers. There was an elaborate argument on the subject, the lawyers going back several hundred years to the old Roman and English law. It was stated by Darrow in the course of his remarks that it was very apparent that the prosecution wanted to hold the dictograph testimony over his head to prevent him from taking the witness stand in his own behalf. It would not have that effect, said the defendant, for he proposed to tell all that had occurred in connection with the alleged bribery.

Asst. Dist.-Atty. Ford declared it would be an unheard of proceeding to allow the defense to secure private documents belonging to the Federal government and loaned the authorities of this county. "To corroborate Harrington we must produce witnesses who will testify they heard such and such conversations," said Ford. "The document now in our possession shall not go to the defense."

Darrow maintained the Federal authorities had nothing to do with the case. He said Harrington came to Los Angeles to manufacture evidence and that the document in the hands of the District Attorney was presumably not a correct report of the conversations between himself and Harrington.

"This conversation has been reduced to writing," continued the defendant. "The prosecution holds it as a threat over my head so I won't testify. One has a right to testify in one's own behalf and I intend to exercise that right. The State has no right to keep that for rebuttal. It belongs to the evidence in chief and cannot be held up the sleeve of the State as a magician would hold a coin."

Rogers declared he wanted the document to aid him in further cross-examination of Harrington. He said he wanted to get the witness to admit that the evidence was manufactured at the Hayward Hotel, when the talk between Harrington and Darrow was supposedly recorded by means of the dictograph. Rogers subpoenaed Capt. Fredericks to produce the document in court.

PROSECUTION WINS.

Judge Hutton after praising the counsel on each side for their elaborate arguments said that he did not think under the circumstances that the mere copy should be introduced. He pointed out its apparent unreliability and the fact that the State had not evinced any intention of offering it as competent. He also said he did not believe it lay in the discretion of the court to dictate how the evidence should be brought forward by the prosecution. This ruling was made about 4 o'clock after arguments had been made all day.

When the jury returned Rogers first asked Harrington about Detective Berlin of the Burns Detective Agency. The witness said he knew him. Presumably the defense will call the man to contradict some of the statements made by Harrington.

Harrington was also asked again about his possible connection with jury bribery. He positively denied it. He also denied he had ever offered to be a secret agent for Burns.

The inquiry then went into the purported conversation at the Hayward in which Darrow is declared to have made some damaging admissions to Harrington while two reporters in another room were taking down the words that passed between the two men. He admitted that Darrow had not stated he was responsible for the Lockwood bribery. After a long series of questions along this line, Rogers again demanded the dictograph record, but the request was refused.

As soon as Harrington is disposed of this morning, the State will call Detective Sergeant Biddinger of Chicago. Burns and other detectives will probably follow. The State will finish its case this week unless there are further interruptions.

MELON MARKET SLUMPS.

Imperial Valley Shippers Say It Is More Profitable to Feed Cantaloupes to Hogs at Present Prices.

Imperial and Coachella melon shippers are complaining to the produce men of this city that they cannot ship cantaloupes at the present prices, which range from $1.50 to $2 a crate. The season was a little backward in Imperial Valley this year on account of the cool weather, but now the melons are ripening rapidly and the crop promises to be one of the heaviest ever produced there. The slump in prices in this city came Monday as the result of big shipments.

The shippers say they will feed their melons to the hogs rather than accept prices which leave no margin after commissions and freight are paid.

When the melon season opened the marketing concerns in Imperial and Coachella announced that they hoped to so distribute the melons as to cause no slump, that it was their desire to have the growers get a fair price. The season dragged and lapped over into the Mexican season, with the result that competition was keen.

Then came very warm weather and the fruit ripened too fast for an equal distribution throughout the United States and the most of the stock was rushed to the nearest markets, Los Angeles and San Francisco catching a large part of the over-ripe stock.

ite, or bitulithic pavement. This company's agent here is G. E. Galene. He has been staying at the Westminster.

The story reached Horton that Galene had said Baker could be bought. Detective Browne went after Galene and he admitted that he had said this. "Then buy him," said Browne, and he handed Galene $500 in $100 bills, the numbers of which had been taken. Galene was told to make an appointment with Baker for yesterday afternoon at the Westminster, and he did. Baker kept it, coming from Santa Monica especially to meet the bitulithic man They walked into room 38 and began to talk.

"All this time," said Browne yesterday afternoon, "I was in room 37 and listening to what was said. I heard Galene offer the money to Baker if the latter would agree to see that next Monday night the City Council at Santa Monica would pass an ordinance the form of which was supposed by Baker to be especially favorable to Galene's concern. I heard Galene pass the document over to Baker and I heard Baker agree to accept the money."

Then the detective slipped out of the room and down to the street, where he had an automobile waiting. A few minutes later Baker appeared with Galene. Browne stepped up and introduced himself. "I would like to see you at the District Attorney's office on a matter of business," said he. Baker did not demur, but went to the automobile. Just as he stepped aboard he opened his hand.

DROPS THE MONEY.

"I was watching him," said Browne last night, "and as he opened his hand something fell from it, struck the running board of the machine and lay there. It was the money. 'Pick it up,' I said. 'It isn't mine,' he answered, but he picked it up when I told him to. The proposed paving ordinance was found in his pocket."

Baker was taken before Horton and closely questioned. Presently, when Galene joined the group, the questioning was resumed by Horton, and he said last night that a satisfactory statement had been received.

"Baker made a complete and comprehensive confession," said Horton.

The prisoner was not taken before a justice last night, but was jailed and his case may be laid before the grand jury pending formal complaint in the lower court. The penalty provided by the codes in case of conviction is imprisonment for not less than one nor more than fourteen years.

Baker is a member of the Santa Monica Masonic lodge, having passed through the various chairs, is rated one of the enthusiastic Eagles, and is also a Moose. He has a wife and daughter.

NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE AIDS NATURE AND KEEPS THE SCALP CLEAN FROM DANDRUFF

Reasonable care and effort are all that are required to enable almost any woman to have good hair. When the hair falls out and is stringy, uneven, dry, brittle and generally unsightly, the condition is nearly always due to dandruff and the germ that causes it.

Before the hair will grow naturally and luxuriantly, the scale-like accumulation must be removed and the dandruff germ destroyed. That is what Newbro's Herpicide does. It is an aid to nature. Herpicide keeps the scalp clean, adds a softness and luster to the hair which indicates health. It not only prevents the hair from falling out but causes it to become one of woman's greatest charms.

Beautiful hair and lots of it may be the reward of every woman willing to devote a little personal effort to the use of the First and Original Dandruff Germ Destroyer. Herpicide stops itching of the scalp. It has an exquisite odor.

You can obtain a trial size bottle and booklet telling all about the hair by sending 10 cents in postage or silver to The Herpicide Co., Dept. S, Detroit, Mich.

NEWS REPORTS FROM CORRESPONDENTS OF THE TIMES.

Pasadena.

LAST COMPANY FALLS IN LINE.

Pasadena Concerns Willing to Sell Water Plants.

Society Wedding Is Attended by Fifty People.

Four Boys Arrested for Various Petty Thefts.

PASADENA, June 26.—Stockholders of the Pasadena Lake Vineyard Land and Water Company yesterday began voting on whether or not they will sell the property of the company to the city for $621,622.21. It is the last of the three companies to vote upon the city's propositions and at the close of the day the vote stood 2097 shares in favor of accepting the offer, and 1005 opposed to it, with 717 more favorable votes to be secured to make the necessary two-thirds majority. The holders of 2219 shares or stock have not voted as yet.

The result so far is rather surprising to a great many, as it was generally felt that this company would vote against accepting the city's offer, although both the Pasadena Land and Water Company and the North Pasadena Land and Water Company, the two others whose holdings the city desires to take over if the bonds carry at tomorrow's election, voted to accept the respective offers.

"I think it is yet a little too early to conclude what the result of the election will be," said Prof. C. M. Parker, president of the Lake Vineyard company, last night. "The stock of the company is widely scattered and much of it is owned by persons living in the East, who are now away from their homes. It may be some time before all are heard from."

In order to allow sufficient time, the Council yesterday adopted a resolution extending the offer of the city thirty days.

Whether condemnation proceedings will be instituted at once if the company declines to sell and the bonds carry is a question that Mayor Thum was not prepared to answer last night.

"That is something that would be taken up with the Water Committee," he said. "Of course the whole campaign has been pretty well shaped out, but at this time there is nothing that I can say for publication about that."

FASHIONABLE WEDDING.

The marriage of Miss Ethel Hinds, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Edwin Hinds, and Robert Casamajor was solemnized yesterday evening at the home of the bride's parents in Prospect Square at 7:30 o'clock, the ceremony being performed by Dr. Robert Meredith in the presence of fifty relatives and friends. Later a formal reception was held to which 500 guests were bidden.

Appropriate bridal music was furnished by an orchestra, and to the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March the bridal party entered the music-room, where the ceremony was performed.

Miss Jessie McCament and Miss Margaret Mears acted as bridesmaids, the former gowned in pink chiffon, veiling satin of the same shade, and the latter in blue chiffon in similar fashion. Each carried baskets of pink sweet peas and forget-me-nots, carrying out the color scheme of the wedding—pink and blue. The matrons of honor followed, Mrs. Edward J. Sheehan and Mrs. Henry Doty, sisters of the bride, wearing gowns of pink and blue taffeta veiled in shadow lace, and carrying sheaf bouquets of Killarney roses.

The maid of honor, Miss Dorothy Hinds, also sister of the bride, wore a gown of pink marquisette and carried a shower of pink sweet peas. The bride, who entered on her father's arm, wore an exquisite gown of white satin with rose point lace and pearls. Her tulle veil was fastened with a spray of orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of bride roses and lily of the valley. Frank Fackenthal acted as best man and the ushers were Messrs. Robert McBeth, Gordon Hatch, Sam Hinds, brother of the bride, E. J. Sheehan and Henry Doty.

During the reception, which was attended by the elite of Pasadena, an elaborate collation was served. Later Mr. and Mrs. Casamajor left for a wedding journey and they will make their home in South Pasadena after their return. The bride, who is a favorite in society circles, has been the recipient of much social attention since the announcement of her engagement, and the groom has made many friends here during his residence of two years.

IN THE TOILS.

Four Pasadena boys were arrested yesterday by Police Detectives Betts and Schultz, charged with numerous thefts of bicycles and wireless telegraph equipment. One is accused of having taken the saddle and handlebars from the bicycle of Patrolman W. H. Woolen.

They are Edward Powell of No. 277 North Michigan avenue, 15 years of age; Clyde Servey, of No. 238 North Holliston avenue, 15 years of age; Valdemar Pough, of No. 1714 Santa Barbara street, 15 years of age, and Harry Walters, of No. 171 North Holliston avenue, 14 years of age. They were all taken to Los Angeles, where their trials will be held in the Juvenile Court.

For some time reports have reached the police of thefts of various parts of wireless telegraph equipment and it was believed that the material had been taken by boys that had wireless stations of their own.

TO AMEND ORDINANCE.

The City Council yesterday asked the Board of Health to draft a proposed amendment to ordinance No. 1655, which shall make it unlawful for any resident of the city to keep more than two head of stock, horses, or cattle, within 300 feet of any other dwelling than his own. It is thought by the Councilmen that some exceptions to the rule should be made, and the terms of the amendment will be left to the Health Department.

As some doubt existed as to the legality of such an action, the Council yesterday referred the recommendation of the City Board of Commissioners that $50 be appropriated to entertain the fire chiefs when they visit the city, September 12, to Mayor Thum and Councilman Root for further consideration.

CITY BRIEFS.

L. H. Turner, president of the undertaking firm of Turner & Stevens, has been elected president of the Board of Trade, to succeed R. D. Davis, who has been in office for two terms. William F. Knight becomes vice-president, to serve for the ensuing year, and C. J. Hall, treasurer.

The Mendelssohn Club will meet at the North Congregational Church tomorrow night.

LIVING MODELS WILL PARADE.

VENICE TRUSTEES MANIFEST INTEREST IN BATHING SUITS.

Ordinance Offered Which Will Greatly Abbreviate the Present Dress and Officials Want a Demonstration Before the Measure Pending Is Made a Law.

VENICE, June 25.—As a result of the bathing-suit ordinance introduced at the session of the City Trustees last night by Trustee McCarver, a forecast of which was given exclusively by The Times, young women models wearing bathing suits of the latest design may parade before the city dads during their next session.

Trustee McCarver placed a draft of his bathing-suit ordinance, No. 407, in the hands of the City Clerk, who read it to the body. It requires all women who disport in the surf to wear bathing suits of "suitable heavy material which will not cling to the person," with a skirt at least fourteen inches below the waist. This bathing suit must also be not lower in the neck than two inches below the shoulder.

Men must have bathing suits with skirts reaching to the knees, with the same provisions regarding the neck. A heavy penalty, $300 fine, or imprisonment for six months, or both, hangs over the heads of breakers of this proposed ordinance. It passed its first reading last night.

If the ordinance as it now stands is made a law, there will be more to see on the beach than ever, for no one cares anything about masculine charms revealed, anyway, and many say that it is an act of mercy to most men to compel them to cover their legs above the knee.

But the principal thing is that the women's bathing suits will be more of a short thing of beauty. A skirt fourteen inches below the waist will mean, for the average female bather, a skirt ten inches above the knee, and lovers of the trite in ocean costumes are rejoicing that a sensible ordinance in this respect is in prospect of passing.

Charges hurled across the table between Trustees that they were not competent judges of bathing suits nor of the wearers thereof, brought an offer from Trustee McCarver to bring into the Council-room the latest in bathing suits, those worn in Atlantic City, Palm Beach, and other ocean resorts.

Mayor Holbrook then stated that the best plan was to bring living models, attired in the latest in surf suits, into the Council-room, and this plan may be followed.

BEES ROUT ENTIRE FAMILY.

Sierra Madre Man Makes Ineffective Effort to Corral Two Herds of Honey Makers.

SIERRA MADRE, June 25.—Joel Branscombe ranches close to the mountains of this town. Tesire of himself and wife has been to raise bees.

This opportunity came last evening when two swarms settled on the branches of some apricot and lemon trees. Calling to his assistance his faithful spouse, Joel sallied forth to capture the busy insects. Both arrayed themselves in armor. Madam covered her head with a gunny sack and pulled on a pair of kid gloves. Joel said he understood bees and merely tied a couple of handkerchiefs over his face and neck and encased his hands in a pair of socks.

The first swarm was captured with very little trouble and placed in a covered soap box. The second or larger swarm caused the mischief. In stooping to place the first installment of bees in their new quarters Branscombe sneezed. He sneezed so hard the handkerchief on his face slipped and exposed his sun-burned nose. Eight or ten bees got busy and made a vicious assault on this sunny blossom. Joel uttered a yell and swatted right and left. He swatted so hard and blindly that he knocked the gunny sack from his wife's head. She started to say, "Honey, what's the—" She got no further, but uttered a scream and made a bee-line for the house.

In the meantime, Joel sought shelter in the barn. The bees followed. They lighted on a mule. The animal kicked the side of the barn down and made for the open. Joel dove into a stack of hay. When found, fifteen minutes later, only a pair of dangling legs could be seen. Neighbors who assisted him to the house failed to recognize their former-cadaverous friend. His now-rotund face wears a perpetual Taft smile. The redness thereof is like unto the Colorado Johnson apples. His efforts to tell his experience and love for bees, brings forth deep guttural sounds. Honey will be purchased this season in the Banscombe household.

Long Beach.

MERCHANTS AND STOCK ARE GONE

Long Beach Men Disappear Owing Many Bills.

Twenty-five Contractors Declare for Open Shop.

Jury Names Irregularly Handled Are Thrown Out.

LONG BEACH, June 25.—When representatives of the Los Angeles Board of Trade called today at the meat market of Chambers Brothers on East Broadway, to investigate the cause for non-payment of accounts with wholesale merchants of Los Angeles, they found a deserted shop, completely denuded of stock, except twenty-five pounds of corned beef.

Investigation shows that the two young men had for a month carried on a credit business with wholesalers, sold the supplies they received at any price they could get, collected their outstanding accounts, and skipped out Saturday night with between $500 and $700 cash. They even sold their store fixtures and bicycles, purchased on the installment plan.

The two brothers, Joseph and Wallace Chambers, came here over a year ago with their parents and sought employment with H. C. Stuart, a meat man. They were bright, quick and faithful, and when a few weeks ago they left Stuart's employ it was with regret on his part. "We have found something that pays better" they told their employer, and it proved so.

The two boys opened a meat market in the eastern part of town and profiting by their acquantance with meat salesmen had no difficulty in securing a line of credit, especially as they were located in a promising neighborhood. They paid their first bills promptly, and larger orders were sent them without question, one order received last week consisting of fifty sides of bacon and forty hams, a large order even for one of the big houses.

This stuff was unloaded by tempting prices made to every one with whom they had an acquaintance. Hams, bacon and lard, on the plea of being overstocked, they sold at less than packing-house prices. They disappeared Saturday, and their parents have no idea of their whereabouts.

FOR OPEN-SHOP.

Resenting the efforts of agitators and walking delegates of the building trades to hamper building activities in Long Beach by ordering union men to quit work unless Long Beach was made a closed town, twenty-five of the largest building contractors met last night and signed an agreement to stand by an "open-shop." The agreement which was given publicity today is as follows:

"We, the undersigned, members of the Master Builders' Association and contractors in the city of Long Beach, do hereby declare absolutely in favor of open-shop.

"G. D. Sanford, Charles A. Reed, G. L. Crandall, C. J. Hargis, W. T. Barton, R. J. Craig, Long Beach Home Builders, Marcus Campbell, Henry S. Leavitt, A. L. Dutro, W. E. Babb, James W. Reed, W. Jay Burgin, L. C. Fausey, W. D. Lambert, Long Beach Improvement Company, C. B. Smith, W. E. Merrill, Robert Bedford, Miller Brothers, W. B. McCracken, W. R. Kimball, George H. Brooks, C. W. Broadbent, T. H. Forrest.

"The above-named contractors will give preference to mechanics who live and have their homes in Long Beach. Address communications to Contractors' Committee, No. 143 East Broadway, Long Beach, Cal."

ADMONISHED.

According to all reports the Police Commission, which has been kept busy investigating charges against various members of the police force had a warm time this morning. The session was held behind closed doors and the commission say that what was done is of no interest of the public.

It is learned, however, that Patrolmen Law and Raney, accused of giving false testimony on behalf of Sergeant Gallemore, were on the carpet, and were given a fatherly admonition to be more careful in future. Ex-Sergeant Gallemore through counsel asked for a re-hearing of his case, but this was denied.

JUURY DISCHARGED.

With the remark that "the circumstances were most extraordinary," Police Judge Hart this afternoon dismissed the jury venire in the case of F. L. Holmes, charged with violation of the liquor law and will order a new venire. The one dismissed was ordered early in June and was returned by Officer Remelt on June 4, but instead of giving it to the court Remelt turned it over to Sergeant Gallemore, who says that he in turn delivered the list to the Mayor, who kept it until Hart began an inquiry of his court officer as to its whereabouts. Today Remelt acknowledged that his return on the venire shown to be June 4 was in reality not signed until yesterday, but he could not remember by whose orders.

SHORT NEWS.

The Council Charter Revision Committee and the Commission Club held a conference today and reached an agreement whereby an election to select fifteen freeholders to draft a charter along the lines of commission government will be avoided. The agreement was that the Council Committee of seven and the Commission Club's committee of seven should join forces and jointly select a fifteenth member and as freeholders draft the charter proposed. The joint board then elected Miss Jane Harnett, a member of the High School faculty as the odd member and this agreement will be presented to Council at its next meeting for ratification.

HAY FEVER So many patients have applied to Drs. Shores & Shores for treatment lately who have not known what their trouble was, that Drs. Shores have decided to explain the symptoms, effects and treatment of Hay Fever, that all may tell it at a glance.

In the beginning of an attack of Hay Fever the patient experiences a sense of uneasiness about the nasal passages, with a slight disposition to sneeze. Gradually these symptoms increase, and often there is intense itching of the nasal passage, with a profuse watery discharge, which necessitates the constant use of a handkerchief. In aggravated cases the discharge drips continually from the nose, later the mucous membrane becomes so congested that the secretions present a grayish color. The inflamed mucous membrane naturally causes more or less stenosis, or narrowing or closing of the nasal passages, which adds greatly to the discomfort of the sufferer, oftimes the nasal passages are entirely closed up.

If the patient lies on the side, the nasal passage which is uppermost becomes open, while the fluids collects in the parts below; or if the patient lies on his back and the flow passes to the rear portion, causing a complete stoppage of the nasal passages. The fluids which escape from the nose are often irritating around the opening of the nose and lip and very frequently give rise to irritation around the nose and lip, and sometimes even result in eczema. The eyes become congested and the lips red and itching. If the disease is allowed to run, an attack of asthma often sets in. The asthmatic symptoms are usually confined to the night time, although the waking hours are often characterized by shortness of breathing, which the patient describes as wheezing.

Hay Fever is a treacherous disease and yields quickly to this wonderful treatment. Every sufferer from this insiduous and deceptive disease should consult Drs. Shores & Shores at once. RIGHT NOW is the favorable season for quick cures.

San Bernardino Socialist Not Afraid of Trial.

Trouble Comes From Voting on Gas Ordinance.

Man Has Frightful Experience on the Desert.

SAN BERNARDINO, June 25.—George R. Chambers, Socialist-Democrat member of the City Council is to be tried July 1 before the Socialist local. He has received formal notice, the charge being that he called "Comrade Socialists petty grafters." "Will I be there, well, I should say not," exclaimed Chambers, when the question was put: "These people have already 'tried' me and have pronounced their judgment. I shall not waste any of my time on such petty business."

Chambers stirred the Socialists to wrath because he voted to enact an ordinance fixing the gas rate at $1.15, when the city's expert informed the Council that the companies could make a profit at $1.05, though such a rate might drive one company to the wall. Then he charged that certain prominent Socialists were trying to get him to "ram through the Council motions which would benefit them in a financial way."

SAVED BY SHERIFF.

Dr. B. D. Wylie of Calzona has just come through a frightful experience on the desert, being saved from death from thirst by Sheriff Jeff Adams of Phoenix. The doctor's horse ran away, leaving him stranded many miles out on the desert. The physician chased the animal for ten miles before being forced by exhaustion to give up the chase. Then he wandered, lost and helpless, delerium finally seizing him. The horse reached Wittenberg, where it arrived with the saddle under it. Sheriff Adams quickly went in search of the lost man, at the head of a posse. They searched for three days. When about to give up Sheriff Adams, as a last effort, discharged his revolver. A faint call for help was heard. Following in the direction of the sound, they came upon Wylie, emaciated and helpless. He had lost fifty pounds within the three days of his delirious wanderings. He will recover.

HOSPITAL HEAD.

The Board of Supervisors have reappointed Dr. P. M. Savage as superintendent of the County Hospital to succeed himself. Jefferson Taylor of Ontario and C. H. Covell of Redlands were appointed members of the County Board of Education, also succeeding themselves. Dr. Savage will be permitted to carry on his private practice, a privilege which was withdrawn from the superintendent when Savage was appointed, for the reason that it was found that county patients were in danger of being neglected. The Supervisors today rejected the claim of $130 filed by O. E. Slinack, a Los Angeles accountant, for reporting a new system of bookkeeping to the County Auditor and Treasurer.

FOR HUSBAND'S PARDON.

Mrs. McDavit is circulating a petition asking the County Board of Pardons to release her husband, Dr. A. W. McDavit, dentist, who has served six months of a year's sentence in the County Jail. McDavit was convicted in connection with keeping Miss Jessie McDonald and her infant incarcerated for fifteen months in a room adjoining his offices, where the infant was born. The parole board comprises the District Attorney and Sheriff. They act favorably on such a petition when the committing judge or magistrate made written approval, but not otherwise. In this case it is not likely that Judge F. F. Oster, who sentenced McDavit, would approve his release.

SHORT NEWS STORIES.

Dr. J. R. Liverman has resigned from the Board of Health, and he states that A. B. Wise and J. F. Hamilton had also agreed to resign. It is believed that the wholesale resignations planned are due to a lack of support accorded the board with which to keep up its work. One feature which called for $50 monthly was the employment of a milk inspector. This support could not be obtained. Mayor Bright and Chief of Police Mespelt state that the resignation comes as a surprise to them.

The City Council plans the installation of another fire station. The new station, which will be provided with a fire automobile truck, will be located at Third and I streets, in the new business district, of the western part of town. This step is advocated by the business men in order to reduce the cost of fire insurance. It is believed that with an additional department, giving the city four fire stations, the business men and property owners generally will be in a position to carry two-thirds of their own insurance.

The suit of W. P. McIntosh against William M. Curtis and others, to restrain the defendants from building a cement flume where the Mill Creek canals was washed out by a storm of two years ago, was formally dismissed this morning. The plaintiff explained that he has found that the work complained of has not done the damage anticipated. Under a modification of the original restraining order the defendants have been able to complete the flume.

BIG BARBECUE.

The opening of the San Lucas bridge across the Santa Ynez River, on the San Marcos pass road, between Santa Barbara and San Luis Obispo, will be celebrated July 4 with a mammoth barbecue, at which the entire Santa Ynez Valley will gather. Santa Barbara is invited to attend, and many persons will take a thirty-five mile round-trip ride for the purpose of participating in the auspicious occasion. The bridge is one of the new-style hinged steel and concrete affairs, five spans, and about 1000 feet long. It is said to be the handsomest structure of its kind on the road between San Francisco and Los Angeles. It cost more than $50,000. The improvement means that, for the first time, there is a certain outlet from Santa Barbara to the north in all kinds of weather. After heavy rains, the river was sometimes too high to ford.

MAKES MANY ARRESTS.

Corona Official Vigorously Follows Up the Keeper of Blind Pigs—Mexican Is Assassinated.

CORONA, June 25.—City Marshal Alexander arrested seven men last night and placed them in jail. One confessed to running a blind pig and was fined $150.

During the two months Alexander has been in office he has secured $1128 in fines for the city, and in handling over fifty arrests, in every case but one the offenders have pleaded guilty and paid their fines without the expense of a trial.

MEXICAN SLAIN.

A Mexican named Ticho Bega shot Mike Compos through the neck, at the intersection of First and Howard streets, last night. Compos was hurried to the Riverside Hospital and all possible help given him, but he died today. Bega has not been apprehended, and, as usual among this class of people, nothing is known as to the cause of the shooting, but it is thought to be the outcome of an old feud.

NEWS BRIEFS.

The Corona Country Club building is being enlarged by an annex on the west side, 24x36 feet. Three sides will be fitted with sliding windows to admit plenty of light. The floor will be of hardwood and the walls wainscoted to the height of five feet. Charles A. Holloway is in charge of the work, and it is expected the new room will be ready for use in about a month.

Frank Reeves is building a modern bungalow on his lot near Seventh and Howard streets. It will have seven rooms and will cost about $1400.

OIL RIGHTS ARE INVOLVED.

Lands of Considerable Value in Olinda District Are Subject of Litigation at Santa Ana.

SANTA ANA, June 25.—Quiet title suits involving valuable oil lands in the Olinda district have been begun by the Industrial Oil Company against Burdette Chandler and Nellie Gird as executrix of the estate of Richard Gird. One suit against Chandler questions his title to 100 acres of land. Another action asks judgment decreeing that Chandler and the Gird estate have no interest in a lease given by the Richfield Oil Company in 1898 to Charles Victor Hall and George J. Owens.

SPARE THOSE TREES.

A protest was received by the Supervisors from a committee of the Tustin Improvement Association against granting a permit to A. D. Burge to cut a row of pine trees at the edge of the street adjoining Burge's place. Burge says that the trees damage his orange trees for a row or two in from the street. Supervisor Leck of Tustin declared that the old-timers of Tustin value the magnificent street trees of Tustin, and personally he would prefer cutting up a row of orange trees to cutting a row of shade trees. The permit was not granted today.

NEWS BRIEFS.

The Supervisors today granted permission to the Anaheim Automobile Club to use county roads for auto races on the Fourth of July.

The City Trustees last night granted a petition for paving with asphalt eight blocks of Bush street, north of Fifth. The petition contained a majority of the frontage.

Manuel Bombela today pleaded guilty to murder in the first degree, and tomorrow will be sentenced, probably to life imprisonment. Bombela killed his brother-in-law, Apolonio Valles, near Los Alamitos on March 31, because Valles took the part of his sister in a quarrel between his sister and her husband, Bombela. Valles was stabbed twice with a knife.

E. W. McCollum was found guilty of passing a $30 no-fund check on A. E. Hawley of Santa Ana last February, and will be sentenced tomorrow. An effort to convince the jury that McCollum was insane from drink failed. McCollum lived at Alhambra.

TO VOTE ON SCHOOL BONDS.

Orange School Trustees Name Fifty Thousand Dollars as the Amount Needed for Building.

ORANGE, June 25.—The trustees of the Orange Union High School District last night called an election for July 17 to consider voting $50,000 bonds for a polytechnic high school. A proposal had been made for Orange to join with Santa Ana in building a polytechnic high school, but County Superintendent of Schools R. P. Mitchell advised the trustees that the plan was impossible under the State law at present unless the two districts became one district for managing not only the proposed polytechnic school, but also both of the high schools now in operation. The trustees did not think that the Orange Union High School District wanted to enter the plan upon that basis.

Riverside.

SEEKING NEW CONNECTION.

Pacific Electric Would Build Line to Riverside.

Route Selected Does Not Meet Universal Favor.

Park Commissioner Quits After Years of Service.

RIVERSIDE, June 25.—That the Pacific Electric is seeking to effect a connection between Riverside with Los Angeles by way of La Habra, was revealed today in a petition presented to the City Council by property owners for the abandonment of forty feet in the center of the avenue between Harrison street and the city limits.

The Mayor and Council were unanimous in denying the petition, the effect of which would be to give the road a private right of way and to close the street intersections.

It is understood that the same form of petition will be presented to the Board of Supervisors, covering the distance over Magnolia avenue as far as a point this side of Corona.

The petition was signed by eleven property owners, representing the entire frontage, with one exception. The supposition is that the company had assurances of receiving deeds from these owners as soon as the city should abandon the avenue as prayed for.

OTHER TROLLEY NEWS.

Work will be started July 1 on the rebuilding of the Magnolia avenue line between Riverside and Arlington. The present steel will be replaced with seventy-five-pound rails. The work is estimated to cost $125,000, and probably six months will be required to complete the work. An eight-inch rock ballast will be used.

It is announced also that work on rock ballasting the line over Colton avenue to Highgrove, which will ultimately be extended to Colton, will be commenced in July. The cost of this work is estimated at about $25,000.

FOR LOWER GAS RATES.

The member of the City Council representing the Arlington section today moved that a uniform rate be charged for gas in all parts of the city, so as to make possible a reduction at Arlington, where a higher rate is charged. The motion failed to carry, the Mayor venturing the opinion that the company was entitled to the rates now charged. In order to encourage extension of mains to Arlington, the people of that section signed contracts for a higher rate than prevailed in Riverside.

CITY OFFICIAL RESIGNS.

William T. Henderson, who has served the city in the capacity of Park Commissioner for the past three years, has tendered his resignation to Mayor Peters, on account of the press of private business. Mr. Henderson has been very active in his efforts in behalf of Fairmount Park, which was recently improved by the expenditure of $30,000 provided through the sale of bonds, and has been instrumental in working up sentiment favorable to the furnishing of band concerts by the city. An appropriation was made today which will insure Sunday concerts through the month of July.

THINKS CITY IS FAVORED.

Phillip J. Mullen of Sacramento, who will superintend the construction of the Riverside Federal Building, has established offices in the First National Building. He expresses himself as favorably impressed with the plans, and declares Riverside is fortunate to have an appropriation of $110,000 for the work. "It compares favorably with any of the Federal buildings I have seen," says Mr. Mullen, "while its location could not be better."

HUNTING MURDERER.

The officers of this county are searching for one Tichio Bega, who is wanted for the stabbing of Cirilio Eyguihua at Corona. The wounded man died of his wounds yesterday, and a Coroner's jury today brought in a verdict to the effect that he had met his death at the hands of Bega.

COLTON.

COLTON, June 25.—Miss Esther Andrews and Elmer Von Eiff of Los Angeles were married a week ago at Santa Barbara, Rev. Moore, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, performing the ceremony, and although the bride was the daughter of Mrs. Joseph Andrews of this city and had lived here practically all her life, the wedding was kept a secret from their friends until today, when Mrs. Andrews announced it. Mrs. Von Eiff was a graduate of both Colton grammar and High Schools, also of the State Normal at Los Angeles and for the past year had taught the San Salvador school here. Von Eiff is in charge of the billing department of Haas, Baruch Company, Los Angeles, where the couple will make their home.

Drinking Men Are Failures

The Man Who Drinks Jeopardizes His Business, or Risks the Loss of His Position.

He may desire to stop, but the craving for alcohol has become so much stronger than the will power that he cannot free himself of the appetite and physical necessity for alcoholic stimulation.

Employees who drink are in many cases valuable men, but for the drink habit, which renders them so often unreliable. Instead of discharging these men who are a valuable asset to business, send them to the Neal Institute and pay the fee necessary, so they can receive the benefit of the Neal treatment, which will relieve them of all appetite, craving and necessity for drink in three days, without the use of hypodermic injections—and make them dependable at all times.

For full particulars call at the Los Angeles Neal Institute, 945 So. Olive street, or write or phone G. U. Neal, Mgr., for Dr. Neal's free book. Phone Broadway 4602; A4072.

LOCAL PRODUCE MARKET.

Eggs advanced 1 cent a dozen on the Produce Exchange yesterday, the new range for local being from 19 to 26 cents, and for outside from 21 to 24 cents. Butter was steady, prices remaining unchanged. Owing to a falling off in receipts the past several days and a continued heavy demand an advance in butter is expected.

The high price of Eastern cheese has caused an unusually heavy demand for California cheese, chiefly that designated as "Northern." Prices of Eastern cheese are said to be higher on account of a supposed combination of producers in Wisconsin, from which this market draws heavily under normal conditions. Fresh Northern cheese was easy yesterday at 17½ cents. Eastern ranged from 19 to 21 cents.

Cantaloupes declined on the exchange to $1.50 and $1.60 a pony crate and to $1.75 and $2.00 a standard crate. This drop was made in the face of somewhat curtailed receipts brought about by Imperial producers refusing to ship at prices they claim are too low for profit.

Plums arrived in large quantities for the first time this year. The receipts amounted to two carloads. They sold on the street from $1.50 to $2.00 a lug box. Apricots were scarce, owing to overdue shipments. These will arrive in time for the market this morning. Cherries were very scarce, the crop being about cleaned up. The mainstay of the market yesterday was cherries in fancy packages from the Santa Clara Valley. Prices were unchanged. A few grapes arrived. A fine assortment of green figs came from Signal Hill, selling at $1.25 a ten-pound box on the street. Black figs were in ample supply, coming chiefly from Visalia and Imperial.

In vegetables the situation was unchanged from Monday. Corn, beans and cabbage were plentiful. Peas were scarce and poor, with little demand. Okra moved readily at 10 and 11 cents a pound on the street, showing a drop of 2½ cents over Saturday. Tomatoes were cleaned up early. A carload will arrive this morning to augment local and regular Imperial receipts. A carload of watermelons arrived yesterday and another is due to arrive today. Watermelons declined on the exchange to 2 and 3 cents a pound. Northern yellow Danver onions were listed yesterday at $1.25 a sack. Asparagus advanced to 9 and 11 cents a pound, the supply being small with little demand.

Receipts of the leading produce staples were: Eggs, 272 cases; butter, 23,950 pounds; cheese, 4306 pounds; potatoes, 330 sacks; beans, 36 sacks.

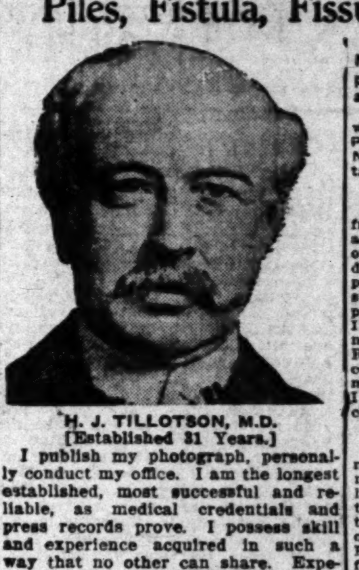
Piles, Fistula, Fissures and Hernia



H. J. TILLOTSON, M.D.
[Established 31 Years.]

I publish my photograph, personally conduct my office. I am the longest established, most successful and reliable, as medical credentials and press records prove. I possess skill and experience acquired in such a way that no other can share. Experience is the safe standard by which judgment should be valued.

NO MONEY REQUIRED TO COMMENCE TREATMENT. Many patients have no confidence in their doctor because he demands pay before a cure has been effected, and there are many who have been misinformed about their condition, or through unsuccessful treatment have become skeptical and think there is no cure for them. I want an opportunity to treat such cases. It makes no difference about the financial part, as I accept pay for my services as benefits are derived, when I am satisfied the patient is reliable. I will prove my ability to cure you before asking pay for my services.

Most Time Saving, Most [illegible] Most Safe. No Detention from Occupation, Family or Home. A [illegible] and Permanent Cure.

I invite you to come to my office. I will explain my treatment for Hernia, Piles, Fistula, Varicose Veins, Pelvic, Nervous, Blood, Kidney, Bladder and Rectal Diseases.

Piles, Fistula, Rectal Diseases

These diseases are very common, frequently found in persons of middle or advanced age; are exceedingly annoying, often very painful, and sometimes very dangerous, and frequently unfit one for pleasure or occupation. My treatment successes are the result of years of experience: my treatment is kindly applied. I cure Piles without cutting. If I do not cure your Piles, Fistula and other Rectal Diseases, my treatment does not cost you anything. Gentleness in treatment comes from treating many cases. I guarantee a cure of Piles, Fistula, Ulcers and all curable Rectal Diseases.

Trusses Seldom Cure Rupture

Disregard for existing Hernias has cost many lives. The smallest hernias are the most dangerous, because of the increased liability to strangulation. I am aware that a great deal of fraud has been practiced in connection with the alleged cure of rupture. I say positively that I cure Rupture, to stay cured. I cure with perfect safety, and entail no suffering, and do not detain you from occupation.

WRITTEN GUARANTEE

Dr. Tillotson's written guarantee means a cure or no pay for services. I guarantee to cure certain diseases or refund every dollar you have paid me. My services cost you nothing unless I cure your Varicose Veins, Hernia, Piles, Fissures, Fistula or any disease I guarantee to cure. My terms are reasonable and no more than you are willing and able to pay.

SHARE MOVEMENT DULL AND HEAVY.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET REPEATS PERFORMANCE.

Less Attention Paid to Politics and More to Crops and Trade Conditions—Copper Shares Are Under Pressure—Atchison Submits a Favorable Report.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, June 25.—In practically every essential feature today's stock market repeated yesterday's performance, with the exception that the movement was duller and the undertone more heavy. Lowest prices were registered in the morning, after which some slight hardening was observed, but the outcome was relatively unimportant.

Less attention was devoted to politics and more to crops and general trade conditions. Continued sunny weather in the northwest is benefiting all cereal growths in that section and the railroads are making ready to move the expected heavy tonnage. Copper shares were once more under pressure by reason of the highly speculative condition now prevailing in the metal trade here and abroad.

The Atchison road submitted a very favorable report of earnings for May, the net increasing by $661,000, which was made possible to a great extent by a saving of $250,000 in operating expenses.

The Southern Railway made a net gain for the same month of $53,000.

Announcement was made after the close of the market of the declaration of the regular quarterly dividend on Anaconda copper.

Bonds were irregular. Total sales, par value, $2,074,000.

United States government bonds were unchanged on call.

New York Curb Stocks.

[Special Service to The Times by E. F. Hutton & Co., Members N. Y. Stock Exchange, 118 West Fourth street, Los Angeles.]

NEW YORK, June 25.—[Exclusive to The Times.] The curb market was featureless with the exception of Mason Valley, which advanced sharply on what seemed to be good buying. Giroux was weak, selling down to 5¼, closing 5¼@5⅜. The majority of the issues were fairly active at times.

The Boston market showed uncertainty at the opening again, reflecting the easy tone of the metal in London which brought about extreme dullness on the slight recessions. It is the belief that Copper Range will increase its dividend again next Monday.

Selling agencies and producers are not inclined to book future sales into the last quarter of this year. Yesterday's break in London metal prices has caused some withdrawal of orders by consumers, but sellers who quoted 17¼@17⅜ yesterday returned to the ⅝ basis in the late afternoon. The feeling here is that metal will be selling at 20 cents before snow flies, and that the shares will act in accordance and show splendid advance:

Following are the closing bid and asked prices:

INFORMATION

For Newsmen, Inquirers, Subscribers and Advertisers, Agents and the General Public.

SCOPE AND AIMS:

THE TIMES PUBLISHES REGULARLY more pages of news and other reading matter and a larger volume of advertising than any other paper extant.

DISTINGUISHING FEATURES: Independent, uncompromised, unshackled, unpurchasable, unafraid and unincumbered. THE LOS ANGELES TIMES is devoted to the great principles of Liberty under Law, Equal Rights in all fields of lawful human endeavor, Industrial Freedom, and to the upbuilding of Los Angeles, the State of California and the great Southwest.

AS TO LABOR: The Times is the undeviating friend of all honest toilers—of all unshackled law-abiding workers everywhere; and while never denying the right of workmen to organize lawfully, it is the unyielding foe of lawless, proscriptive, monopolistic and exclusive labor organizations, because they are the selfish enemies of their own class and of the common industrial weal. Our position is unmistakable and will be maintained. The long record of The Times as a just, liberal, reliable paymaster is unassailable. During the period between August 4, 1890, and September 30, 1911, there was paid to our loyal and well-satisfied non-union workmen, in salaries and wages, the telling aggregate cash sum of $4,268,319.17—mainly to skilled labor.

SWORN CIRCULATION: Daily net average—seven days, Sunday included—for 1896, 18,091; for 1897, 19,258; for 1898, 26,124; for 1899, 25,731; for 1900, 26,73?; for 1901, 26,648; for 1902, 36,8?0; for 1903, 38,340; for 1904, 37,708; for 1905, 42,180; for 1906, 50,501 copies; for 1907, 53,311 copies; for 1908, 52,300 copies; for 1909, 54,854 copies. Sunday average for 1910, 88,132 copies. Daily and Sunday average for 1910, 57,?58 copies. Average circulation every day for first three months of 1912, 80,?88 copies.

AGENTS: Eastern Agents, William, Lawrence & Cresmer Co., Brunswick Building, 4th Ave. and 26th St., New York; 824-25 Harris Trust Bldg., 111 West Monroe St., Chicago. Washington Bureau, 46 Post Building (THE TIMES on file.) San Francisco Office, Room 1286 Call Building: R. J. Bidwell, Representative.

THE ILLUSTRATED WEEKLY: Published on Saturdays; 40 pages; distinct and complete in itself "The Unique Magazine of the Sensuous Southwest." Mailed to subscribers separately from the Daily Times for $2.50 per year, postpaid. Single copies 10 cents, postpaid.

TWO SPECIAL OFFERS: From and after this date an extra copy of the Los Angeles Times Illustrated Weekly will be MAILED FREE FOR SIX MONTHS upon the order of any person, whether an old subscriber or a new, who contracts to subscribe for the Daily and Sunday Times for one year and pay the price, $9.00, in quarterly installments of $2.25 each, in advance. Or, with a full year's subscription to the Daily and Sunday papers and $9.00 cash in advance, an extra copy of the Illustrated Weekly will be sent free for 12 months. This is an exceptional opportunity, good for a limited period, to serve a distant friend and at the same time do good missionary work for Los Angeles.

TELEPHONES: Counting-room, Subscription Department, Editorial Rooms, City Editor and Local News Rooms—Sunset, Main 8200; Home 10391.

TERMS: Daily and Sunday, 75 cents a month, or $9.00 a year. Daily without Sunday, $7.50 a year. Sunday alone, $2.50; without the Illustrated Weekly, $2.50. When the Sunday issue is mailed, the Illustrated Weekly is mailed separately, a day in advance.

POSTAGE: On the regular week-day issue (2 or 3 parts.) 2 cents; on the Sunday issue (3 parts.) 7 cents.

PRICE OF EGGS TO SOAR HIGH.

LOCAL AND EASTERN RECEIPTS BELOW NORMAL.

Consumption This Year Is Heaviest Ever Known—Dealers Seek Supply From Middle States but Say Consumer Must Pay More Than Ever Before This Summer.

With the gradual falling off in egg receipts from local points, as is usual this time of year, there is not a corresponding increase in receipts of eastern eggs, the market now being 150 carloads short as compared to this time last year.

Eggs from the East have been coming in slowly. The daily average is three carloads. These are chiefly from Minnesota and Iowa, and it is said they are difficult to get, owing to heat and other unfavorable conditions prevailing in producing States.

The Middle West, including Kansas, Texas and Nebraska, is expected to contribute little to the California summer egg supply, which local producers cannot meet by three-fourths the consumption. Weather conditions in the Middle West have not been favorable to egg production this spring and indications are that conditions will become even less favorable as the summer advances. Hot weather over Kansas, Texas and other States of the belt is given as the chief cause.

Local receipts are below normal for this time of year, egg dealers claiming that the growth in population of this city and vicinity without a corresponding increase in egg production is the cause.

Dealers say consumption this year is the heaviest ever known, and that the people will have to depend largely on eastern eggs this summer and until the hens here begin to lay.

To meet this demand efforts are being made to buy more eggs in the East. Regardless of unsatisfactory conditions in many of the States it is the belief that by drawing on other States, where hens are laying and prices reasonable, the expected shortage in the Los Angeles market can be met.

As to prices, predictions are that local ranch eggs will reach, if not exceed, the usual high price, above 50 cents a dozen. Fresh eastern eggs now selling from 18 to 25 cents wholesale will likely go to 40 cents a dozen this summer, and storage to 35 cents. An advance in local eggs yesterday brought the range in prices to 19 and 26 cents a dozen. Outside eggs were raised to 21 and 24 cents.

SUGAR FROM MEXICO.

First Carload of Season in—Shipment May Cause Drop in Local Market Prices.

The first shipment of panoche sugar of the season arrived from Mexico yesterday and sold readily at $3.50 a crate or eight cents a pound. This sugar will, it is believed, have an influence on the local market and a drop in sympathy with a recent decline in New York is expected.

The first shipment consisted of one carload. The sugar is made from Mexican cane and is considered by sugar men the best brown sugar on the market. It was shipped in bales of a net weight of 125 pounds.

The sugar industry in Mexico is understood to be growing rapidly and Los Angeles is accepted as the best place of distribution. The sugar comes in small cones but can be easily granulated.

July Fourth Excursions.

Round trip tickets at greatly reduced fare on sale July 3d and 4th, with return limit July 7th, between all stations where the one way fare is $10.00 or less; July 2d and 3d, with return limit July 8th, between all stations where the one way fare is over $10.00. Southern Pacific.

DAMAGE REPORTS SEND WHEAT UP.

PRICES IN CHICAGO ARE MATERIALLY ADVANCED.

Corn and Oats Do Not Show Any Appreciable Change Either Way. Free Selling on Part of Large Packing Concern Has a Depressing Effect on Provisions.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, June 25.—Wheat prices rose today in response to crop damage news from the northwest on both sides of the Canadian line. The close was steady, ⅛@⅜ to ¾@⅞ higher than Saturday night. Corn finished unchanged to ⅛@⅜ up, oats varying from a shade off to a shade advance and provisions at 5 to 10@12½ decline.

September wheat fluctuated from 1.04⅛ to 1.05⅜, with last sales ⅜ net higher at 1.04⅞@1.04⅞.

September corn ranged from 71⅝@71¾ to 72⅝@72⅞, closing easy at 72, unchanged from Saturday night. Cash grades were in better demand. No. 2 yellow was quoted at 75@75½.

September oats swung between 40@40⅛ and 40⅜, with the close a shade net lower at 40⅛.

Rather free selling on the part of a big packing concern had a depressing effect on provisions. When the day ended pork was less expensive by 10@12½, and the rest of the list down 5 to 7½@10.

Cash quotations were as follows: Flour steady. Rye—No. 2, 82@83. Barley—Feed or mixing, 60@73; fair to choice malting, 90@1.05. Timothy seed, 7.00@9.50. Clover seed, 14.00@20.00. Mess pork, 18.62½@18.75. Lard (in tierces,) 10.80. Short ribs—(loose,) 10.00@10.50.

Grain Statistics.

Total clearances of wheat and flour were equal to 365,000 bushels. Primary receipts were 624,000 bushels, compared with 906,000 bushels the corresponding day a year ago. The visible supply of wheat in the United States decreased 1,718,000 bushels for the week. Estimated receipts for tomorrow: Wheat, 20 cars; corn, 657 cars; oats, 244 cars; hogs, 29,000 head.

THE COPPER INDUSTRY.

London copper closed firm. Spots, £77 2s 6d, up 1s 3d; futures £78, up 2s 6d. Sales, spots, 500 tons.

Local selling agencies and producers are treating recent decline in copper abroad with indifference. United Metals Selling Company, Phelps Dodge, and other large concerns are quoting electrolytic thirty days' unchanged at 17⅝. All large producers and selling agencies in this country are fully sold up to the latter part of August. Large tonnage of copper also has been sold for delivery in September.

American Smelting & Refining strike at Perth Amboy is over. Men are clamoring to return to work. Many have been taken back and the entire force should be at work by Thursday. Company gains victory as men receive virtually no increase in pay. It is expected that the works will be operating under normal conditions in a few days.

Our Houghton correspondent reports, "The No. 3 lode at the Adventure was encountered at just about the point where the calculations made over two years ago located it. The surrounding formations accord almost perfectly with those of the twod rill cores. Its distance from the shaft is something over 850 feet. The copper is of a satisfactory quality and a great deal of heavy mass was disclosed, the drills being withdrawn three or four times on account of the massiveness of the metal. The findings of both drill cores have proved correct, as the No. 3 lode has made the best showing. Drifts will soon be started on this lode.

"At No. 2 lode the faces of the two drifts are both in good copper ground.

"The production of the old workings was discontinued January, 1908. From June, 1909, seven drill holes were put down in an effort to find the Lake lode, resulting in the discovery of the three Adventure lodes. Beside these three that have been located by shaft or crosscut, another was cut about 100 feet below No. 1. This last, which was of good width and quality, has not yet been explored. No. 1, where intercepted by the shaft, gave a most encouraging showing, but when drifted upon did not prove up to a commercial standard.

"The equipment is ample for the present. The shaft is vertical and of the Kimberly type, similar to that of the Red Jacket shaft of the Calumet and Hecla, and is one of the best in the copper country."

Our Salt Lake correspondent wires, "D. C. Jackling of the Utah, Ray and Chino companies just returned from a visit to the properties says:

"'Chino, by July 1, should be treating 3000 tons of ore a day. The fourth section will go into commission sometime in July and the fifth section in August. Heads are averaging above 2 per cent. copper.

"'Ray Consolidated is working splendidly, averaging 4000 tons a day and during August output should reach 5000 tons a day. Mill extraction is 71 to 72 per cent. and grade of ore soon expected to reach 2 per cent.

The Greene Consolidated, the chief subsidiary of the Greene-Cananea, published its report for 1911, as follows:

	1911	1910
Tons treated	936,962	1,013,318
Pounds copper	44,367,466	45,080,145
Pounds per ton	48	45
Cost per pound	9.84c	11.51c
Profit	$1,026,951	$459,232

The production is that of all of the companies and the profit that of the Greene Consolidated only, but inasmuch as the Cananea Central is hardly in a position to pay dividends, the above profits are practically all that will accrue to the shareholders of the Greene-Cananea.

The feature of the report, as in past years, is the continued improvement in operating efficiency. This is particularly true of the reduction division, where costs have dropped from $6.82 in 1907 and $3.86 a ton in 1908, to $2.57 a ton in 1911. The consequent reduction in the cost to less than 10 cents a pound is something for which the local management deserves the greatest credit.

It now remains for this company to obtain an output in proportion to its capitalization, and according to the figures for the last two months it is now on its way to do this, but still, however, has considerable distance to go in this direction.

There will be no increase in the Miami Copper Company dividend when directors meet for the purpose of ordering a second disbursement.

Roughly, Miami's net, figuring on an eight cent a pound profit, during May approximated $216,000. A full quarterly period at that rate of earnings would result in net applicable for dividends of $648,000, whereas but $375,000 is now required.

May production was about 2,700,000 pounds of copper, the highest output thus far reached. It compared to 2,583,000 pounds in April and 1,300,000 pounds a year ago, when the plant had been in operation but two months.

While all six of the mill units have been in operation they have not been run to full capacity treating but 3000 tons of ore daily. Extraction has not yet come up to expectations, but this is expected to be remedied.

"With current earnings running $200,000 or more over dividend requirements at the present dividend rate Miami will, of course, be in position to build up its treasury position.

May shipments of copper from Alaska were 1,720,391 pounds, which brought the total for the first five months of this year up to 14,455,589 pounds. This compares to 22,421,332 pounds during the last seven months of 1911, when shipments started in appreciable amounts.

In March nearly 5,000,000 pounds were shipped but in the following month shipments were down to the 1,000,000-pound mark because of irregularity of steamer sailings.

January	3,701,010
February	2,802,361
March	4,987,916
April	1,243,911
May	1,720,391
Total	14,455,589

Practically all of the copper shipped from Alaska has been produced by the Guggenheim properties, although the smaller and lesser known companies have contributed to the tonnages.

New York Cotton Market.

NEW YORK, June 25.—[Exclusive to The Times.] The market ruled about 10 to 12 points higher during the early trading today, due to buying by Liverpool and a better set of Liverpool cables than due. Weather map showing rain of nearly four inches at Atlanta and nearly two inches at Macon attracted considerable attention. The feeling around the ring was that these were not needed and in connection with the Journal of Commerce report on Georgia this morning they tended to create uneasiness as to the eastern belt conditions.

New Orleans turned easy during the middle of the afternoon and selling orders from there in connection with hammering by the local ring crowd caused a reaction to about last night's closing quotations, but enough scattering buying orders on the scale down were encountered to check the decline at that level and a slight rally followed.

Logan & Bryan say:

"Some bullish developments in cotton today induced quite active short covering in the forenoon and more aggresive on the part of the bulls that resulted in an advance of about 10 points. After the weekly weather bulletin was announced the market eased off on profit taking, as it indicated conditions during the week were favorable to crops. The next official report will be important and the market will likely be narrow until it is known.
